Conservation talk to be held June 4

The USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) in Texas, Donley County, and the Donley Soil & Water Conservation District cordially invite the public to attend their FY16 Local Working Group (LWG) meeting June 4, 2015, at 4:00 p.m. in the Clarendon College Courson RFO Center.

The purpose of this annual LWG meeting is to set local conservation priorities and bring conservation stakeholders together to discuss conservation topics and issues relevant to helping Donley County farmers and ranchers better conserve on-farm natural resources.

The agenda of the meeting is to update attendees on recent conservation efforts and to collect public input to help guide future conservation activities. Through regular identification of conservation opportunities, effective Farm Bill investment can continue to benefit Donley County. Farmers, ranchers, conservationists, and others interested in obtaining Federal technical and financial assistance to improve private land in Donley County are invited to participate.

For more information, please contact Weldon Sears, district conservationist, at (806) 874-3561 Ext-3. For more information, visit the NRCS Web site at <http://www.tx.nrcs.usda.gov/>.

Clarendon and Hedley High Schools will hold graduation exercises this week for the Class of 2015.

Twenty-nine students are expected to graduate from Clarendon, and Hedley's senior class has seven students and one service dog that will walk this year.

CHS commencement will be held Friday, May 29, at the Harned Sisters Fine Arts Center at Clarendon College and will begin at 8 p.m.

Hedley's seniors will graduate on Saturday morning, May 30, at 10 a.m. in the high school gymnasium.

Immunization clinic to be held June 18

The Texas Department of State Health Services will hold an immunization clinic in Clarendon at the Burton Memorial Library on June 18, 2015, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

All clinic times subject to change or cancellation in case of extenuating circumstances.

Citywide garage sale to be held June 6

The sign-up period for Clarendon's tenth annual "Trash To Treasures" garage sale event closes this Friday, May 29, at 5 p.m.

A wide participation is expected again for this year's sale, which is slated for Saturday, June 6. The Clarendon Visitor Center has been fielding phone calls for about a month from people in nearby towns who are looking forward to shopping local sales.

Garage sales in Hedley, Howardwick, and the surrounding area are also welcome to sign up for the big day.

"This event has been a success the last several years, and we're hoping it will be equally successful this year," said Roger Estlack, publisher of The Clarendon Enterprise, which sponsors the event. "People realize that it makes sense to have these garage sales on the same day to draw a bigger crowd."

Residents who wish to participate in this year's "Trash To Treasures" are asked to come by the Enterprise before 5 p.m. on Friday, May 29, to sign up for the promotion.

For just $25, each household will get a 50-word advertisement in the Big-E Classifieds and the exclusive "Trash To Treasures" garage sale signs. In addition, the Enterprise will print a city map the week of the event indicating the location of each sale and will promote the citywide garage sale in area newspapers and with local radio ads.

"The more people who have garage sales during Trash To Treasures, the better everyone will do," Estlack said. "Sign-up fees are what cover the cost of area advertising, so we can reach more people and have better attendance if we have a larger number of sales."

In a change from previous years, the City of Clarendon now requires all garage sales to be permitted. There is no charge for the permit, but City Hall asks all Trash To Treasures participants to go by a get a permit and a copy of the city's rules governing garage sales.

For more information about Trash To Treasures, call 874-2259 or come by the Enterprise.

City Council approves trash truck repairs

The Clarendon City Council approved up to $22,000 for repairs to a sanitation truck in a called meeting Monday night.

City Administrator David Dockery said the engine went out on the sanitation department's roll-off truck – the truck used to haul trash to the Memphis landfill. The 1998-model truck is a necessity for city operations, which prompted the called meeting.

A factory re-built Mack engine is expected to cost $16,298.75 plus more than $4,000 for installation and additional costs for delivery from Chicago.

The aldermen will meet again this Thursday at 7 p.m. for their regular meeting and will face a busy agenda.

One of the most prominent discussions this week will be recommendations from KSA Engineering for street and drainage improvements to Third Street between Allen Street and Bugbee Avenue. The street was part of the city's most recent paving project but has not held up to heavy rains over the last month.

Aldermen will also hear an update and consider action on code compliance issues at the old Neece house at 602 S. Bugbee and discuss taking action at the old Ruby Bromley house at 702 S. Carhart.

Approving updated contract rate content for groundwater sales to Greenbelt Water Authority is also on the agenda as is a discussion and possible action on the city's water rates.

