Museum sets party for Adair's birthday

The Saints' Roost Museum will serve tea and cake during a birthday celebration for Panhandle pioneer Cornelia Adair on Saturday, April 6, from 2:00 to 4:00 p.m.

During the celebration, a program at 3 p.m. will look at the achievements and contributions of Mrs. Adair, who was born April 6, 1837, and passed away September 22, 1921.

During her lifetime, she and her husband, John Adair, along with Col. Charles Goodnight, founded the JA Ranch; she funded the construction of the building now used as Clarendon's City Hall; and she also built the Adair Hospital in 1910, which now houses the Museum.

The Cornelia Adair Celebration will be held in conjunction with a new exhibit on women's hats. Ladies attending the celebration are encouraged to wear their favorite hat.

City buys land near site of future pool

The Clarendon City Council purchased additional property near the proposed location of the city's aquatics center during its regular meeting March 14.

Aldermen approved about $18,000 to purchase the house at 117 E. Fifth and authorized another $5,538.75 to demolish the structure.

The property is located on the opposite corner of the block where the aquatics center is to be built.

In other city business, the board received an update on the USDA-funded water infrastructure project which will be moving into phase two on the east side of town, starting on Cooke Street near the Saints' Roost Museum. The project was reported at being about eight percent complete.

Aldermen were also reminded of the public hearing to be held April 18 for certain properties with code violations.

City Administrator David Dockery also reported that Green-Light Gas intends to reduce its natural gas rates in the city.

Tension high ahead of Riza's evaluation

Clarendon College Regents will meet this Thursday, March 28, for the annual evaluation of President Robert Riza at a time of unprecedented tension between certain members of the board and the administration.

Board members at the February 21 meeting clashed with the president on wide variety of issues, mostly regarding finances, painting a dire picture of the college's position with Regent Jerry Woodard at one point even declaring that the college has zero reserves.

Vice President of Administrative Services Rit Christian objected to that assertion at the meeting and stated so again for the record this week.

"The college is not insolvent," Christian said Monday.

CC has approximately $250,000 in cash reserves currently with another $250,000 scheduled to move into reserves this week. Riza and Christian say the college intends to repeat that in September and December as part of a plan to have $1 million in cash reserves by the end of the calendar year.

"The idea is to have $1 million in reserve with a quarter million coming due every 90 days if we needed to get to it," Riza told the Enterprise this week.

Riza also reported that plan to the board in February as Woodard and board secretary Darlene Spier continued a nearly year-long effort to criticize the president's handling of college finances and to exert more board influence over the daily operation of the college.

Pointing to an overage in one budget line item, Woodard asserted that the board of regents must approve any expenditure that is not budgeted and said that any overage should first be approved by a budget amendment.

Christian also pushed back against that idea at the meeting.

"A budget is a budget... your best guess at the time you do it," he said. "If we want to start amending the budget, we can make it become spot on by the end of the year, but that's not really a comparison of budget to actual."

The board spent about an hour and a half on financial reports from December and January during February's meeting and did not approve either one. The regents did approve the college's quarterly investment report.

Regents also spent more than a third of an hour considering minutes from board meetings in January and October and two meetings in December but only approved the record of the January meeting.

Finances again came up last month under Riza's president's report as he attempted to address questions Woodard and Spier have raised about the college's financial position and the reduction of the college's cash assets.

Riza told the Enterprise Monday that CC had cash assets of $6.612 million at the end of fiscal year 2013 and that by the end of fiscal year 2018 last August, that figure had dropped to $4.118 million, a difference of $2.493 million.

That cash, the president points out, went to several different expenditures during that five-year time, all of which were approved by the board. Those items included $870,595 for roof repairs; $91,274 for new bleachers in the gym; $283,029 for improvements to the Livestock & Equine Center; $255,425 on new buses; $240,475 to purchase the former Charles Deyhle residence; $68,533 to repay student loan liabilities from the 1970s and 1980s; $93,333 to complete the purchase of the cosmetology center in Amarillo; and $382,228 to fund renovations to that facility.

Those expenses add up to $2.284 million and do not include expenses paid in fiscal year 2018 for past due liabilities to the state retirement systems for full and part time employees and to the IRS, which totaled another $442,018.

In the fiscal year 2018 audit report, the college auditors raised no alarms about the financial position

TxDOT begins $8 million US 287 project in Hedley

An $8 million highway rehabilitation project is currently underway on US 287 through Hedley in Donley County.

Traffic has been reduced to one-lane in each direction on the north side while work takes place in the southbound lanes. Phase one of the project is expected to last until mid-summer at which time work will begin on the northbound lanes.

The project will make significant improvements to the highway and will feature a concrete pavement surface, according to Matt Herbstritt, P.E., TxDOT Childress Area Engineer, who is overseeing the project.

