Randall receives 10-year sentence

A Clarendon woman received a ten-year sentence when the district court met here last Tuesday, November 29.

A contested revocation resulted the maximum sentence of April Randall.

District Attorney Luke Inman prosecuted the case for the State of Texas with the Honorable Judge Stuart Messer presiding.

Randall, 25, pleaded true to allegations listed in the State's Motion to Adjudicate Guilt of Defendant. After the plea of true, a punishment hearing was held where the State called one witness.

The State called Marci Mills, a probation officer with the 100th Judicial District Community Super-vision Corrections Department.

Mills testified that Randall had committed two other misdemeanor offenses which she had been convicted of after being placed on probation in the 100th Judicial District.

After all the testimony and evi-dence was presented, Randall was convicted and sentenced to ten years in the Institutional Division of the Texas Department of Criminal Justice.

On November 16, 2010, Randall originally pleaded guilty to the third degree felony offense of retaliation that occurred on July 17, 2010.

This criminal case stems from a criminal jury trial in which Randall's husband, Michael Randall, was convicted and sentenced by a Donley County jury on a sexual assault of a child, according to Inman.

"Victims and witnesses that come forward and testify in criminal proceedings must be protected," said Inman. "The Donley County Sheriff's Office was able to diffuse a hostile situation quickly and protect an eyewitness from April Randall shortly after the jury trial against her husband concluded."

According to Inman, Randall accosted a testifying witness at the Dollar General after Randall's husband was sentenced to 13 years in the Institutional Division of the TDCJ.

The State filed the motion to adjudicate on March 31, 2011, alleging one violation of community

Randall is also required to pay $437 in court costs to Donley County.

Shields said she was excit when Floyd approached her with merchants' idea

"It's excellent and wonderful," Shields said. "We really appreciate the businesses, and I certainly intend to do most of my Christmas shopping at home. The value of these local businesses is often overlooked. They are so valuable to our community."

Senior citizens centers are constantly in need of funds, but recent government regulations have put even more burden on these organizations. New dietary guidelines banning fried foods and canned foods means the local center needs about $5,000 in new equipment to prepare its daily meals.

"We also are looking at a new expense of $800 to $1,000 per month to deliver milk to everyone on Meals on Wheels." Shields said.

The government now requires that milk be included with each meal even if the client does not want the milk, she said.

A complete list of merchants participating in next Friday's fundraiser is not yet ready, but so far the businesses include: Every Nook & Cranny, Stavenhagen Video, Mike's Pharmacy, Country Bloomers & Gifts, Henson's, and Saves, Look in next week's Enterprise for m information.

Why isn't everyone in the streets

The tea party has morphed into a Hollywood production of "Silence of the Lambs," while Occupy Wallstreeters are in the streets fighting, in mostly a non-violent way, for their leftist causes

Instead of taking strong actions in support of conservative principles, most of my tea-party friends are apparently drinking the Kool-Aid of political commentators like Glenn Beck (who is dead wrong on this one), historically self-serving, hypocritical and self-proclaimed values conservative Bill O'Reilly (who reportedly had Fox News pay $8 million to settle his own sexual harassment case years ago), Sean Hannity and a host of others in what has become the so-called conservative voice on this issue. Their disdain for the left has perverted their thinking as they do "Hail Marys," apparently believing that a political messiah will descend to lead We the People to the promised land as the nation continues its downward spiral. "Well," as President Reagan used to say at the begin-ning of eloquent sentences expressing his truly great thoughts, these commentators are not leading us to the Promised Land, but instead the Land of Oz. Their wizardry in boosting the ratings of Fox News or GBTV by lashing out and whipping up hatred toward the Occupy Wall Street crowd may make for "good" television, but it is not serving the interests of the country during this dire period.

Last Thursday, Congress passed another piece of phony debt-reduction legislation, as Republicans again sold out the tea partiers. And, if you think the Repub-lican Party is going to produce a candidate that can defeat President Barack Hussein Obama, then think again. Even were this so, what makes tea partiers think that a Republican president will pull the nation out of its nosedive? Indeed, it was a Republican president, George W. Bush, and his power-hungry and constitutionally bereft vice president, Dick Cheney, who, after eight years of scandal during the Clinton era, contrib-uted mightily to sending America into its economic and strategic crash, both domestically and internationally. Then along came the "mullah in chief," Barack Hussein Obama, to put his socialist, radical-Muslim-loving icing on, and to finish off, the stale cake.