City officials will also be selecting a Mayor Pro-Tem, considering the annual housing authority report, and appointing a local rabies authority.

Which GOP candidate will say this?

By Richard W. Rahn, Cato Institute

Of those running for president, who will give this speech?

“Ladies and Gentlemen, my administration will implement a series of economic policies to cause the economy to grow at an average rate of 4 percent or more a year. Growth of 4 percent-plus per year will create jobs at a faster rate than the growth in the labor force and provide hope for those who had despaired of finding a good job again. At a growth rate of a little over 4 percent per year, real incomes for all of our citizens will double in only 17 years. (At the current rate of economic growth of a little over 2 percent a year, it will take more than 30 years for real incomes to double.) We can do better — and we have done better in our recent past.

“During the last six years of the Reagan administration — after the deep recession at the beginning of his term — real economic growth averaged a little over 4.5 percent per year. Likewise, during the last six years of the Clinton administration, real economic growth averaged a little over 4 percent per year.

“Some have argued that the little over 2 percent per year growth that we have been experiencing since the end of the Great Recession in 2009 is the ‘new normal.’ I don’t believe there is anything normal about it. The poor performance is due to bad policies, not something written in the stars. My administration will achieve the 4 percent-plus by following the best practices that have been shown to work in other countries.

“As recently as the year 2000, the United States was ranked as having the second-freest economy in the world; now it ranks No. 12, according to the annual Economic Freedom of the World Index published by the Fraser Institute in Canada and the Cato Institute in the United States. You may ask, ‘Why does economic freedom matter?’ There is a very high correlation between economic freedom and income per capita. The quartile of the countries that are most free now have an average per capita income of about $40,000 per year, while the quartile that are the least free only have a per capita income of a little over $6,000 per year. Freer countries tend to grow faster than the less free. Freer countries treat their poorest citizens far better, with the poorest 10 percent in those countries having a per capita income of almost $12,000 per year, while the poorest 10 percent in the least free countries have average incomes of only about $1,400 per year. Life expectancy is much higher in the freest countries, and both political rights and civil liberties are highly positively correlated with economic freedom.

“A key component of economic freedom is a legal system that protects persons and their rightfully acquired property. The United States has fallen from No. 1 in 1980 to No. 28 today. Finland, New Zealand, Norway, Singapore and Switzerland now rank in the top five. My administration will make the necessary restorations in the rule of law to bring us back into the top five.

“It has been well known for more than two centuries that the ability to trade freely across borders greatly enhances economic well-being for the vast majority. Back in 1980, the United States was the seventh-freest trade country in the world; but over the last 35 years, other countries have moved far faster to remove tariff and non-tariff barriers to trade. So now, the United States is barely in the top 20 percent of countries, while places like Hong Kong, Ireland, New Zealand, Singapore and even the United Kingdom are in the top five.

“Excessive regulation, particularly financial regulation, is the Achilles heel of many modern economies, including the United States. Hong Kong, Singapore, New Zealand and Switzerland prove that it is possible to have a non-corrupt and sound economic system without excessive financial and business regulation.

“Finally, size of government matters. When an economy spends more than 25 percent of its gross domestic product on government, economic growth slows; and when tax rates are higher than 20 percent over the long run, both economic growth and government revenue suffer. Hong Kong and Singapore prove that it is possible to have a wealthy and civil society with adequate safety nets for those who need them without having big government or high tax rates. Chile, Switzerland and many others have shown that the growth in entitlement spending can be limited without shredding the social safety net.

“My administration will adopt the best practices of those countries that score high on the individual elements of economic freedom, and by doing so, average economic growth of more than 4 percent per year is almost certain. Such growth will result in full employment with higher real wages and more economic opportunity for all citizens, particularly those who have had a smaller share of the economic pie.”

To date, no presidential candidate has presented such a clearly stated goal and method by which to achieve it. So this is my gift to the candidate who really wants to win.

Shenanigans in a small Texas town

Home towns keep bars held high when they measure up to the ways they are remembered. Memories’ afterglow is abundant with “warm fuzzies.” We gather memory bouquets of roses, giving little thought to thorns encountered in their gathering.

Folks growing up in small towns believe experiences during their youth are unique, far different from others coming of age in the city.

Uniqueness, though – like much else – is in the mind’s eye of the beholder....

Adam Hill, a nine-year-old in Albany, TX, is bound to have a trove of tales to one day tell his kids and grand-kids. He’ll brag about growing up in a small West Texas community where it’s a given that parents “look after” all children – theirs and others.

