Mayor Hicks files response to lawsuit

Clarendon Mayor Larry Hicks filed his official response Tuesday to a lawsuit against him by three former city aldermen.

The suit was filed in district court November 1 by former aldermen Debbie Roberts-Hillis, Jesus Hernandez, and Tommy N. Hill, alleging that Hicks commit ted several acts of official mis conduct as mayor and asking the court to remove him from office.

According to documents filed with the District Clerk, Hicks denies all the claims alleged by the plaintiffs and demands they v proof of the same. Roberts-Hillis and Hernandez both resigned from the board in June. Hill's term as alderman expired in May, and he lost his election bid that month to unseat Hicks as mayor.

State plans shot clinic for Nov. 21

The Texas Department of State Health Services will hold an Immunization Clinic in Clarendon this month on November 21.

The clinic will be held from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. and from 1:00 to 3:30 p.m. at the TDSHS office at Five Medical Drive with the first 15 clients being seen in the morning and afternoon. A clinic that was scheduled here for November 14 was canceled

one step closer to construction after Donley County Commissioners approved a tax abatement for the project Tuesday afternoon.

The incentive provides Cielo Land & Cattle, LP, with a ten-year, 100 percent abatement from ad valorem taxes but also sets up payments to the county in lieu of taxes during the period of the agreement. Cielo, which is developing the project as Salt Fork Wind, LP, will pay Donley County $2,000 per mega-watt of electric generating capacity up to a maximum of $200,000 per year. The agreement also stipulates that Cielo will develop a minimum of 80 megawatts of capacity in Donley County, which would result in no less than $160,000 in income for the county annually for ten years. The first payment in lieu of taxes is due October 1, 2015, the agreement states.

Commissioner Dan Sawyer

escribed the agreement with Cielo as historic as it will mark the first development of wind power in the "This is a historic legendary the most important meetings we've had since this county was organized." In addition to making whatever improvements are needed on county roads to support the project, Cielo also has pledged to spend $1 million during construction to purchase services, materials, and supplies from businesses and individuals in Donley County

Cielo representative Robert Peña said his company will hold a job fair at some point before construction starts and will also be seeking local vendors and individuals who can perform needed services associated with construction.

Peña declined to give a definite start date for conruction but said work would begin in 2014 and that design and development costs are already being incurred this year so that Cielo can take advantage of the expiring federal production tax credit

The $200 million project will be split with 55 percent in Donley County and 45 percent in Gray County. The Donley portion will be constructed in a 21,700-acre area in the northwestern part of the county and bordered on the north by Interstate 40. Peña said after construction, seven permanent jobs will be created to service the entire project. Gray County officials have approved a reinvestment zone for that portion of the project and will likely approve a tax abatement there next month. Peña was also meeting with Groom ISD and Clarendon ISD officials this week to work on tax limitation agreements with those schools - an agreement similar to the county's payment in lieu of taxes but based on each district's average

US 287 to be improved west of city

The Texas Transportation Commission recently approved $2.2 million project for an asphaltic approved concrete pavement overlay on US 287 in Donley County in an ongoing effort to improve safety. J. Lee Milligan, Inc. of Amarillo, TX is the contractor for this project. This project will begin at the Armstrong County line and continue to the Clarendon west city limits, in the southbound lanes only

"Safety is the top priority at TxDOT and the basis for planning, building, and maintaining our transportation systems," said Marty Smith, TxDOT's Childress District Engineer. "Keeping travelers moving safely and efficiently will continue to be an ongoing priority as Texas welcomes nearly 1,000 newcomers each day."

"In a state as vast as Texas, it's imperative to not only have reliable roadways connecting our rural and urban citizens, but also to be diligent designing and maintaining em with safety in mind," said mmissioner Fred Underwood, Commi Texas Transportation Commission "Keeping everyone safe on the road is our first priority. We must do everything we can to get the driving public safely to their destination and home to their families at the end of the day."