As we enter into the Thanksgiving holiday, the only turkeys who should have their necks on the chop-ping block are our so-called "fearless establishment

The volatile and bizarre Republican primary presidential race and polls help underscore why I am more than pessimistic that anyone will emerge to challenge Obama and his minions who can truly play a role in restoring our nation to greatness. Just look who is atop the polls this week - none other than Newt Gingrich and Herman Cain, having seemingly self-destructed over his weak defense of sexual harassment allegations by a host of "Gloria Allred inspired" women. Herman's response to the allegations reminded me of a scene in Woody Allen's first film, "Take the Money and Run," where the main character, Fielding Mellish, as a fragile young boy, steps on his own glasses and breaks them before the bullies could get there to do the job.

Just recently, unsurprisingly, it was revealed that Mr. Newt was in effect a lobbyist for Freddie Mac from 1999 to 2008, raking in a whopping $1.6 million dollars. As you may recall, Freddie Mac, along with Fannie Mae, are the two quasi-governmental stooge agencies that contributed mightily to the hous-ing mortgage bust and the world's resulting economic

The rest of the GOP field are a bunch of political The rest of the GOP field are a bunch of political pygmies, save for Mitt Romney. While Mr. Mitt is a good-looking distinguished guy who looks like a pres-ident, unfortunately his always-shifting stances and positions, his leftist past and his wooden-like personal-ity make his election as president less than certain, no matter what low confidence the American people have in Obama's handling of the economy.

So there you have it. There is no political messiah that can lead this nation back from the current state of self-destruction. And, even if there were, We the People - after decades of poor leadership save for President Reagan - cannot afford to sit back in our proverbial rocking chairs and wait for a real leader to emerge someday.

So why are Beck, O'Reilly, Hannity and others carping at the left for their Occupy Wall Street movement, when we conservatives also should be in the streets using peaceful civil disobedience to further our cherished goals - goals that were conceived of and inspired by God through our Founding Fathers?

Moses told the Egyptian pharaohs that their time was up and exited stage left to the "streets of the Sinai" with his flock, later finding God's Promised Land. And, Jesus, the son of God, died for our sins, leading His flock, mostly Jews who gravitated to him, to a new world and spiritual order. Are we revolutionaries like Moses or Jesus, or are we Fielding Mellishes, who step on our own glasses before the establishment bullies crush us, too?

Are we turkeys to be carved up by the establishment, or will we get up from the chopping block and represent with our own civil disobedience - in the eets - our own proper interests?

Clarence Thomas makes an impression

By Dr. Mark W. Hendrickson On Tuesday, November 15, Supreme Court Justice Clarence Thomas visited Grove City College. I had a choice to make – whether to meet him or attend to the tons of work I had to finish before several looming deadlines.

I don't share our society's fascination with famous people. I never go out of my way to meet them, and when I do meet them, I don't ask them for their autographs like some starry-eyed teen-ager. The father of a close friend once told me that every man, regardless of how important a position he may hold, puts his pants on one leg at a time. A person and the position that he or she holds are two different things, and the office does not automatically confer

I decided to set aside everything to meet Justice Thomas. This man has bravely and heroically defended the U.S. Constitution for the last two decades, and for this alone, he has earned my gratitude. It would have been selfish of me not to have taken a couple of hours out of my schedule to express my appreciation to him for his valiant efforts – especially since I would probably never have another opportunity to do so.

I arrived early at a private luncheon for the Grove City faculty and Justice Thomas. He arrived early, too, and since I was the only one there at the moment, he came up to me and we introduced ourselves. That was the beginning of an uplifting, inspiring day for me.

I can attest that Clarence Thomas is

The first question he asked me, when I told him that I taught economics, was whether I was familiar with the work of Ludwig von Mises. When I replied that I had earned my doctorate under Hans Sennholz, who had earned his under Mises, we were off to the races.