With their “one for all, all for one” spirit, much of life in Albany is little different than 30, 40 or even 50 years ago.

The youngest of four children of Kevin and Kim Hill, Adam is making memories as an observer – and an occasional participant – in a popular summertime game. Sometimes, he joins older brother Ryan in what is called “Ding-Dong-Ditching.”...

It’s kinda like Halloween, except the players are all in for tricks. Treats aren’t in the equation.

The game calls for children – most of them 10-12 years of age – to ring doorbells, then run down the street, hoping to avoid being identified. “They don’t realize parents are 100% ‘in’ on what’s going on, happily playing along by ‘chasing’ the children down the street,” Kim said.

When Adam participates, he’s always bare-foot, and sometimes is “dressed down” to his underwear. During one of his recent “observation sessions,” darkness set in....

That night, one of Kim’s friends sent a text that some bell-pushers would soon appear at the Hills’ front door. Overhearing the conversation, Adam hid in a front yard bush to take it all in.

Later, darkness fully in place, Adam asked, “Okay, Mommy – I have a really important question: Do cats sneeze?” Kim answered she was sure they do.

Adam was greatly relieved by her answer. “That’s good. When I was hiding in the bushes tonight, something in there with me sneezed, and I was sure hoping it was just a cat.”...

Some accounts withstand the test of time, like a son who stubbornly showed up his dad years ago in Sulphur Springs. He accompanied his father, a longtime farmer, to the cattle auction, where a cow and her calf were to be sold.

A special needs son, he begged his pappy to sell the cow and calf separately. The old man was adamant, however, insisting they be sold as a pair.

The auctioneer was so instructed....

While his dad was getting coffee, the son – obsessed with a hunch that the animals should be offered separately – revisited the auctioneer. He said his pappy had changed his mind – they should be auctioned separately.

the idle american by don newbury

When the animals paraded separately into the ring, the farmer was furious, ready to march on the auctioneer. He mellowed quickly, however, upon learning the proceeds of the two sales would be several dollars more than if the cow and calf had been offered together.