"We encourage everyone to use caution when traveling through the area, especially when turning off the highway in Hedley," said Herstritt.

Traffic delays are possible in the construction zone during the length of the project. Motorists are urged to use caution and follow posted speed limits when driving through Hedley. Please pay close attention to construction workers and equipment, as they are often in close proximity to passing vehicles. Be patient, take your time and remember traffic fines double in work zones.

Restrictions on oversized and extra-long vehicles will be in place during the project. For more information or other questions, contact the Texas Department of Motor Vehicles (TxDMV) at 800-299-1700.

The project is expected to be complete within one year.

Lions 5K pre-registration ends next Monday

Registration is now open for the seventh annual Chance Mark Jones Roar & Run 5K, which will be held Saturday, April 13 at Clarendon College.

The Clarendon Lions Club is hosting the event to coincide with Child Abuse Prevention Month.

Those interested in running or walking the 5K (about 3.1 miles) are encouraged to sign up before April 1 to take advantage of the early bird discount. Registration costs $25, but those who sign up early save $5. Signing up by April 1 also guarantees participants the official 5K t-shirt.

The year's race will start and end on the Clarendon College campus and will run through the city, around Prospect Park, which is the home of the Lions' Chance Mark Jones Memorial Playground, and past several historic structures, including the Donley County Courthouse, the First United Methodist Church, and the S.W. Lowe House.

The race will begin at 9 a.m. Race registrations are available at the Clarendon Visitor Center at the Mulkey Theatre, at the Enterprise, or online at <https://bit.ly/2IxyzNy>.

Sponsorships are also available, and potential sponsors are also asked to sign up by April 1 to ensure their names are on this year's T-shirt.

Proceeds will go towards the many charitable activities of the Clarendon Lions Club, which includes eyeglasses for local school kids, Christmas baskets for local families, hosting the local office of The Bridge - Children's Advocacy Center, local scholarships, continued park improvements, and monetary support for other local charities.

Enterprise wins first place Editorials, Ads

The Clarendon Enterprise received eleven awards, including first place in Editorials and Advertising Initiative, at the 09th annual Panhandle Press Association Convention in Amarillo last Saturday, March 23.

Competing in Division One for weekly newspapers, the Enterprise was recognized for Editorials on the subjects of the Howardwick City Council, open government, and Open Meetings training at Clarendon College and for Advertisements designed by Ashlee Estlack and Roger Estlack.

The Enterprise won second place honors for Human Interest Photos by Roger Estlack and Kari

General Excellence in Division One this year went to the Canadian Record. The Eastern New Mexico News took home top honors in Division Two.

Perryton Herald publisher Mary Dudley, and former Muleshoe Journal publisher, the late Larry Thornton, were inducted into the PPA Hall of Fame.

The PPA was led this year by

Booker publisher Joni Yara, who will remain on the board as the Immediate Past President. Other board members include President Tara Huff of Fritch, Vice President Jeff Blackmon of Shamrock, and Secretary/Treasurer Roger Estlack of Clarendon along with directors Wes Reeves of Xcel Energy in Amarillo, Mary Dudley of Perryton, Tim Ritter of Canyon, Michael Wright of Dumas, and Cheri Smith of Canadian.

Attending this year's convention from Clarendon were Roger, Ashlee, Benjamin, and Elaina Estlack and Tara Allred.

Next year's Panhandle Press Convention will be held March 21-22 in Perryton.

CC expects huge crowd for contest

The Clarendon College Invitational Judging Contest may have its biggest attendance ever this Saturday if registration numbers stay true and everyone shows up.

As of Monday, more than 2,400 contestants were registered for the event compared to 2,100 registered last year at this point.

The biggest single event doubles Clarendon's population for a day each year. The contest attracts around 2,000 high school FFA students and 4-H students from around Texas and nearby states.

The number of registrations doesn't include the hundreds of parents and coaches who accompany the students to the contest. According to the 2010 US Census, Clarendon has a population of 2,026.

Past contests have had huge impacts on the local economy. Restaurants are typically packed for the event, and this year will hopefully be equally successful. Best Western Red River Inn reported they are booked solid for Friday night.

In addition to helping local merchants, the event also presents a great opportunity for CC to showcase its campus, faculty, and programs for prospective students. Johnny Treichel, Clarendon College livestock and meats judging coach, said the event is a big recruiting tool for the college.

"This is the only time each year the college has this many potential students on campus," he said. "And we are pleased to have such positive support from the community year after year."

City to seek third round of pool bids

Last Wednesday brought a second round of disappointment for Clarendon officials when new bids for the city's proposed water recreation facility again came in more than $1 million above the project estimate.

The low - and only - bid at the first bid opening in January came in at $3.162 million. A second round of bidding drew the interest of three companies, but the low bid at the March 20 opening was $3.255 million.