Besides economics, we compared notes about our upbringing. I had read part of Justice Thomas' autobiography and was amazed at some of the uncanny parallels in our lives. Both of us were raised not by our fathers but by older, stern male relatives who practiced "tough love" and even kicked us out of the house during our rebellious, angry, cheap-wine-drinking, socialist-leaning college years. As young men, we both had our Christian reawakenings, I should mention that my youth was not nearly as challenging as his, because he had to deal with the cruel racism that permeated the Deep South when he was a boy – an awful burden that he has transcended, largely through the Christian grace of forgiving those who had done

I am groping for words that do full justice to the impact that Justice Thomas had on those of us who listened to him in the intimate setting of small classrooms and other occasions. I wish you could have seen the way our students' faces lit up while listening to him. We have very mature, attentive students at Grove City College, but I have never seen them speaking with them. He shared wisdom personal vignettes, historical perspec-tive, and helpful insights, but there was another level of communication going on

It may sound corny to say this in this cynical day and age, but we were blown away by the sheer goodness and Thomas to be the epitome of humility, integrity, public service, and faithfulness - both to God and to the solemn responsibilities of his important office. In regard to the latter, Justice Thomas was always discreet, carefully withholding his personal opinions whenever a question was asked about an issue that the Supreme Court would be adjudicat-ing. He reiterated that his job was not to make rules for the rest of us - to presume to judge whether a law or appli-cation of a law was good or bad, wise or imprudent – but simply to determine whether it was constitutional

Before meeting Justice Thomas, I respected him immensely. After meeting him, my admiration grew exponentially. Again, call me corny, but I was affected in a spiritual way – like I was a better person for having been in the presence of this good man. I don't feel that way often.

Godspeed, Justice Thomas. And doing but also for who you are

Incontrovertible truth about deficit

Winton Churchill once said, "The truth is incontrovertible. Malice may attack it, ignorance may deride it, but in the end, there it is." Here's the incontrovertible truth about budget deficits: spending is (still) out of control.

The national debt is now more than $15 trillion. The budget deficit for this fiscal year alone will be more than $1 trillion. This mountain of debt is a growing obstacle to economic recovery and is literally crushing our children's futures. But for many in Washington, it's still business as usual. The same budget gimmicks and accounting tricks are being used to frustrate earnest attempts to rein in spending We cannot restore financial responsibility to Washington until we put an end to dishonest budgeting. That is why I have joined 20 Senators as a cosponsor of the Honest Budget Act, which will outlaw no fewer than nine commonly used tricks to hide unnecessary spending.

Here are a couple examples of the badly needed reforms that our Honest Budget Act would · Take down the Christ mas tree. This isn't to spoil the holiday season, but to halt adding tens of billions of dollars in pet spend-ing projects to emergency spending bills. Congress sometimes needs to make special appropriations to cover the costs of unantici-pated military operations or natural disaster assistance. These bills should be limited to true emergencies only.

• Outlaw the budget-practiced with three walnut shells and one pea, one of the budget games played most often is shifting funds-from one year to another, from one account to another to frustrate accurate counting. What it all adds up to is more deficit spending.

In total, these and other such gimmicks included in HBA have resulted in $350 billion in unnecessary spending since 2005 – all of it added to the national debt on which we – and our comment

children – will be paying interest for decades to come. The nine common sense reforms in our bill would require the budgetary game-playing, and prevent additional hundreds of billions of dollars of unnecessary and unauthorized spending.

Leaders in Washington remain divided over starkly different visions about the proper role of government in a free society and about the best approach for re-energizing our economy. This ongoing debate about the size, scope, and proper role of the federal government may not be resolved until the national elections in 2012. But the Honest Budget Act advances princip that Republicans, Democrats, and Independents can agree on: accountability, honesty, and transparency in spending taxpayers' money.

These common sense reforms are long overdue. Congress should enact the Honest Budget Act

Electrical safety tips from SWEPCO for holiday season

"The year's largest and most festive holiday season is upon us. In addition to the cheer, sharing and family togetherness, safety should be considered when decorating the house," says Scott McCloud, AEP Southwestern Electric Power Com-Southwestern Electric Power Com-pany (SWEPCO) communications consultant in Shreveport, La. "Elec-trical safety is especially important during the Christmas season due to decorative lights draped through trees and around homes." LED (light-emitting diode) string lighting uses about 90 percent less energy than standard incandes-cent string lights, which means the

Follow the manufacturer's instructions for using tree lights. All lights should be fastened securely to the tree, but never with conductive wire. Bulbs should not come into direct contact with needles or branches on natural trees. Though they don't entir much heat, it could eventually be enough to dry out the tree limbs.