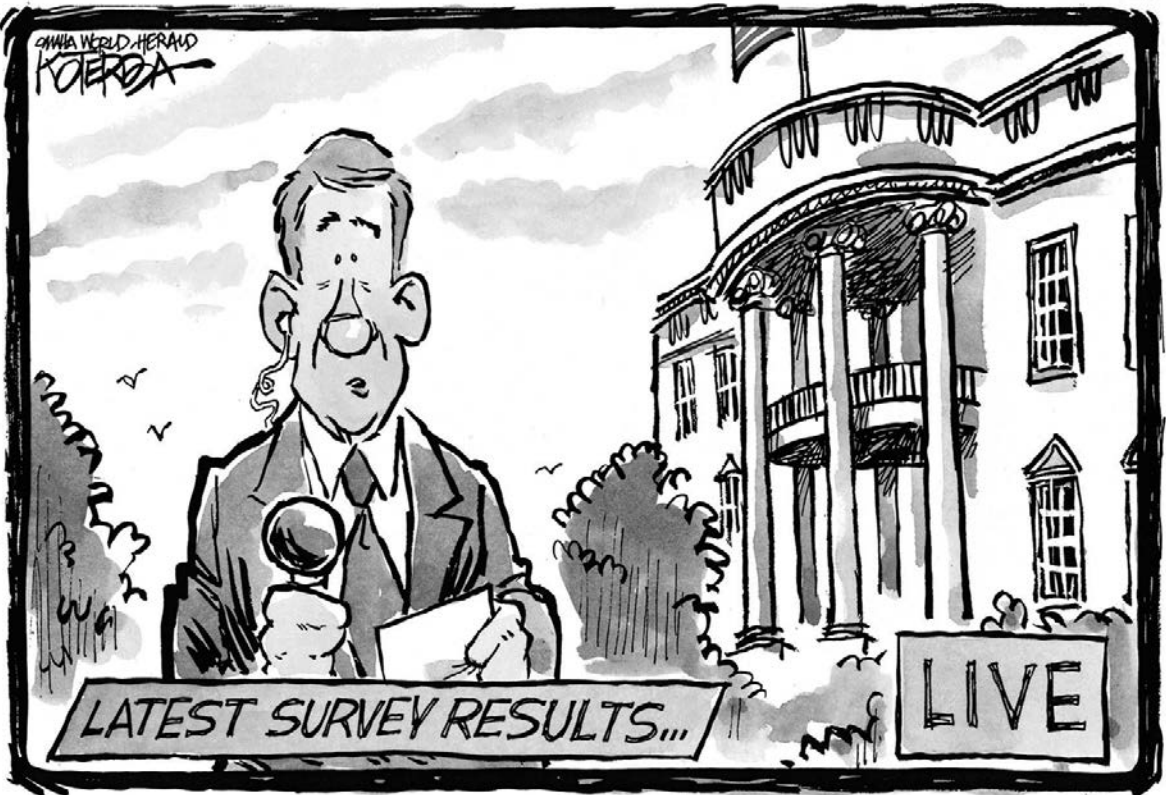

“I never thought I’d ever see the day when a calf was worth more than its mammy and I was smarter than my pappy,” the happy 40-something son beamed....

Fort Worth citizens recently paid homage to 92-year-old Jim Wright, former Congressman who rose to be Speaker of the House in Washington, DC. He was beloved, fully deserving of an accolade extended both verbally and in print – “Christian statesman.”

One story left unspun at his funeral dates back some 65 years, when Wright was “boy mayor” of Weatherford. It was one he told numerous times on himself. On a sleepy afternoon in Weatherford, he received two bird-related phone calls a few minutes apart. One caller on the west side complained of the growing sparrow population in his neighborhood. Another on the east side was angry that some youngsters with air rifles were firing at sparrows. “I relocated the kids with air rifles to the side of town where they’d be more welcome, thus pleasing both callers,” Wright said.

Fort Worth loved him dearly. Indeed, he was a Christian statesman....

“WHEN ASKED ABOUT THE 2016 CAMPAIGN, THREE OUT OF FOUR REPUBLICANS SAID THEY WERE RUNNING FOR PRESIDENT...”

Congress: Don’t do something

By David Boaz, Cato Institute

Congress has a golden opportunity over the next six weeks to significantly improve public policy and expand American freedom by doing nothing. In fact, a long vacation would be just the ticket.

The Export-Import Bank’s authorization expires on June 30, after being kicked down the road from last September. Let it expire.

And the Patriot Act’s most controversial provisions – bulk collection of Americans’ phone records stemming from Section 215 (already ruled illegal by a federal court), roving wiretap authority, and “lone wolf” provisions – will expire on June 1 unless they are reauthorized.

This is a great opportunity for Congress to take a long vacation – go back to their districts and find out what’s on voters’ minds, take a fact-finding trip to Paris and Rome, or just relax at the beach – and let these misguided laws expire.

Members should stay on vacation through the Fourth of July and come back to Washington after listening to some speeches about our inalienable rights, free enterprise, and the right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures.

The Ex-Im Bank is the most visible example of cronyism and corporate welfare, which has lately come under fire from both Tea Party and Occupy Wall Street activists. It has an especially close relationship with Boeing, which receives about 40 percent of the bank’s subsidies.

Free enterprise means that people are free to start and build companies, seek customers, and make profits if they succeed. The system works well if there’s competition. But subsidy programs like Ex-Im put a thumb on the scale. They help some companies at the expense of others. The bank backs only about 2 percent of American exports, with 76 percent of its assistance going to a few big companies such as Boeing, General Electric, and Bechtel. Government shouldn’t be picking winners, it should set a few rules of the road and let companies go out and compete vigorously for customers.

Members of Congress committed to free enterprise and competition should let the Ex-Im Bank die, no matter what the Chamber of Commerce and Sen. Elizabeth Warren (D-Mass.) say.

As for the Patriot Act provisions, we’ve heard plenty of dire warnings from advocates of the surveillance state. Sen. Mitch McConnell (R-Ky.) says vacuuuming up all Americans’ phone records is a “critical capability” in combating terrorism. Yet as my colleague Julian Sanchez notes, two groups of experts came to a different conclusion:

A Surveillance Review Group appointed by the president found that information from the NSA database “was not essential to preventing attacks,” and concluded that there was “no sufficient justification for allowing the government itself to collect and store bulk telephony meta-data.” Those findings were echoed by the Privacy and Civil Liberties Oversight Board, which was unable to find “a single instance involving a threat to the United States in which the telephone records program made a concrete difference in the outcome of a counterterrorism investigation.” Rather, the Board wrote, “the information supplied by the NSA through Section 215 offered no unique value, but simply mirrored or corroborated information that the FBI obtained independently using other means.”

