America a free speech forum for everyone

By John W. Whitehead "Congress shall make no law...abridging the freedom of speech...or the right of the people peace-ably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances."—First Amendment to the U.S. Constitu

The United States has historically stood for unfettered free speech, which is vital to a functioning democracy. Unfortunately, the tendency on the part nent and law enforceof governi ment officials to purge dissent has largely undermined the First Amendment's safeguards for political free speech. The Occupy Movement, and the government's response to its encampments in public spaces, perfectly illustrates the fact that there is no longer any such thing as unfettered free speech in America today.

The very fact that protesters have had to resort to occupying various public spaces in order to open up a national dialogue about issues of concern says a lot about the state of the First Amendment, or rather the sad state of it. Moreover, the heavy-handed police response to the Occupiers shows the degree to which the corporate state will go to silence

to power

these protesters and discourage any further uprisings. There was a time when communities had town squares—public areas where people gathered to exchange information, ideas, and do business. These served a vital function in America's history, allowing opinions and ideas—whether good or bad—to be aired and debated. Yet as areas once open to the public have been overtaken by state and corporate interests, traditional public forums for free speech have all but disap-peared. Town squares have been replaced by private shopping malls and parking lots, neither of which are reely accessible to individuals hoping to voice their views. Consequently, protesters, even those not engag-ing in civil disobedience, are shut out, sometimes forcibly, from public areas, while attempts to peaceably assemble are overburdened by government regulations and permit requirements. Furthermore, the court-sanctioned use by the government and private entities of so-called "free speech cones" to isolate protesters, even in public parks and college campuses, makes clear that the right to speak freely in public has eroded. Concentrating, monitoring and minimizing the effects of protests are the real reasons for using designated protest zones. Obviously, protesters are only perceived as dangerous because their message challenges the status quo. It's the message that is feared. Thus, efforts to confine and control the dissenters are really efforts to confine and control the effect of their messages, whatever those might be This is true whether they're challenging environmental policies, free trade agreements or the political cam-paigns of candidates running for public office. The right of political free speech is the basis of all liberty. It's the citizen's right to confront the government and demand that it alter its policies. But first, citizens have to be seen and heard, and only under extraordinary circumstances should free speech ever be restricted.

Historically, societies have always benefitted when the right to speak freely was secured rather than curtailed. These free speech forums provided groups and individuals of all political and ideological persus sions a physical space to be able to come together to speak their minds.

However, somewhere along the way, Americans Inswerd, somewhet and importance of these free speech forums. For example, Fancuil Hall, once the staging ground for revolutionary fervor, now requires individuals hoping to use the venue to submit an "Event Application" form at least thirty days in advance of proposed events.

advance of proposed events. No matter what your political persuasion may be, every American has a First Amendment right to speak their mind, gather together and protest against govern-ment programs with which they disagree. As such, there are really only three ways to deal with a govern-ment that doesn't listen to the voters: one, you can be uncivil—showing up at a controlled event and shouting, heckling, and creating a disturbance and otherwise raising hell; two, you can engage in civil disobedi-ence—staging sit-ins, refusing to pay taxes, etc.; or the final option, which is no real option at all and which we don't want to see happen, is violence.

Unless we act now to preserve the freedoms enshrined in the First Amendment, not only the right to freedom of speech and assembly but the right to petition one's government for a redress of griev ances—and by that I mean something as simple as picketing in front of City Hall, then I fear we will see the third option played out, outright violence, which will play right into the government's hands, when institution of police state tactics. What can you do? Right now, the best thing you can do is sound the alarm. Form local citizens groups in your community. Educate your neighbors on their rights and inform them about the grave possibilities face as the police state aura grows stronger. Continue to voice your discontent to your representatives at the local and state levels, and in Congress. Most of all, stay informed and exercise your right to redress your grievances with the government while you still can. It's fine to occupy public parks, but it would be far better to occupy city council meetings and congres sional offices.

Possible record turnover in Congress

By Martin Frost Every few years, someone advances

the idea that this will be the year that the public is so fed up with politicians in Washington that they go to the polls and vote against all incumbents.

It has never happened before, but this could finally be the year. The failure of the supercommittee is just one more example of how totally dysfunctional Washington has become. Certainly the stage was set with the embarrassing "perils of Pauline" conclusion to the fight over raising the debt ceiling this summer. The debt ceiling was raised at the last minute, but part of the deal was to create the supercommittee to come up with additional deficit reduction by Nov. 23. Now that effor has failed. Public approval of Congress has sunk to 9 percent. As my friend forme Congressman Tom Davis of Virginia points out, this is down to family and nd former friends. Or as the late Congressman Bill Lehman of Florida used to remind his colleagues, he was a used-car dealer before he was elected to Congress and didn't think he could fall any further in public esteem. But he did. I remember 1994 – the year a very large number of Democrats were voted out of office and the Republicans took control of the House for the first time in 40 years. I had spent much of the spring that year back in my district in Texas, talking ters. I told my campaign consultant in May that it was time to do a poll. I could sense the discontent. He assure me all was well and that a poll could wait. I insisted.