 Select lights appropriately and never use indoor lights outside because they are not designed to be waterproof and could short circuit. Outdoor lights, on the other hand, are usually hotter than indoor and could pose a hazard if placed on a

Vascular Health Support
When the structural integrity of the vascular system is challenged, problems such as varicose veins, spider veins, and hemorrhoids can develop as noticeable signs of vascular weakness. By providing nutrients that assist in blood flow to the extremities, strengthen blood vessels and capillaries, and maintain normal vascular permeability, Vascular Health Support offers focused nutritional support for vascular health. It is especially useful to enhance overall tone, fluid balance, and circulation to the legs.

4-H members and volunteers

AMARILLO - Twenty-seven 4-H members and 23 volunteer leaders from the Panhandle area were honored for their outstanding contributions to the 4-H program at the 54th annual Gold Star Banquet for District 1 on December 3 at the Alumni Banquet Facility of West Texas A&M University in Canyon.

To qualify for the Gold Star Award, the highest 4-H honor at the county level, a 4-H member must be a least 15 years old, have completed three years of club work, be an active member and complete a record book, said Brandon Dukes, Texas AgriLife Extension Service 4-H specialist. 4-H is the youth program of AgriLife Extension.

"The award is intended to stimulate winners to higher achievement and to encourage other young people to participate in the county 4-H program," Dukes said.

In addition, he said, the banquet used as a forum to recognize volunteer leaders who pitch in whenever and where ever they are needed, such as participating in committees providing leadership and helping build self-confidence throughout the 4-H program.

"Volunteers are the key to our 4-H program," Dukes said. "We value them greatly. This is our one opportunity during the year to salute them and recognize volunteers from each county in front of their peers."
The following Gold Star Award recipients were among those recognized by Danny Nusser, AgriLife Extension district administrator, and Dukes: Donley County - John Pigg and Tylee Williams.

Donley County's Laura Hommel was also recognized for her volunteer efforts. Laura

Drug-Coated Ballons May Enhance Metal Stents

According to the results of research presented at a recent meeting of the American Heart Association's Scientific Sessions 2011, a drug coated balloon inserted into existing coronary (heart vessel) stents to keep implanted metal stents open may prove to be beneficial and even desirable in certain patient care situations. The problem with metal stents, which were first implanted in the late 1980s, is that over time they tend to allow the vessel to clog and become narrow, causing scar tissue to develop, which slows blood flow through the heart (a condition called in-stent narrowing). Earlier stents that carried drugs were first approved in 2003 by the FDA, since they reportedly worked better than bare-metal stents.

However, with experience heart specialists found that drug-eluting stents could also sometimes cause blood clots and narrowing of coronary vessels. Those conducting research with drug-eluting balloons and implanted stents indicate that one advantage of drugcoated balloons is that the balloon coating is biodegradable and decomposes in 24 hours

HARD-HEADED AND HARD-HEARTED

I like to read the Old Testament as it shows the history of man and his dealings with God. Both seem to not change. God doesn't change in principle. He is love (1John 4:3). He doesn't lie (Titus 1:2). He is righteous (Psalm 11:7). Yet man has always had the propensity to mess up a good

(Psalm 11:7). Yet man nas aways nau the proporting to the control thing. You read Genesis and you see how quickly Adam and Eve got themselves thrown out of the Garden of Eden. Read Exodus and you see God's people complaining against Him before they are even out of Egypt as they leave for Caanan. Several times God allowed His people to be taken into capitivity because of their idol worship. Our own country was founded on Biblical principles and over the years we have abandoned God. Why? Hardhearted and selfish people have turned nations of God's people away from Him principles and over the years we have abandoned God. Why? Hardhearted and selfish people have turned nations of God's people away from Him.