Construction for this project is expected to begin in the spring of 2014. A TxDOT spokesperson said the duration of the project won't be known until a preconstruction meeting is held closer to the project start date. For more information, contact

The Way Forward, Part 7

City board can chart a new path

Three new City Aldermen being seated this week give Clarendon a chance to chart a path of progress for our community. But to do that the board must start out on the right foot with thoughtful decision-making for the good of the whole.

Citizens have had enough of petty arguments and personal animosity and are ready for a fresh start. Above all else, however, the people of this city want results, and there are a few steps the new board can take to help restore the faith of the people. There will be several things that will come before by roger estlack the board in the next few weeks, and among these issues, no doubt, will be questions concerning the sale of alcohol in the city following last week's election that turned Donley County wet for the first time in 111 years.

The city has some regulatory ability in this area, but there is some confusion in the public that the city must do something with regards to zoning. According to the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission web site, the city doesn't have to do anything. State law does, however, allow the city to set a distance of 300 feet between schools and churches and establishments selling alcohol. The city may even expand that distance to 1,000 feet, but in any case the city can grant a variance to a property owner if it chooses. But in a town with 17 churches (at last count), a zone of 1,000 feet would eliminate most commercial locations and even a zone of 300 feet could catch several existing businesses, restaurants, and/or land that could be ripe for development. Thoughtfulness is therefore warranted in this situation in order to make sure that economic opportunities are not dashed even before they have a chance to bloom. Whatever personal feelings some aldermen may have on this issue, they should respect that the people have spoken. Exempting properties on most of the US 287 corridor and on Kearney Street between First and Fourth Streets would provide ample opportunities for businesses to expand or develop, and it would eliminate constant requests for variances from current or potential businesses. Again, prudence should prevail, and the goal should be one of growth. City leaders must take care not to enact rules so strict that no restaurant could serve a beer with a meal or that no downtown shop could ever offer a selection of Texas wines, for instance.

Voters largely approved the local option for two basic reasons – personal freedom and the possibility of economic growth, which leads to greater tax revenue. City aldermen should take care not to unduly thwart what the people have said they want. The next big issue for Clarendon hasn't changed much in 25 years - the streets. They are the chief source of irritation and complaint in this city, and recent water and sewer replacements have intensified the problem. For months, drivers have been intermittently blocked off from their usual routes, and with every rain lower Third Street and the intersecting Koogle Street have been covered with several inches of dirt and mud that have had to be removed by the state. To say that it has created a nightmare for the people who live on Third and the numerous people who drive this road would be a gross understatement. For the city to restore the faith of its citizens and for any future bond issue to ever have a snowball's chance of passing, this all has to have been worth it. And the only way for that to happen is for Third Street to be paved in such a manner that it becomes the absolute best street in town.

The current plan for the Third Street, crafted by former administrator Lambert Little, is to narrow the road to 30 feet, put some little concrete valley's for the water, and tar and gravel it. This "poor boy" plan has got to go. Third Street connects our central business district with the public school and the college, and it needs to be done up right. From Bronco Stadium at Allen Street all the way to the First Baptist Church on Bugbee Avenue. Third Street should be kept the same width as it is from Parks Street (near the Episcopal Church) to the stadium, and it should have curbs and gutters all the way to the top of the hill. How do you pay for this extra work? Simple, abandon Little's plan to seal coat streets on the college campus. Those are not city streets, they are the responsibility of the Clarendon College District, and we need to focus the city's resources on the city's infrastructure. (Why the college would allow the city s infrastructure. (Why the college would allow the city to touch their streets is a mystery anyway.) And finally, as a point of community healing, let's get rid of the elevator on the front of City Hall and restore the building's façade. The project is a lightning rod for criticism and serves no useful purpose at this time. Its removal could be a gesture of goodwill as our city attempts to focus on new opportunities. In these and other areas, our Aldermen have their work cut out for them. They will have several hard decisions to make; but if they focus on progress and work together, they can move Clarendon forward.