Higher than expected costs for concrete and steel are still being fingered for the cause of the price overrun.

City Administrator David Dockery says city officials are going back to the drawing board with engineering firm WatersEdge to try to scale the plan to the for the funds available.

Regents need to call off ‘witch hunt’

CC board should return focus to needs of students

Clarendon College Regents need to come together to focus on doing what’s best for students and push back against the combative stance a minority of the board is taking against the administration.

The growing rift between Regents Jerry Woodard and Darlene Spier and President Robert Riza was on full display when the college board had its regular meeting last month. The conflict has been growing for more than two years and amplified after the college’s accrediting body a year ago said Woodard had to step down as board chairman due to a conflict of interest as the president of the college’s depository bank.

Following that, Woodard began making a habit of presenting a laundry list of questions for the administration, and Riza last month complained of the “ambush jobs” his administration has been subjected to. In December, Riza told the board that the “witch hunts” had to end and said that he had lost two vice presidents in the last year because of it, referring to the departures of Vice President of Academic Affairs Brian Fuller and Vice President of External Affairs Ashlee Estlack.

“Both were under 40, enrolled in doctoral programs, and wanted to make their careers at Clarendon College,” the president said at that time.

Spier last month objected to Riza’s “ambush job” comment and said, “We’re not after you or any employee.” But her actions, and that of Woodard’s, contradict that statement. In fact, in the last two years, administration members have said privately they felt they should take turns wearing a vest with a target on it when they attend meetings.

Last September, what should have been a short meeting was marked instead by a roasting of the president that lasted more than an hour. Two regents were absent from that meeting, and five others sat mute as Woodard and Spier tag-teamed an assault on Riza’s management of the college, ignoring the administration’s record setting enrollments and top rankings in the state for graduation rates and student success and focusing instead on what Spier called “a pattern” of overspending in the last five years.

That of course begs the question, if the college has really been overspending, then why would it take five years for these two – a banker and a 30-plus-year college secretary – to say something? And if we’re really concerned about spending, why would Woodard, as chairman of the board in 2017, rush to purchase the Deyhle house in an illegal “emergency” meeting and spend almost a quarter of a million dollars? If we’re so worried about spending, why did the board unanimously give Riza permission to buy buses last March without even discussing prices!

To be sure, there are patterns at Clarendon College... a pattern of board members violating or flaunting the Open Meetings Act and college policy and a pattern of hostility that has simmered and occasionally bubbled over between these two regents and the president for over two years. Nothing the president or his administration seems to do can please them.

Woodard and Spier have asked for a number of reports that exemplifies their lack of confidence in the president, and they have developed a pattern of belittling not just the president but members of his team. College board meetings that have historically been a picture of professionalism and decorum have become monthly fishing expeditions as two board members seem to do their best to “catch” the president or members of his team.

Over a year ago, Estlack was asked to compile a report of required postings on the college website, after Woodard blamed her for certain financial reports not being posted online. The report presented last February ended up being 65 pages long and showed more than 70 people contribute content to the website, and that more than 30 reports are required by the state or other agencies. The financial reports in question were not posted on time because they had not been created by the then vice president of administrative services when they were required.

Estlack later was assigned to report on late filings and other issues with the college’s retirement and benefit contributions to the state, even though the administration had months earlier fixed those issues with the state. But when her report found that the college’s past filing problems were not just under the previous vice president of administrative services, whom Riza had hired, but in fact stretched back more than ten years, she was told by Spier at the board meeting last March to “Quit digging, honey.”

Last February, while regents did okay a raise for Riza, Woodard and Spier purposefully led the board in not extending his contract, only to have the rest of the board – led by Jack Moreman and Ruth Robinson – stand up to them in April and vote to add a year to Riza’s contract. Moreman at the time accused “that end of the table” – referring to Woodard, Spier, and Edwin Campbell – of violating the Open Meetings Act in February by having “a meeting within a meeting”

In June, the college’s attorney gave an excellent training on the Open Meetings Act and the proper role of the board. Woodard was absent, and Spier apparently just didn’t get it.

In July, CC Vice President of Administrative Services Rit Christian recommended that the board accept the depository bid of Happy State Bank and enumerated the reasons why Happy’s bid was the best of the three presented (primarily higher interest rates for CDs and lower fees). Woodard, who is president of the local branch of Herring Bank, persuaded his fellow board members to keep the college’s deposits at Herring and then proceeded to treat the financial officer like dirt beneath his shoe at subsequent meetings. Woodard did abstain from the

editor’s commentary
by roger estlack

vote, but two other members with a financial interest in the bank did not.

Just five months prior to that, in resigning as the board chairman under the pressure from the Southern Association of Colleges & Schools, Woodard asserted that he always recuses himself from discussions involving Herring Bank’s contract.