What if the three provisions aren’t reauthorized? Sen. Rand Paul (R-Ky.) says, “I see no reason why we couldn’t use the Constitution for a while.” And then Congress could spend the summer contemplating what sorts of surveillance authorization are really needed. Members can debate the USA Freedom Act, the Surveillance State Repeal Act, or other alternatives.

Congress gets a lot of criticism for “doing nothing.” Considering some of the things that Congresses actually do, doing nothing is often a better idea. In this case, a six-week vacation would give a boost to economic growth and our Fourth Amendment privacy rights. It’s a win-win.

TxDOT to begin mowing in June

CHILDRESS – In the past couple of weeks, all 13 counties in the Texas Department of Transportation’s (TxDOT) Childress District have received several inches of much needed rain. With the increased rain, the spring mowing contract has been moved up by a few weeks.

The 2015 spring mowing schedule in Donley County will start June 1, by contractor Texas Blacktops, LLC.

Maintaining 7,956 miles of highway in the Childress District is an enormous task that involves more than roadways, but 23,635 acres of right of way. TxDOT’s mowing policy limits the number of times rural highways receive a full width modified mow to two – spring and fall. A full width modified mow is two 15 foot passes, making the strip 30 feet from the edge of the roadway.

In between mowing cycles, TxDOT’s herbicide and wildflower programs help our highways look good but also reduces the cost of maintenance and labor by encouraging the growth of native species.

TxDOT uses specific herbicides that target undesirable species while maintaining desired species, such as blue grama, buffalo grass, sideoats grama, and bluestems.

Herbicides also aid in regulating vegetation growth, enabling TxDOT to limit the number of mowing cycles. “Our maintenance sections are implementing aggressive herbicide programs in their respective counties to reduce the amount of undesired vegetation along the right of way, especially at intersections and median turn-arounds,” said Darwin Lankford, Director of Operations.

In addition to the herbicide program, TxDOT will continue to mow at a seven inch height cut to maintain the health of the grass, allowing it to choke out undesired vegetation.

For more information, contact Barbara.Seal@txdot.gov or (940) 937-7288.

Copper Breaks to host Star Walk

QUANAH, TX. – Copper Breaks State Park, now an International Dark Sky Park, will kick off the twentieth year of the StarWalk program on Saturday,

The StarWalk starts June 13, 2015, at sunset, or around 9:00 p.m., with a naked eye tour of the night sky over Copper Breaks State Park followed by a closer look through telescopes and binoculars. Copper Breaks has been designated an International Dark Sky Park and the park is one of only four sites in the state of Texas with an International Dark Sky Association Gold rating. What this means is that the stars at night are big and bright and visitors have spectacular viewing opportunities.

Copper Breaks staff and park friends have been offering the popular StarWalk for twenty years. The 2015 StarWalk schedule continues with; the Galaxies on June 13; Deep Sky Objects on July 18; the Milky Way on August 15; the Super Moon on September 26; and the season concludes with the Fall Constellations on October 17, 2015

SkyGuide volunteer Terry Paridon will lead participants in a naked-eye exploration of the night sky beginning at sunset, around 9:00 p.m. in Big Pond Campground.

In addition to the after-dark programs, Sky Guide volunteers will again offer Sun Fun at 4:00 p.m. Sun Fun offers the public rare views of our own star, the Sun, through telescopes fitted with filters for safe viewing.

Nighttime observing begins after sunset. Paridon will begin the program with a tour of the darkening sky-the original StarWalk. Blending science with history, legends, and lore, Paridon will take the public on a tour through major constellations, spotlighting bright stars, and introducing the “star-hopping” technique to find other interesting objects.

After the StarWalk the public is invited to view these various dark-sky objects through the park’s binoculars and telescopes with the help of knowledgeable Sky Guide volunteers who come from throughout Texas and Oklahoma to assist with the StarWalk.

StarWalk and Sun Fun are continuing Campsite Programs offered by Copper Breaks State Park. Park events are free with regular park admission of $2.00 for adults. For more information on park facilities or other programs, call 940-839-4331 during business hours.

For more information on the StarWalk or other Copper Breaks programs or facilities, contact the park during business hours at 940-839-4331. Copper Breaks State Park is located 13 miles south of Quanah and eight miles north of Crowell on State Highway 6.