These are historic times in Donley County

Wow! Things are a poppin' in beautiful Donley County these days. Only last week, for the first time in over 100 years, the official "watering hole" drought ended, thanks to our forward thinking citizens. Somewhat surprisingly, the margin of victory for the imbibers was larger than I expected. Then, just today, the Donley County Commissioners' Court approved a 10-year tax abatement program for a company that wants to create a wind energy project in the northern portion of the county, along 1-40. The tax abatement was critical if the project was going to be successfully done in Donley County.

Also noteworthy, while the project

a "local spending and support" plan, in which the company intends to spend one million dollars with Donley County merchants while the project is being completed. Now that we are wet, that spending could buy a lot of booze to help shepherd the project along during trying times - which usually accompany project of this magnitude, even with he most meticulous planning possible. When the project is up and running, it will sweeten Donley County coffers by some $160,000 to $200,000 a year for the first 10 years – the period of the initial tax abatement. After that 10-year period of time passes, the revenues to the county could be immense. Wind energy is a huge part of

America's future energy equation, and Donley County will finally be a player

We all owe our county commissioners a large debt of gratitude for their foresight and ability to get this done. It's also a wonderful legacy for outgoing Donley County Judge Jack Hall. We also, for the first time in a good while, have a soon to be fully functioning city council. Well, sort of.

It seems that the three aldermen who tarried, folks we can't seem to get rid of, have decided to petition his honor, Judge Stuart Messer, to fire the mayor, if such a thing is possible. Debbie Roberts-Hillis, Jesus

Hernandez, and Tommy Hill have actually accused Mayor Larry Hicks of official misconduct, and want the judge to put him out of office, no matter that the voters put him in office. Talk about a dampener on local democracy, and the pots calling the kettle black, or vise versa - whatever.

Meanwhile, back to the city aldermen; we now have a full roster of aldermen in place, ready to re-commence taking care of the city's long neglected business needs. The voters have selected these fine folks to represent us and I hope we the people do all we can to support them in their efforts.

If his honor, Judge Messer, frees the mayor from his horse collar in the timely fashion, the city council will finally be at full strength and everyone can focus on leading the city into a new era of prosperity and bounteous living. Do I hear an Amen!?

Truth be known, I'll be happy if we can just have a few months of uninterrupted peace and harmony in our town. Thanksgiving and Christmas are looming on the near horizon and peace on earth, good will to men seems especially appropriate this year. Meanwhile, the Hedley Owls made it through a tough season with honor and good sportsmanship, and no one was seriously injured. They have a lot to be proud of. The Broncos have made the playoffs while overcoming enormous obstacles and still have a few victories to look forward to. Let's all celebrate with them.

Clarendon College continues to prosper and provide us with an infusion of bright young people that makes our community better and brighter. A new administration will be commencing in early December, and an even brighter future seems possible. In short, even though the world and America-at-large seem to be facing daunting problems in the near and longer terms, life in Donley County is good and getting better.

We have a lot to be thankful for – especially each other. Let's not forget that while we celebrate the physical beauty of our county and our magnificent sunsets.

BYSTANDER-IN-CHIEF

Respect each other following vote

The recent debate on alcohol sales preceding the November 5th election has been heated, opinionated, and controversial. Although some may say it has been a bad reflection on the town, others say that it shows just how much the citizens care for our community. Whether it be to protect our citizens from the effects of alcohol sales or to further its development through the growth that sales would bring, everybody seems to be passionate about their opinion. Now that the election results are in, I am hoping everybody can put harsh words to an end. We should come together and focus that energy as one to accept change, and embrace the freedom of choice that a democracy brings responsibly. With the legalization of alcohol sales I expect our proud citizens to display mutual respect. Drinkers should drink responsibly and exercise the right to purchase alcohol and the freedom to drink in restaurants with courteous dignity, keep our city clean – as a proud member of society should, and never drink and drive. Be a good example of our community, enjoying its newly elected freedom responsibly and respectfully. Meanwhile, non-drinkers should accept change and be proud that we live in a society that gives every citizen the opportunity to vote. If all are peaceful and respectful to one another, then our community can come together and embrace change with a mutual love and respect

Respecting one another is the only way this can be a change for growth and success. There is no doubt that we love and care for our county. We are a proud community of people, both young and old, with a deep love for our quiet little Texas town. My hope is that we come out of this not divided and bitter but wiser and stronger than ever.