Following an August meeting, Spier stayed around after all other regents had left and spent half an hour lecturing Christian and Estlack on how to prepare financial reports “the way it used to be done.” When Spier finished, Estlack asked her if they (the administration) did it her way, what would be the next thing she and Mr. Woodard would want. Spier acted bewildered and said she didn’t know what Estlack was talking about. Estlack then used the term “witch hunt” and said she was tired of being treated as incompetent or as if the administration had something to hide. Later that month, Spier and Woodard stalled Riza’s recommendation to promote Estlack to a vice president, resulting in the board tabling a president’s personnel recommendation for the first time in the 20+ years the Enterprise has been covering regents’ meetings. The promotion was granted at a subsequent meeting when Woodard was absent.

The atmosphere with the board became so toxic that Riza in August told other administrators they no longer had to attend the regents’ meetings. And why should they attend? It is surely frustrating to work hard at your job day in and day out and build a record of success that is being talked about by other community colleges and in the halls of Austin, only to have two people show up once a month and rain on everything you’re working to accomplish.

Last fall, Woodard started beating a dead horse from a year earlier, called into question the president’s authority to sign any purchase contracts. The issue is a contract for copier/printer services that the college prematurely canceled when the former vice president of administrative services believed it was a month-to-month agreement. The college ended up paying $30,000 in the fall of 2017 to get out of the contract. Riza reported it at the time, it was deemed an honest mistake, and everyone moved on... all while Woodard was chairman. But now it’s a “thing” and it came up again last month.

Woodard also chastised Riza last fall for replacing the washer and dryer at the college president’s house, saying “any change to that house requires board approval.”

So in his view, if the college-owned dryer goes out (which it did), the president can’t replace it without a board meeting so Woodard and Spier can presumably have their input on whether to get a Whirlpool or a Maytag.

In October, Estlack addressed the board in open comments and informed them that she had filed a criminal complaint against the board for Open Meetings violations as well as an employee grievance against the board, a complaint with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, and a formal complaint against the board with the Southern Association of Colleges & Schools, all related to the board’s treatment of her as an employee and the board members’ repeated violations of state law and college policy. All of the above complaints are still pending. Estlack later resigned in December when conditions did not improve.

Contrary to Spier’s assertion that they aren’t after anybody, time and time again they show an attitude that the president and his staff are incompetent. Just last month, Woodard pushed to have Spier compile the board’s evaluation of the president, dismissing Riza’s plan to have a staff member do that. Historically that’s a staff job, and the Enterprise knows of no instance in which former regent, the late Delbert Robertson, ever complied such evaluations in his decade’s long service as board secretary. It was fine to have the staff compile the evaluations... when Spier was the staff doing it. But then it’s also interesting that there was no consternation about the keeping of the minutes during Robertson’s time as board secretary.

Spier has a bit of a problem living in the present. She doesn’t like the way the college invests money now, even stating that it would cause former CC president Kenneth Vaughan – who retired in 1989 and died in 2011 – to roll over in his grave. Clarendon College, like most businesses, has changed considerably in the last 30 years, and even the last ten or five years have seen quite an evolution.

Almost all of the financial information presented in the president’s report at February’s meeting regarding what depleted the college’s cash reserves was previously presented by Riza at the October meeting, but he correctly stated at the time that what he told them didn’t matter “because you aren’t going to believe me anyway.” Apparently he’s right, since the same questions keep coming up.

CC is a huge enterprise requiring specialized knowledge to operate. It can’t be totally controlled by a board meeting once a month. The board can and should govern, but it needs to understand its limits.

From the discussion at last month’s meeting, it’s clear that the arguments of Woodard and Spier have gotten traction with at least two other board members as they work to kill this administration by a thousand pin pricks.

Whatever is eating these two – bruised egos, feelings of inadequacy or irrelevancy, or a desire for control – it needs to be put aside. Clarendon College is this community’s most valuable asset, and it is too important to let two people yank the reins and put the cart in the ditch by running off qualified employees, violating the law and college policy, and risking the college’s accreditation. Above all they need to stop accusing the administration of violating policies when they themselves can’t seem to follow policy or state law.

If they can’t swallow their pride and let the administration do its job, then the other board members need to rise to the occasion, stop sitting silently, and get the focus back on what is best for the college. And if they can’t get that done, then it’s time to start looking for new board members who can.

Mueller Report doesn’t prove any obstruction

By Noab Elam

On Sunday, Attorney General William Barr released a letter to Congress claiming that Special Counsel Robert Mueller found no evidence “to establish that the President was involved in an underlying crime related to Russian election interference.”

The report said “The Special Counsel found no evidence that the Trump campaign or anyone associated with it conspired with the Russians to influence the election, despite offers by the Russians to do so.” The letter also says that while Mueller’s report “does not conclude that the President committed a crime, it also does not exonerate him.”