NOTICE OF SOUTHWESTERN ELECTRIC POWER COMPANY’S APPLICATION FOR AUTHORITY TO REVISE FIXED FUEL FACTORS AND TO IMPLEMENT INTERIM FUEL SURCHARGE

On May 7, 2015, Southwestern Electric Power Company (“SWEPCO” or the “Company”), filed an application with the Public Utility Commission of Texas (“Commission”) in Docket No. 44701 to revise its fixed fuel factors and to implement an interim surcharge of fuel under-collections pursuant to Section 36.203 of the Public Utility Regulatory Act and Commission Substantive Rules 16 Tex. Admin. Code §§ 25.236 and 25.237. If the Commission approves this application, all of SWEPCO’s Texas retail customers who pay fixed fuel factors will be affected. This petition affects only the fuel portion of the rates that SWEPCO charges for electricity in Texas and will not affect SWEPCO’s non-fuel base rates. The effect of the revised fuel factors and interim surcharge on customers’ bills will vary depending on the rate schedules under which they take service and their usage of electricity. The utility’s collection of revenues as a result of these changes will be subject to final review by the Commission in the electric utility’s next reconciliation.

Increased Fixed Fuel Factors

SWEPCO is requesting a fuel factor revision to recover its estimated fuel and purchased power costs be made effective with bills rendered the first billing cycle of the August 2015 billing month, which begins on July 30, 2015. SWEPCO calculates its proposed fixed fuel factors (using a projected rate year of August 2015 through July 2016) differentiated by voltage level, per kilowatt-hour (kWh) as follows:

Service Voltage	February - April	May - June	August - October	November - January

Eventful week for Cub Reporter

I had a very busy week this last week.

Wednesday thru Saturday, my cousins got to stay the night with me, and we went down stairs to play the PlayStation. We didn’t get to have very much fun because it was a school night.

On Friday, I got to go to Wonderland Park and ride some rides with my class. First I got to ride the Scrambler. I also got to ride the bumper cars, the Rattlesnake, and the Himalaya. I got to eat a hot dog and Doritos, and then I got to drink a big Coke.

On Saturday, we had the Mulkey Block Party, and we had a lot

Senior citizens should be wary of these scams

Hi, gang! I have been covered up with scams, and I am having a hard time deciding on the ones to use each week. Since I am fast approaching my 81st birthday, I thought that these were for us senior citizens. It would be good information to share with your loved ones and friends also.

Undercover Inspections of Funeral Homes in Six States Prompt Compliance with Funeral Rule Disclosure Requirements. FTC’s Funeral Rule Requires Funeral Homes to Provide Price Lists to Consumers. Investigators working undercover in six states found failures to disclose pricing information to consumers, as required by the Federal Trade Commission’s Funeral Rule, in 27 of the 100 funeral homes they visited during 2014. All but two of the 27 homes have agreed to enter the Funeral Rule Offenders Program (FROP).

The FTC conducts undercover inspections every year to ensure that funeral homes comply with the agency’s Funeral Rule. The Rule, issued in 1984, gives consumers important rights when making funeral arrangements. Key provisions of the Rule require funeral homes to provide consumers with an itemized general price list at the start of an in-person discussion of funeral arrangements, a casket price list before consumers view any caskets, and an outer burial container price list before they view grave liners or vaults. The Rule also prohibits funeral homes from requiring consumers to buy any item, such as a casket, as a condition of obtaining any other funeral good or service. By requiring itemized prices, the Funeral Rule enables consumers to compare prices and buy only the goods and services they want.

Funeral homes with price list disclosure violations can enter a training program designed to increase compliance with the Funeral Rule. This year all the homes found in violation chose to enter the FROP run by the National Funeral Directors Association rather than subject themselves to the possibility of a civil penalty action by the FTC. The FROP provides participants with a legal review of the price disclosures required by the Rule, and on-going training, testing and monitoring for compliance. Funeral homes that participate in the program make a voluntary payment to the U.S. Treasury in place of a civil penalty, and pay annual administrative fees to the Association. The results of the FTC inspections for price list disclosures by region are as follows:

In Northwest Arkansas, 5 of the 16 funeral homes inspected failed to make a price list disclosure; In Bakersfield, California, 7 of the 11 funeral homes inspected failed to make a price list disclosure; In Annapolis, Maryland, and vicinity, 4 of 13 funeral homes inspected failed to make a price list disclosure; In St. Louis, Missouri, 3 of 16 funeral homes inspected failed to make a price list disclosure; In Westchester County, New York, 3 of 29 funeral homes inspected failed to make a price list disclosure; and In Seattle, Washington, five of 15 funeral homes inspected failed to make a price list disclosure.