With great change comes great responsibility. Britton Hall.

Clarendon

Be slow to speak and slow to anger

Like everyone else in this community, I have read and heard the very public opinions on the alcohol vote; and even though some of the things I saw and heard struck a nerve, I have remained silent... until now. I didn't even like looking at the local paper because the ads and opinions were s very absurd.

I must say, I was relieved to attend a church where we continued on our study of the book of James each week and did not have to stray off and have a special sermon on the alcohol topic. Praying for the community and for God's will to be done was sufficient. As I was sitting in church yesterday (yes, a church whos pulpit and leader remained silent on the issue), listening to the "quick to hear, slow to speak, and slow to anger" verse, I kept thinking about some of the words that were used throughout this alcohol debate – words that were used by preachers no less. Words such as "cowards," "punks," "stupid," (which I don't even allow my children to say), and even "may God have pity on you." As a preacher, isn't it your job to bring the word of God to people, to show God's love, and be Christ-like, ot to judge and condemn? What kind of impression are you giving to people who do not know Christ? Do you think these actions and words will actually draw people to Christ? I can't imagine if I did not already have a relationship with Christ that I would see those ads and articles and think, "I really want to be a part of that." I will finish with this: "Speak not evil one of another, brethren. He that speaketh evil of his brother, and judgeth his brother, speaketh evil of the law, and judgeth the law: but if thou judge the law, thou art not a doer of the law, but a judge. There is one lawgiver, who is able to save and to destroy; who art thou that judgest another?" James 4: 11-12.

Oh, the rules; don't run, don't throw popcorn, don't scream, and from Mother; don't go up in the balcony because mean men may be there. I did run, throw popcorn and scream, but I did not go to the balcony until I was a teenager and kept a lookout for bad men. Most memorable picture show?

The original Disney version of Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs. As the Queen presented the beautiful poi-soned apple to Snow White this little five-year-old did scream and want to leave but Mother made me stay. I was glad she did because I got to see the happy ending. Going to movies is lost to people today, the last movie Ole Jim and I saw in a theatre was "Dancing With Wolves" in 1991, but we have gone to the Sandal Drive In. We have several hundred selections on television but most are not watched, even the cartoons have changed. With so much instant communication movies have lost their appeal but I have many fond memories of those picture shows as a child.

We have so many sick people in our community including Mayor Mike Rowland who has had complications following knee replacement surgery. Mike, take care of yourself and get well. Our community needs you.

Christmas Cash returns

Holiday shopping at home is easy and affordable again as the Donley County State Bank and local merchants have teamed up to pro-vide zero-percent interest "Christmas Cash" loans for the 17th season

As in the past, anyone can make application for a loan up to $3,000 interest free with the Donley County State Bank. Nineteen local busi-nesses are participating this year.

The program, which was absent in 2011 and 2012, has proven popu-lar in the past with many consumers and is seen as way to encourage folks to shop at home.

Once a Christmas Cash loan has been approved, the borrower will be issued Christmas Cash Dollars, which may be spent like US currency toward new purchases at all of the participating businesses. Christmas Cash must be spent by December 31, 2013.

Clarendon Church of Christ JUST THE TRUTH PLEASE

JUSI THE TRUTH PLEASE Doctors have a tough job at times. Sometimes they must give their patient some bad news. They must tell them so they can make informed decisions. Personally, I want to know if I only have a certain amount of time to live. I would want to know the treatment options and what to expect. A good doctor will tell you because he or she really cares about you and your health. I've seen a few cowardly doctors who keep 'passing the buck' about giving the bad news to a patient. They will continue to send them elsewhere and not tell them why until someon has to give the prognosis. The only thing worse than that type of doctor is a minister or religious leader who can't or won't tell all the truth. I say can't because some minister's 'can't' preach all of the truth because they