During the investigation, Mueller used 19 lawyers and 40 FBI special agents who issued 2,800 subpoenas, carried out nearly 500 search warrants, obtained more than 230 orders for communication records, issued requests to 13 foreign countries, and interviewed more than 500 witnesses.

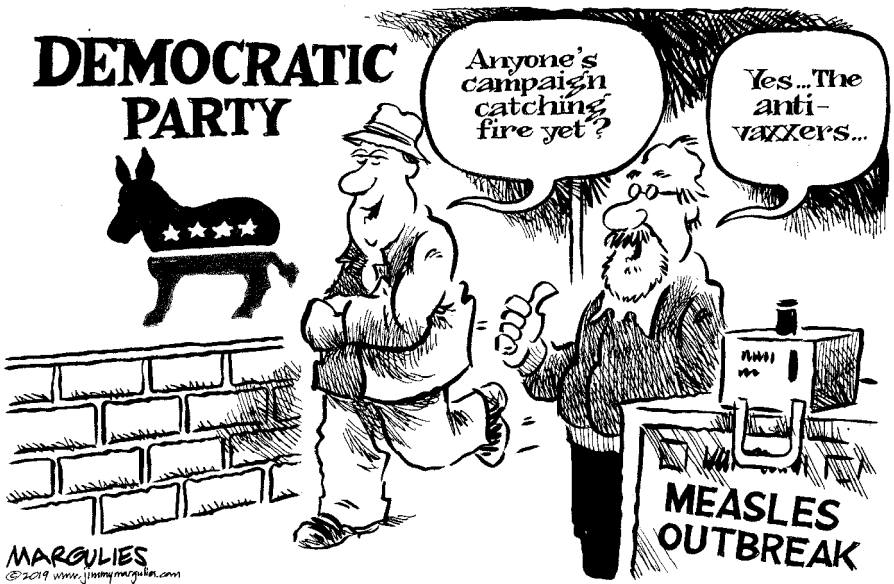

The special counsel found that no members of the Trump Campaign or anyone else collaborated with the Russian officials and Russian-controlled Internet Research Agency’s efforts to influence the election through on and off misinformation campaigns.

The report does list Trump’s actions that could be considered “obstruction”, but after reviewing the report, neither Barr or Deputy Attorney General Rod Rosenstein found that the actions listed were enough to require further inquiry or prosecution. Barr commented, “Deputy Attorney General Rod Rosenstein and I have concluded that the evidence developed during the Special Counsel’s investigation is not sufficient to establish that the President committed an obstruction of justice offense.” He even said, “The report identifies no actions that in our judgment constitutes obstructive conduct.”

Democrats, however, have noted that, while not requiring prosecution at the moment, Mueller’s report is not explicitly “exonerate” President Trump. Democratic Representative of New York Jerry Nadler tweeted, “But Special Counsel Mueller clearly and explicitly is not exonerating the President, and we must hear from AG Barr about his decision making and see all the underlying evidence for the American people to know all the facts.” Barr’s letter mentions that Mueller’s report is supposed to be a “confidential” document, but will work with Congress to make as much of the report available to the public as possible.

The story is still developing and more information should come out later in the week. As of right now though, Trump looks clean. That is a good thing. No one should ever root for a president to be involved in obstruction or collusion despite if they agree with the person or not.

The Clarendon Lions Club held its regular Tuesday noon meeting March 26 with Boss Lion John Howard in charge.

We had ten members, Sweetheart Brandalyn Ellis, and two guests this week. Jayla Lackey and Amy Lovell of the Amarillo Area Foundation were the guests of Lion Ashlee Estlack and brought our program.

Lion David Dockery reported on the city, which will be bidding again on the pool project. He also said the USDA project has moved from the west to the east side of town, and he said Kimberly Cooper is the new utility clerk at City Hall.

Lion Landon Lambert reported on his brother, who is steadily improving in Dallas. Sharon Brad-dock will be the new judge's secretary in April.

Lion Scarlet Estlack reported a busy week at the college with three days of UIL contests this week and the invitational judging contest this weekend.

Lackey and Lovell discussed the role of the Amarillo Area Foundation in helping area non-profit groups and providing a source for scholarships for area students, including Donley County students.

They also discussed the Pan-handle Gives program through which qualified non-profits can be eligible for enhancement funds during the National Day of Giving period from November 25 to December 3. Local 501(c)3 organizations can register by March 29 at www.bit.ly/tpg\_2019 to be eligible for the fundraiser this year. Last year, the Donley County Community Fund was able to enhance every $1 donation to $1.30 through this program.

Important Reminder: the Chance Mark Jones Roar & Run 5K is April 13. Early bird registrations continue through next Monday, April 1.