In addition, the FTC identified a number of homes, within the six states, with only minor compliance deficiencies. In such cases, the FTC requires the funeral home to provide evidence that it has corrected the problems.

Since the FROP program began in 1996, the FTC has inspected more than 2,900 funeral homes, and found 503 homes with violations, 486 of which have agreed to enter the FROP program, with the remainder subject to FTC law enforcement actions. The FTC educates consumers in English and Spanish about their rights under the Funeral Rule, and provides guidance to businesses in how to comply. For more information read Shopping for Funeral Services, Paying Final Respects: Your Rights When Buying Funeral Goods and Services, and Complying with the Funeral Rule.

The Federal Trade Commission works for consumers to prevent fraudulent, deceptive, and unfair business practices and to provide information to help spot, stop, and avoid them. To file a complaint in English or Spanish, visit the FTC’s online Complaint Assistant or call 1-877-FTC-HELP (1-877-382-4357). The FTC enters complaints into Consumer Sentinel, a secure, online database available to more than 2,000 civil and criminal law enforcement agencies in the U.S. and abroad. The FTC’s website provides free information on a variety of consumer topics. Like the FTC on Facebook, follow us on Twitter, and subscribe to press releases for the latest FTC news and resources.

Older Consumers can tell Debt Collectors: “My benefits are protected from garnishment.”

Did you know that Social Security and VA benefits are generally protected from garnishment to pay a debt to a private person or company? Most debt collectors can’t garnish money in your bank account to pay a debt. You can download our fact sheet from the Consumer Advisory: <http://www.consumerfinance.gov/blog/consumer-advisory-your-benefits-are-protected-from-garnishment/>

Here’s how the federal protection works: Banks must automatically check your account history to see if Social Security or VA benefits were direct-deposited to your account in the last two months. If so, your bank must protect 2 months’ worth of benefits in your account and let you use that money. If your account has more than 2 months’ worth of benefits, your bank can freeze the extra money.

Consumers can also use our new sample letter to tell a debt collector that their Social Security or VA benefits are protected from garnishment.

Please share these tools with the older consumers you know! Thank you, Nora Dowd Eisenhower, Office for Older Americans Consumer Financial Protection Bureau. Stay safe out there!

Memorial Day a day of remembrance

An interesting question was raised in one of my chat groups and that is, how do you greet someone on Memorial Day? You know, merry Christmas, happy birthday, happy July 4th, and possibly happy Memorial Day. Isn’t that like saying, “happy funeral”?

After all, Memorial Day is a day of remembrance which began in the south during the civil war with women cleaning cemeteries and placing flowers on Confederate soldiers’ graves. The time of year was usually in May because flowers were in bloom and the cemeteries were in need of a good cleaning. This effort was passed from town to town and by the end of the war in 1865 had become a tradition called Decoration Day. In 1868, the women of Columbus, Mississippi, began the tradition of placing flowers on both Union and Confederate graves. As one mother said, “If my boy was up north I would like flowers on his grave.” More than 300,000 Union soldiers were reinterred to national cemeteries, mostly at Gettysburg or Arlington.

Decoration Day continued with the soldiers of WWI and the wearing of a red poppy that was inspired by the poem, “In Flanders Field” written by a physician with the Canadian Expeditionary Force, Lt. Col. John McCrae after the second battle of Ypres, Belgium. He noticed how quickly red poppies sprang up on the graves of fallen soldiers and was inspired to write one of the most famous poems of WWI.

graves home to decorate, Korea and Vietnam were almost ignored with the change from Decoration Day to Memorial Day proclaimed by Pres. Lyndon Johnson in 1968. Organizations such as the VFW, American Legion and Boy Scouts place American flags on graves that are identified as serving in the military at our local cemeteries, usually there are ceremonies to commemorate the veteran with small groups to pay homage.

It is sad this important day has gone from remembrance to fun, from bowed heads to happy Memorial Day. The first stanza of “In Flanders Field.”

“In Flanders Field the poppies blow, between the crosses row on row that mark our place; and in the sky the larks, still bravely singing, fly, scarce heard among the guns below.”

Memorial Day: A day of remembrance.