The only thing worse than that type of doctor is a minister or religious leader who can't or won't tell all the truth. I say can't because some ministers 'can't' preach all of the truth because they would lose their jobs. There are a few folks in their congregations who hold power for some reason or other and hold it over the preacher's head. He would like to speak as the Bible speaks but can't for fear of losing his position. The other preacher WONT teach all of the truth because it makes him popular with a lot of people. He only preaches the love of God, which is important. Also of importance is the severity of God (Hebrews 10:31). A lot of people don't read their Bibles as often as they should and depend on what they hear from the pulpits to give them their spiritual guidance. We must check our Bibles against what they are preaching. Men are prone to mistakes and we are going to be held responsible if we follow them. My question to all reading the article this week is: "Are you getting the whole truth where you worship?" It is a relevant question! If you were sending your children to school and you found out they were being taught things that just weren't so, you would want a conference with someone! I would too. How much more important is our spiritual lives than our secular ones? It's the difference between eternity in Heaven or Hell. A person should tell their preacher or minister that they expect the truth and support him when he teaches it. Truth will offend some, but it won't hurt them. Untruth may please a lot of people, but it won't save a person. Are we wanting our "ears tickled" or do we want soul saving messages preached? I pray that you will think about these things

Clarendon College Bulldogs play above the rim

By Fred Gray This year's version of the Clarendon College Bulldogs brings excitement and a lot aerial acrobatics to the game and their fans. These guys can play, mostly above the rim. Even so, they are not a one-dimensional offensive show. They play gritty, aggressive, in-your-face defense when they are not soaring above the rim.

This week, the Bulldogs hosted the Lawrence Overcast Classic in Clarendon, and proceeded to run through, over, and around Ranger College for a 90 to 80 victory. These Bulldogs can be characterized more as pit bulls than the English variety that is pictured on their logo.

In the 2nd game of the Classic, Bulldogs were a bit out of sorts, and did not play well, in a loss to Northwest Tech 55-67. They played as hard in their previous game, just not as unified. Even so, the Bulldogs are the best local show I've seen in a good, long while. In a small town like Clarendon good entertainment opportunities can be as scarce as hen's teeth. If you want to be highly entertained, find as many opportunities as possible to go see the Bulldogs play.

Coach Tony Starnes has put together an excellent roster of play-ers, many of whom hail from the Washington, DC, area, and points east - as far east as the Congo

Drugs in the News

Drug May Help With Heart Failure

An investigational drug called serelaxin has impressed researchers in a recent clinical trial by bringing benefit to those with a chronic condition called heart failure. The major characteristic of heart failure is the heart's poor pumping ability which leads to poor blood flow to important organs and limbs. In those taking serelaxin, blood flow to the kidneys was improved among those who had moderate heart failure. Previous clinical trials showed that serelaxin reduced blood pressure and may reduce harmful lab values that would lead to a worsening of heart failure. Many people who have high blood pressure, coronary artery disease, diabetes, a previous heart attack, and sleep apnea are at risk of getting heart failure. If this condition is not properly managed, serious complications such as kidney, heart, and liver damage, or stroke may occur. Monitoring fluid retention through daily weight checks and restricting the total amount of salt in a day are simple changes that may help reduce progression of heart failure. While there is no cure for heart failure, there are many nedica

By Fred Gray The Hedley Owls wrapped up a difficult season with an emphatic home victory over the Silverton Owls last Friday night, November 8. The Owls of Hedley soared about and around their aerial counterparts, the Owls of Silverton, for a 42-6 victory.

The Owls' defense, long known for their aggressive, swarming play, shined one again. They held the Silverton offense to 135 yards rushing on 31 carries: and allowed only 2 completions in 5 attempts, for 65 yards, 1 touchdown, and 1 interception.

The Hedley offense, on the other hand, rushed the pigskin 27 times for 225 yards and 5 touch-tributed 71 yards and a touchdown to the victory, on 3 completions and 8 attempts. Rooster Moore continued to the ball well, rushing for 125 ds and 2 touchdowns on 16 carries. Moore also completed 3 passes for 71 yards and another touchdown. One of his passes was caught by Denver Chambless, who carried the ball for a 26 yard gain. Kyle Lindsey had 2 catches for 45 yards and a sey had 2 catches for 45 yards and a touchdown. Seth Ruthardt bulled his way for 100 yards and rumbled for 3 touchdowns on 11 carries.