In Ezekiel 2, God decides to send Ezekiel to the Israelites in Babylonian captivity. He is going to preach to them and try to turn their hearts back to God. (Ezekiel 2.4) "For they are impudent and stubborn children. I am sending you to them, and you shall say to them, "Thus says the Lord GOD." God further tells Ezekiel in chapter 3:4-6 that someone might think if Ezekiel had been sent earlier that they would have listened to him. God explains that it wouldn't have mattered. Why? (Ezekiel 3:7) "But the house of Israel will not listen to you, because they will not listene to the first of all the house of Israel are impudent and hard-hearted." It sounds pointless, doesn't ii? If God knows they are too hard-hearted to listen, why send anybody to them? Because, God loves all people and wants them to be saved. So how does God approach hard-hearted people? With someone who is hard-headed! (Ezekiel 3:8-11) "Behold, I have made your face strong against their faces, and your forehead strong against their foreheads." Like adamant stone, harder than flint, I have made your foreheads. "Like adamant stone, harder than flint, I have made your foreheads." Like adamant stone, harder than flint, I have made your foreheads thouse." Moreover He said to me: "Son of man, receive into your heart all My words that I speak to you, and hear with your ears." And go, get to the captives, to the children of your people, and speak to them and tell them, "Thus says the Lord GOD," whether they hear, or whether they refuse."

God sends a prophet, teacher, preacher, etc. to spread His word while knowing it will be refused. He does it because He is righteous. He prepared Ezekiel for this task by helping him have this hard-headed mindset. He basically tells Ezekiel that you can't ake rejection personally, as people have rejected God for thousands of years.

take rejection personally, as people have rejected God for thousands of years.

Our country is made up of a majority of hard-hearted people who live unrighteously. You can see its effects everywhere. We have more kids born out of wed-lock than in. There are less people attending worship or reading a Bible. Our government is made up of mostly God-less self-seeking people, who will sell their votes to continue abortion, homosexual rights, supporting those who won't work, etc. in return for our votes. For hopes of getting something in return, we continue to vote for them and ignore what the consequences of our actions are. What's the point of the article? As long as there are hard-hearted people against God, there will (hopefully) always be some hard-headed preachers who will continue to point out sin and teach the love of God. Being mad at a preacher for teaching God's word is like being angry at the cops for showing up at your door because you broke the law. They have no choice and neither does your preacher. My prayer is our nation's heart will soften towards God again. We all must do some soul-searching and try to make needed corrections in our lives.

My prayer is our nation's heart will soften towards God again. We ail must do some soul-searching and try to make needed corrections in our lives. Paul tells us in Romans 3:23 that we all sin. What do we do about it? That is the key. Do we continue to rebell against God and strike out at anyone who points out the mistakes? Or, do we swallow our pride and make the necessary adjustments that God demands in our lives?

Let us all be humble and submit to God, and give your preacher a break!

Broncos defeat Paducah Dragons

The Clarendon Broncos stepped up their game against the Paducah Dragons at home Tuesday night defeating them 69-33. The win was huge for the Broncos as they were coming off of two previous losses. Post player Cole Ward worked hard inside to lead the Broncos with 18points and guard Cody Wood hustled up 15 points from the field, which included one shot from the three-point line. Ward and Adam Topper also posted 11 rebounds. They received good help from Trajen Johnson and Tyler Burch inside, and Burch was four for four from the free throw line.

The Broncos led early and never relinquished their lead over the Dragons. At the break, they held a 22-point advantage and breezed to the easywin. Overall coach Brandt Lockhart liked what he saw.

"We did a good job playing pressure defense," Lockhart said. "I was pleased with our effort."

Lady Broncos outplay the Lady Dragons

By Sandy Anderberg

Nothing by hustle and intensity was on the minds of the Lady Bron cos at home Tuesday night when they took on and easily defeated Paducah 65-33. Junior guard Jentry Shadle hit six three-pointers to lead the ladies on the scoreboard with 21. Trevela Dronzek helped from the three-point line with two threes, and Phara Berry and Marqueda Gaines each added one.

The Lady Broncos came out on fire and took a commanding lead in the first quarter of play. They held a 26-point lead at the break and never looked back. Shadle, Dronzek, and McKayla Cartwright all finished in double figures. Coach Molly Weath-erred was pleased with thehustle of her players. "I thought we did a good job of controlling the pace of the game and we shot the ball really well.