There being no further business, we were adjourned.

The Golden Needle Quilters met Thursday, March 21, at the Senior Citizen's Center with Allene Leathers hosting.

The ladies also stitched on a lovely, unique star quilt put together by Tiny Alderson.

The day was much enjoyed as members shared many cat stories. Those present were Allen and Tiny, Louella Slater, Wilma Lindsey, Carlene Hollar, Janan Koontz, Mary Lynn Manning, Dottie Newkirk, and Annis Stavenhagen, Barbara Helms.

Exercise dance class to be held

The Donley County Senior Citizens Center is inviting local residents to attend exercise classes each Monday and Thursday from 10:30 to 11:00 a.m. starting next Monday, April 1.

Francis Thompson and Louella Slater will be teaching line dancing.

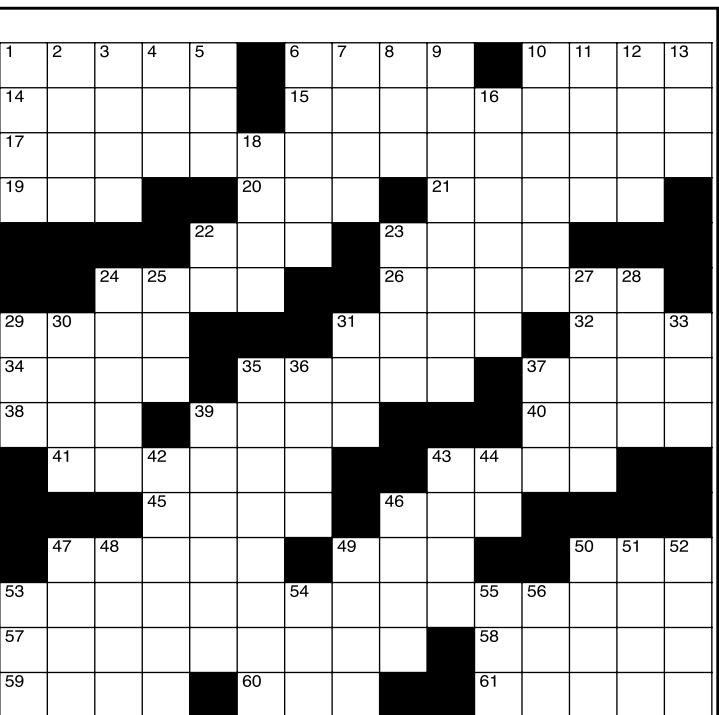

Center Director Mary Shields says everyone is welcome to enjoy fun and great exercise and then stay for lunch.

Meet the candidates to be held in H'wick

Thank you, sweet Jesus, for the 1.50 inches of rain we received and for protecting us from the majority of the hail. The grass is turning green, daffodils are blooming, and the silly apricot tree was in full bloom so lost most blooms to the hail. Oh well, apricots are good any time but are sweeter when we don't have them to eat each year.

A "Meet the Candidates" question and answer session is planned at Howardwick City Hall on April 2 from 6-8 p.m. with Sandy Childress acting as moderator. To assure your questions are asked, submit them in a sealed envelope to City Hall, no signature required, before noon Friday, March 29.

The first session from 6 to 7 will be for mayoral candidates Tony Clemishire, Coy Cooper, J.D. Kindle, and Brice Hawley. The second session from 7 to 8 will be questions for the five candidates for alderman: Ericka Mills, Johnny Floyd, Beverly McCaskill, Jerry Mulanax, and Tammy Jordan. Questions will be open to the floor if time permits.

Remember, you must be registered to vote by April 4 to vote in the May 4 election.

Keep praying for rain. Our farmers and ranchers will have to step up since so many crops have been lost through the heartland with all the flooding.

Press convention gets interrupted by tornado sirens

Last Friday, me and my sister Ella got out of school at lunch to go to the press convention in Amarillo with our parents and some of our friends who work for or at newspapers.

This convention happens every year, and a bunch of newspapers get together from across the Panhandle to get judged and some even receive awards. But on the first day we usually get together to do a silent auction and to eat dinner while our guest speaker does their thing.

This year we had something crazy happen. We got an alert saying that there was a tornado warning in our area, and we didn't think anything of it until the sirens started going off. When that happened, a group of us went and crammed into the bathroom, and we stayed in there to wait out the storm. While we were in there, we started getting bored so we decided to start taking selfies in the bathroom, and we said that, "We're having a party in the bathroom!"

After all this, we came out and continued our night, but I would also like to congratulate my Dad, Mom, Tara, and all of the other newspapers who won an award!

Applications for ACEP being accepted

TEMPLE – USDA’s Natural Resources Conservation Service is now accepting applications for the Agricultural Conservation Easement Program (ACEP). The ACEP, reauthorized through the 2018 Farm Bill, funds easements for agricultural lands and wetlands.