Drugs in the News

Generic Version of MS Drug Approved by FDA

The United States Food and Drug Administration (FDA) recently approved the first generic version of the multiple sclerosis (MS) injectable medication glatiramer acetate (Copaxone). This generic version is currently approved as a twenty milligram dosage only. A medication is labeled as generic after the FDA determines that the drug has the same standards of quality as the brand name drug. A generic drug must pass all of the FDA’s high standards for testing to prove that it meets strict standards including safety, purity, and quality as the brand name drug. Generic medications are sold at lower prices than the brand name medications which helps hospitals and consumers save money. The FDA website maintains a list of brand name medications that have a generic counterpart.

Copaxone is prescribed to help treat multiple sclerosis in those whose condition has worsened after taking the standard treatment of care. Copaxone is injected into the fat under the skin and is available as twenty milligram strength or forty milligram dosage strength. The most common side effects from Copaxone are itching, swelling, redness, and skin changes around the injection area.

Cubs retire six US flags

Members of Clarendon Cub Scout Pack 437 participated in a Flag Retirement ceremony Monday afternoon to close Memorial Day observations.

The ceremony organized by Den Leader Linda Rowland with the assistance of the Howardwick Volunteer Fire Department was held at Howardwick's City Park.

Cubmaster Roger Estlack opened the service and discussed the importance of the flag and the men and women who sacrificed their lives for it, and Rowland discussed the proper and respectful manner to retire a flag that has become worn and tattered through time.

With reverence and silence, the boys carefully cut the stripes from the flags and placed them one at a time in a modest fire. Finally, the Union - the blue field of stars - of each flag was carried respectfully to the flames.

Those participating in the ceremony were Nathan Estlack, Kayden Cummings, Steven Mills, Jacob Murillo, Patrick Monds, Ben Estlack, Dan Estlack, Mason Allred, Robert Powell, Henry Bivens, Haughton Bivens, and Kaendan Moffett. Girl Scout Evelyn Mills also participated in the ceremony.

Following the retirement of the flags, Howardwick Mayor Mike Rowland thanked the Scouts and the firefighters, and Sam Grider dismissed those assembled with a prayer.

the lion's tale by scarlet estlack

The Clarendon Lions Club had their regular Tuesday meeting at noon on May 26. There were 13 members and no guests.

The sunshine and the gentle breezes of this chamber of commerce weather day put everyone in fine Lion spirit. Members enjoyed barbecue brisket with all the fixings and peach cobbler for dessert.

Boss Lion-elect Jacob Fangman led today's meeting with the Pledge of Allegiance and prayers. Lion Scarlet Estlack reported that summer classes will begin next week at the college and Kids' College is scheduled for one week in both June and July. Lion Mike Norrell reported on the school activities wrapping up at CISD.

Lion John Howard, our county judge, reported that he had attended probate and guardianship which was sponsored by a gran through the appellate court. He further reported that on June 6 at 10 a.m. a prayer for our nation and its leaders will take place on the Courthouse lawn.

There being no further business, we adjourned to go forth and spread Lionism and good will in our fair county.

Broncos’ stellar season ends in Regional Quarterfinals

By Sandy Anderberg

The Clarendon Broncos had a great season but fell to West Texas High in the Regional Quarterfinal round.

The Broncos faced off against WT in a best two-out-of-three series last week and despite going into an extra inning in the first game they were defeated by only one run each game.

In the first game of the series, the Broncos scored the first run in their first at bat and held the Comanches scoreless until the third inning. WT was able to put one run on the board to tie the game at one all. The teams remained tied at the end of seven and had to go into an extra inning.

WT was able to post five runs in the eighth inning after an error by the Broncos allowed WT to put a runner on first base. The Comanches slammed a triple, which gave them the lead in the game. They connected once again on a two-run single that handed the Broncos their 1-6 loss.

The Broncos were determined in the second game of the series and gave it their all to try to get the win. But they had a little trouble on the mound, and the Comanches put up four runs in the first inning.

Chance Lockhart came in to take over and the Broncos worked their way back in the game. Bryce Hatley hit a triple that knocked some runs in and he was able to score on a wild pitch. That put the Broncos back in the lead at 6-5, but WT came back scoring two in the seventh to retake the lead. The Broncos were then able to load the bases, but failed to get anyone across the plate.

WT won the game 7-6 and took the series. The Broncos finished a great season at 16-10.

Regional playoffs were in Gruver on Thursday 21st and Friday 22nd. The Game on Thursday was tied 1-1 and went into extra innings and we lost. The second game was Friday and again the score was close remaining tied most of the game until the last inning when West Texas broke out and won. This is the farthest Bronco Baseball has gone in playoffs in 3 years. Bryce Hatley batting, drives Joshua Cobb on third base in for a score.