The poll came back showing me barely ahead of a totally unknown c lenger, 38 percent to 33 percent. We chalimmediately ramped up my reelection effort, and I survived with 52.7 percent of the vote. Many of my Democrat colleagues never saw it coming and lost However, every Republican incumbent on the ballot was reelected. This year could be 1994, but with a twist - everyone is at risk, regardless of party affiliation. The public may finally have had enough. Not every incumbent will lose, but we could see a record turnover

Add to the mix that this is a redistricting year with many incumbents facing significant numbers of new voters who never have called their congressmar to help Grandma get her Social Security check or to help an uncle get into the local veterans hospital.

My advice to all incumbents regardless of party – is to run a full-ale campaign even if you have been reelected recently by large margins.

And as a part of that campaign, address the real concerns of real people in your district. Don't spend a lot of time talking about abortion, gay rights or gun control. Tell people how you are going to help them or their adult children who have moved back home find a job.

Tell them how you are going to make sure Medicare is there for them when they retire. The cost of health care is real to people, and it scares the hell out of them. And tell people what you are going to do to help the economy so that their 401(k) plans don't fall through the floor.

Large swings in Congress usually occur when one party is voted out of office and replaced by the opposition like what happened in 1994, 2006 and 2010. The public goes into the voting booth to punish a particular political phi-losophy. This time, they just may want to punish everyone who has been there.

I have never supported arbitrary term limits for federal officeholders, telling people that we already have terms limits and they are called elections. This may be the year when term limits are imposed by the voters.

Martin Frost was a member of the Texas delegation in the House from 1979 to 2005 and was Democratic Caucus chairman and head of the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee.

By Dr. Paul Kengo

This week hunters across America storm the woods loaded for deer. For yet another indication of how times have changed, consider this account of Deer

Season a half century ago: My mother's family lived in Empo rium, Pennsylvania, as did dozens of their relatives. Emporium is a tiny town nestled in the mountains near the north/ central part of the state. Back in the 1940s, when my mother was born, my grandmother had worked as a Rosie Riveter at the Sylvania plant. Some read-ing this article will remember owning a huge, heavy Sylvania TV—back when you got only three channels. Sylvania employed half the town. Farming was another means of employment, which my grandfather and his parents and nine siblings had done down the road in Rich Valley. Still, neither Sylvania nor farming nor anything else did much to populate tiny Emporium. Once a year, however, the place was flooded with people. That time of year was Deer Season, when out-of-town hunters arrived like an incoming Army, loaded with rifles and bullets. "Army" is a good metaphor, given that a large portion of the hunters were World War II vets. They came from the mills and mines of Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania. They came to shoot a deer. During that special week, Empori-um's streets were bustling, the bars were jammed, and churches had more people than usual, including St. Mark's, where hunters sought out the priest for a bless-ing before heading into the woods.

The lone hotel was full, leav ing hunters looking for lodging. Some packed into makeshift hunting camps. Some slept in their cars. Sleeping in a car was no big deal to guys who had fought in Germany, France, the Battle of the Bulge. Nonetheless, they searched for a place with a roof, heat, a bath--which brings me to my main focus

My grandmother always took in boarders during Deer Season. In fact, the whole town did. Up and down every street, hunters knocked on doors asking if the home was taking boarders. Bear in mind, these were complete strangers car-rying guns and lots of ammunition. And Around 5:00 a.m., my grandmother ade breakfast for the hunters, typically bacon and ham and eggs. yet, there was never any fear that they were a threat to a household. "I never heard of any problems

The meals were special. "I enjoyed the stories at night and breakfast in the morning as much as the hunting," says my uncle.

Then they were off to the woods. If they shot a deer early, some headed straight back to Pittsburgh, hoisting the gutted carcass atop the Oldsmobile Others, if they got a deer late, might return to the house, where my grandmother cooked up some venison. If they had no luck, they stayed another night or two. This scene was repeated in house after house in Emporium. My Aunt Della, who lived across the railroad tracks and river, took in boarders in an apartment above her garage. She tended to get the same guys year to year. I'm sure her Rigatoni and meatballs were a factor. Can you imagine this today? Any