Approved agricultural easements prevent productive working lands from being converted to non-agricultural uses and maximize protection of land devoted to food production. Cropland, rangeland, grassland, pastureland and nonindustrial private forestland are eligible.

Wetland reserve easements restore and enhance wetlands and improve habitat. Eligible lands include farmed or converted wetlands that can be successfully and cost-effectively restored.

Applications are currently being accepted for wetlands reserve easements and will be rated according to the easement’s potential for protecting and enhancing habitat for migratory birds, fish and other wildlife.

“The 2018 Farm Bill provides tremendous opportunities for even more people to get involved in conserving and protecting our working lands and wetlands,” said NRCS Texas State Conservationist Salvador Salinas. “We encourage Indian tribes, state and local governments, non-governmental organizations and private landowners to contact their local NRCS office to find out how to apply.”

Applications for a Wetland Reserve Easement (WRE) and an Agricultural Land Easement (ALE) through the ACEP are accepted on a continual basis. For fiscal year 2019, Texas will evaluate all applications received by April 30, 2019. Applications received after April 30, 2019, will be held for funding consideration in fiscal year 2020.

Since 1995, NRCS conservation easement programs have protected over 128,000 acres of restored wetlands and working agricultural lands in Texas.

NOTICE OF COMPLIANCE TARIFF FILING

Southwestern Electric Power Company (SWEPCO) filed with the Public Utility Commission of Texas (Commission) on March 14, 2019 its Petition requesting approval of its proposed Military Base Surcharge Tariff.

Section 36.354(a) of the Public Utility Regulatory Act (PURA), at Texas Utilities Code § 36.354, provides that each electric utility in an area where implementation of full customer choice has been delayed by the Commission in accordance with PURA Section 39.103 shall discount charges for electric service provided to a military base. Section 36.354(b) of PURA establishes the discount to be provided to military installations as a 20 percent reduction of the base commercial rate that the electric utility would otherwise charge the installation.

Section 36.354(c) of PURA provides that the electric utility may assess a surcharge to all its Texas retail customers to recover the difference in revenue between the revenues from the discounted rate for military bases and the base commercial rate. SWEPCO’s Tariff Sheet No. IV-16 provides the Military Base Adjustment Factor per billing kWh as reflected below:

MONTHLY FACTOR

Major Rate Classes	$/kWh
Residential	$0.0001092
Commercial & Small Industrial	$0.0000780
Industrial / Large Lighting and Power	$0.0000444
Municipal	$0.0000863
Outdoor Lighting	$0.0001439

SWEPCO has requested that the tariff become effective with the first billing cycle of May 2019. The Petition has been assigned Tariff Control No. 49333. Persons who wish to intervene in or comment upon this proceeding must notify the Commission within 21 days of SWEPCO’s filing of the Petition. A request to intervene or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, P.O. Box 13326, Austin, Texas 78711-3326. Further information may also be obtained by calling the Commission at (512) 936-7120 or (888) 782-8477. Hearing and speech-impaired individuals with text telephones (TTY) may contact the Commission at (512) 936-7136. The Company can be contacted at 428 Travis Street, Shreveport, LA 71101, or by calling (888) 216-3523 during normal business hours.

Lady Broncos beat Gruver

By Sandy Anderberg

The Lady Broncos just opened their District schedule and posted big wins over Gruver and Sanford Fritch. They defeated Gruver 16-5 and Fritch 11-9.

According to coach Carrie Hicks, the Lady Bronco outfield played an outstanding game.

"They ate up five of the six fly balls hit to them," Hicks said. "Sandra Smith caught three of them, and Makayla Brown caught two."

Even though they won big, the ladies struggled on offense.

"It took a couple of innings to get our bats going," Hicks said. "They finally came alive in the third inning."

Emily Johnson slammed a double and a triple, and S. Smith and Ashlynn Newsome both hit doubles.

"We had a double play in the seventh inning," Hicks said. "Emily caught a line drive on first and fired it to third. The runner on third didn't tag up, so Raynee Newsome got her out."

The ladies played Fritch at home in a back and forth game.

"We started off great in the first two innings, and jumped ahead 6-2," Hicks said.

In the fourth inning, the ladies made good on five runs, but allowed Fritch to stay in the game at different times in the game. However, they were able to stay strong on both offense and defense to hold the Lady Eagles off. Defensively, S. Smith caught a couple of great catches in center field, and Emily and Ashlynn each caught a pop fly in the infield Hicks said. R. Newsome tagged three out at third, and Ashlynn fielded a few at her short stop position.

Offensively, the ladies had their bats going. S. Smith, Jade Benson, Johnson, and Brown all hit doubles.