On defense, gang tackling was again the order of the day. Lane Cabler had 5 assists, while Kyle Lindsey sparkled, with 2 solo tack-

Broncos face New Deal in Bi-District play

By Sandy Anderberg They dreamt of it and they worked for it and now the Broncos dream of a playoff spot is real lif because of a strong surge in the final two games of the season

The Broncos had to win their last two District games to have a chance at post-season play and they achieved their goal against two very tough teams. Friday night in Bronco Stadium, the Broncos defeated a long-time foe 34-20 in front of their netown fans. The team finished at overall and 3-2 in District play 4-5 for third place behind Stratford and Panhandle: two teams that the Broncos played tough in regular season play.

finishing like they did," head coach catches," Jack said. Gary Jack said. "We battled against Caleb Cobb and McCampbell two very tough teams to get the wins. It is crazy how the season ended, but are playing some of our best foot ball right now." The Broncos struck first when Charles Mason scored on a 12-yard run and JoJo Cartwright added the kick to go up by seven. Mason scored two more times in the second quarter on a huge 71-yard run and a three-yard run. Zack Laroe added a two-point run for a bonus "Charles had a big night for us,"

Jack said. Mason carried the ball 23 tin and racked up 201 yards and three finished out the scoring for the Broncos. "Our line blocked well, too,"

Offensively, the Broncos were on target with 399 total yards, but defensively, the Broncos stood their ground. "Our kids made things happen on defense," Jack said. "We came up with three interceptions and caused a fumble. We stopped them when we needed to."

Jack noted that the Broncos district was one of the toughest around.

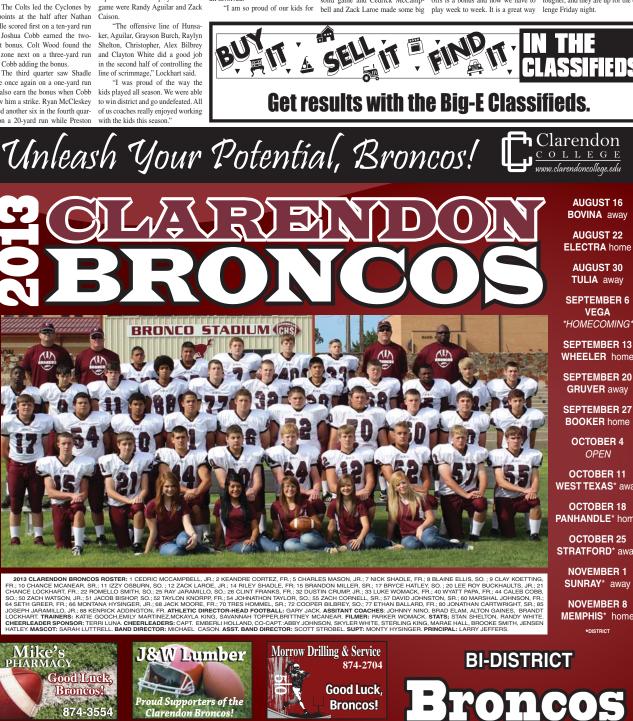

"We had to battle every week," Jack said. "Our district is so tough. But we gave ourselves a shot and we have a chance. Making the play offs is a bonus and now we have to to end our regular season and I am very pleased with the players and coaches. We are a young team and we have fought numbers and injuries, but we finished on a high note. It's been a challenging year; up and down, but our kids responded well."

The Broncos will take on New Deal at Highland Park in Amarillo on Friday, November 15, at 7:30 p.m. The game will be broadcast live on 105.3 FM KLSR.

"New Deal were ranked number six in the state last week, and they had their first loss of the season or Friday, so they will be tough," Jack said. "They will be favored to win, but we have a good shot. Our tough district has made us better."

The Broncos have gotter tougher, and they are up for the challenge Friday night.