In school, do drugs, involve themselves in illegal activities, etc. In that environment, is it any wonder that pedophiles or other abominable people can be found? Sexual assault of our children destroys their lives often. But, there are of sports and competition. Their education and grades suffer because they are involved in activities at school that take too much time from them. A kid in sports will practice in the afternoon, come home and try to eat, bathe, do homework. There is little time leftover. Years ago it wasn't allowed, but now there are sports related activities that bleed into Wednesday and Sunday and take away from a child's spiritual growth. In a nearby town, a young man was made to stay and watch game film instead of leave and get ready for church on Wednesday night. The boy's father did go and straighten the situation out, but his son was punished by the coach and playing time was taken away. Sadly, there aren't many yet willing to take such a stand. In most schools now, a kid can keep playing until he has an F in a subject. At that point he or she must bring the grade up before playing. Why have we allowed this? Why isn't there some intervention when approaching a C? Why not have sent a message to the world hat their lives aren't worth much. When adults don't act as adults, bad things happen. What does this have to do with the topic of pedophilia or other crimes against children? Because once you devalue the worth of a kid's life by ignoring bad grades, looking the other way when he drinks or does drugs, cl., you have sent a message to the world that their lives aren't worth much. When adults don't act as adults, bad things happen. When kides ill of ex-jocks who can't read and write above an 8th grade education. We have promoted sports to the point that many are willing to allow themselves to bat take a davantage of to please everyone. Where are the adults? Sadly, we are the driving force with what is wrong our children today. We must begin to reassees our priorities. We must yalue our childre promoted. Let us all aim for higher standards for our children. I'd rather have a mediocre team to cheer for than a bunch of kids who are flunking in school and no morals who win a lot of games. I pray that we would love ou children enough to do the best thing for them, no matter how much it night affect their sports involvement. Our children are so valuable, let our actions until now. Where were the adults? How do these things happen and no one says anything? There are a lot of underlying reasons. The biggest reason is that God has been pushed out of the school and the home. Of course we do it to ourselves as we become more materialistic and entertainment driven. Sports used to be and still can be a great influence on a youngster's life. He or she learns discipline, team work, leadership, and how to respond to authority. In the last lew decades, sports have become such a priority to many people. A win at any cost attitude is prevalent in our schools and in the professional realm. People turn their heads when star players flunk environment, is it any wonder that pedophiles or other abominable people can be found?

Jentry Shadle had a big night from the three-point line as she con-nected with three-three-point shots, which accounted for six of her 23 points on the night.

The ladies took full control at the onset and held the Lady Hornets to single digits in the first half of play. Offensively, the Lady Broncos executed well and turned up the heat on the defensive end of the court. "I thought we played well," coach Molly Weatherred said. # Broncos come up short against Highland Park dv Anderbe

Turnovers set the overtone for young Bronco team Tuesday night at Highland Park and contributed to their 45-58 loss to the Hornets.

After a slow-scoring first quarter, the Broncos found a little rhythm and were able to come back in the second and third quarters of play and narrow the point spread to only three with eight minutes to go. But the Hornets were able to take control of the momentum and hand the Broncos a loss.

"We had good effort," head coach Brandt Lockhart said. "We have to cut down on our turnovers and finish our shots."

Adam Topper led the Broncos and finished with 15 points and 15 rebounds for a double double. Cole Ward helped inside as well and racked up 13 points in the game. Cody Woods helped with nine and Wes Williams, Trajen Johnson, and Tyler Burch each had two, while Jonah Sell and Diego Santos put in one point each.

Earlier in the week in their season opener the Broncos lost to Bushland 33-66. The opening quarter of play ended in a one-point deficit for the Broncos, but the Falcons dictated the momentum in the remainder of the game. Santos and Ward finished in double figures at 11 and 10 points respectively and Wil-liams put in six. Johnson and Topper each had two. Also playing for the

Seventh grade Colts clobber Wellington

The seventh grade Colts played aggressive and intense ball at Wellington Monday and came home with a 23-15 win

"The seventh grade got off to a slow start shooting, but came out in the second half and used their defense to start scoring," coach Steve Reynolds said. Chance, Kean-dre (Cortez), Taylon (Knorpp), Riley (Shadle), and Clay (Koetting) work hard on both offense and defense. Playing Wellington is always a tough game.

Scoring: Lockhart 10, Cortez 6, Knorpp 6, and Shadle 1. The eighth grade came close to a win, but lost 13-19. Wellington was able to take advantage of the Colts' foul trouble and win the game. "The 8th grade fell behind early and got into foul trouble," Reynolds said. "Those guys played until the end and didn't quit. I am very proud."

Scoring: Bryce Hatley 6, Caleb Cobb 4, Jr. Ceniceros 2, and Chessor

Lady Colts split with Wellington

The seventh grade Lady Colts fought hard and earned a big win over the Lady Rockets at home Monday night. The 28-24 win put the ladies at 2-0 for the season.

The Lady Colts led the Lady Rockets for the entire game, but play was intense on both sides of the ball. Berkeley Alexander had a huge game underneath the basket and pumped in 12 points to lead her team to the win. The team worked hard and made a cohesive effort in the game. "The girls never stopped the entire game," coach Shanna Shelton said. "They worked together and got the win." Scoring: Alexander 12, Briana

Butler 6, MaRae Hall 4, Hannah Hommel4, and Sarah Williams 2.

The eighth grade fought hard, but was unsuccessful against Wel-lington and lost 10-55.

Bronco JV narrowly defeated by HP The Bronco junior varsity began their basketball season at Highland Park last Tuesday night and fell short at 34-40.

The teams were dead even at 26 points at the end of the first three quarters ofplay. But the Broncos fell behind in the final period and were overtaken by the Hornets. They only shot 50% from the free throw line, which hurt them on the scoreboard. Chance McAnear and Ashton Smith finished in double figures to lead the Broncos offensively with 16 and 12 points respectively.

"We didn't play bad for the first game," coach Alton Gaines said. "I thought the team played extremely hard. We just made a lot more mistakes than they did. The game could of gone either way, but we came up a little short this time. We will make adjustments to our game and be ready for the next one." Scoring: McAnear 16, Smith