Lady Colts beat Memphis

The seventh grade Lady Colts hosted Memphis Monday night and cruised to a 31-16win. Several Lady Colts contributed to the win over the Lady Whirlwinds on the court and on the scoreboard. Great hustle on defense and intense offense helped to lead the ladies to the big win. Bri-anna Butler was unstoppable with 14 points as she lead her team in the Scoring: Butler 14, Hannah Howard 8, Berkeley Alexander 5, MaRae Hall 2, and Jensen Hatley 2.

The eighth grade Lady Colts hustled until the end, but came up short at 24-29. The game stayed close in the first half of play, but the ladies struggled somewhat in the third quarter and that proved to be the difference in the game. Inside player Damara Brown led her team on the board with nine points. "I am proud the effort from both teams, coach Shanna Shelton said. "They kept fighting and never gave up."

Colts get big win over Memphis

The seventh grade Colts sent the Whirlwinds back to Memphis with a huge win at home Monday night. The Colts won by 20 points with the 43-23 final.

Clarendon played with intensity and determination on both ends of the court as they easily handled the Whirlwinds. They took a com-manding lead into the break after holding their opponent to only four points in the first half of play. After a slow scoring third quarter, the Colts turned up the heat in the final period and extended their lead to get the win. Keandre Cortez finished in win. JV girls second in Amarillo tournament

The Lady Broncos junior var-sity need only two more points to grab their first tournament cham-pionship of the season, but were denied as they took a one-point loss to the Arbor Academy Lady Lions at 34-35 last weekend in Amarillo.

The ladies clobbered Randall High in the opening round, winning 37-13. The ladies jumped out big in the opening quarter and led by 16 at the break. They continued to dominate and got the win. Taylor Gaines came on strong and finished in double figures with 10 to lead the team in scoring.

Texas drought is setting records

This year's drought has touched every county in Texas to some degree, and has set many records, the Texas Water Development Board reports

According to the Texas state climatologist, Dr. John Nielsen-Gammon, we are in the worst one-year drought on record since at least Twelve-month rainfall was the driest on record across much of the state, and many areas received less than 25 percent of their normal 12-month precipitation.

The drought has helped set economic records, as well. Agricultural losses hit a record $5.2 billion, according to the Texas AgriLife Extension, and wildfires have cost the state $250 million, another record according to the Insurance Council of Texas

A MESSAGE FROM THE Clarendon Merchants Association

TxDOT targeting drunk drivers season upon us, the Texas Department of Transportation is pulling out all of the stops to remind motorists not to get behind the wheel if they've been drinking and to find a sober ride home or call a cab.

Throughout the month

December, convenience stores, bars and restaurants, gas stations - even movie theaters- in major Texas mar-kets will carry TxDOT's campaign messages, urging Texans to celebrate responsibly.

Santa's reindeer will adorn bar coasters, pint glasses, bathroom mirror decals, digital signs over bathroom urinals, street posters, and gas pump nozzles. The reindeer's you're tipsy, buzzed or Blitzen. Call a cab or get a sober ride home." Santa himself is getting in on the action this year, with a brand new interactive "31 Days of Holiday Cheer" calendar. Each day unlocks games, recipes, tips, and videos to make the season merry and bright, all with the reminder to keep the holidays happy and plan a sober ride. Facebook users can engage with the new content at www.facebook.com/ SantaInTexas

"The holidays can mean many ings to Texans, including family dinners, office Christmas parties and New Year's Eve festivities. As we celebrate the season, we're encour-merry and to plan a sober ride home said Carol Rawson, TxDOT Traffic Operations Director. "That's why, throughout the month of December, 'don't drink and drive' reminders will be popping up online as well as at locations where alcohol is served or purchased."

This year's campaign is sup-ported by new Driver Awareness and Attitudes survey results, which indi-cate that fewer Texas motorists are drinking and driving.

In 2010 there were 3,024 fatalities on Texas roads, 1,102 were the result of alcohol-related crashes This makes alcohol a factor in 36.4% of the traffic fatalities in Texas.