"We were aggressive running bases," Hicks said. "That is definitely one of our strengths."

Madi Smith was on the mound for the Lady Broncos and threw a good game to get the win.

The Lady Broncos will travel to West Texas High on Friday, March 29 and take on Sunray at home on Tuesday, April 2, beginning at 5:00 p.m.

Riza: President accuses regents of ‘ambush jobs’

of the institution. Four “findings” in the audit, which was approved by the board in December, suggested additional documentation when pulling down federal financial aid (Title 4) funds and three recommendations to improve documentation regarding Title 3 grant funds. The Title 3 grant has since expired and is no longer an issue, the administration says.

The audit does show a net loss in the college’s overall position of $928,953; but $883,750 of that is in the form of depreciation not cash.

“In fact, this year’s audit took less time than usual because things are in such good order,” Riza told the Enterprise.

As February’s meeting drew to a close, Riza handed regents forms needed to conduct their annual evaluation of him as well as the board’s self-evaluation, and conflict arose again in terms of who would compile the evaluations for the next meeting.

Historically the evaluations are mailed or delivered to the administration and compiled by college staff. Woodard pushed for delivering the evaluations to the board secretary and that the job to compile the evaluations be done by her as well. Regent Lon Adams also brought up having Spier compile the evaluations. Riza stated flatly that he would prefer it not be done that way. The president later said the evaluations should be mailed to his office, and Spier could compile them there (at the college).

Woodard then turned his attention to the matter of requesting that the board meet with representative of the Pampa Foundation board, which has not been placed on an agenda. He and Riza clashed over that point with the president asking why this issue has not come to his office directly. Woodard says the board needs to discuss “related information” from Pampa, but Riza pushed back that the Foundation had not raised any issues at its board meetings.

Riza then showed his frustration with the certain board members.

“I’ve not been called but it’s been implied that I’m a felon, I’m an idiot, stupid, and incompetent,” Riza said.

Board Chairman Tommy Waldrop urged officials to keep the meeting professional.

Riza said he’d done that the best he could but continued to say that he knows his job and that his focus should be on the kids, faculty, and staff, and that Clarendon College’s success has been amazing. He mentioned the requests he gets to speak in Austin. He admitted the college has spent money. He also said the college had made some bad hires and tried to fix it, a reference to issues raised in the fiscal 2017 audit.

“I know what my job is,” Riza said. “One of your goals is to hire and fire the president.”

Spier then talked about the strong feelings of the board for the college and the college’s importance to the community. But she said Riza should let the board see what they ask for when they ask for it.

“We are board members, and you report to us,” Spier said.

“I don’t appreciate the ambush jobs,” Riza said, referring to the continuing lists of questions and requests Woodard and Spier have brought over the past several months.

“If we want to work together, then why don’t you come to my office and ask me, ‘Hey, will you look at this and tell me if I’m right or wrong?’ and move forward instead of the ‘gotchas,’” Riza said.

Woodard said there were items that had been asked for repeatedly, and Spier said, “We’re not after you or any employee.”

Regent Jack Moreman defended the president and his record in terms of enrollment and raising the college’s presence in Austin.

Waldrop agreed with Moreman but also said he is unclear as to the college’s financial position.

Regent Edwin Campbell said there is a faction split in the board that needed to be settled and then brought up the Pampa Foundation issue again, with Riza again asserting that nothing had come to him from Pampa.

Waldrop called for leadership from Riza, and Woodard and Spier called for more transparency.

Texas Senate advances bill to shore up teacher pension fund

By Aliyya Swaby, Texas Tribune

The Texas Senate unanimously passed legislation Monday that is designed to make the Teacher Retirement System pension fund financially healthy and give one-time checks to retired teachers.

Senate Bill 12, filed by Sen. Joan Huffman, R-Houston, would increase how much the state, school districts and current teachers contribute to the pension fund over the next six years.

For the first two years, the changes will cost the state about $555.1 million in general revenue. About $195 million of that money would go toward giving retirees one-time additional checks next fiscal year of up to $500.

The money for the bill would come from the Senate’s supplemental budget, which the upper chamber unanimously approved last week.

“This plan is far more cost-efficient than simply attempting to contribute one-time contributions of cash every so often,” Huffman said.

About 420,000 people receive TRS pension benefits; the average person is 71 years old and receives about $2,078 each month, according to an internal 2018 TRS study.

The House is considering a similar piece of legislation, House Bill 9, which would increase the state’s contribution rate to the pension fund and give retirees one-time additional checks of up to $2,400. The cost estimate for that bill has not yet been posted, but it is expected to cost the state more than the Senate’s proposal.

Teachers pay 7.7 percent of their salaries into the pension fund, while school districts effectively pay 1.5 percent of teacher payroll. That combined funding is dead last in the country among teacher plans. Texas contributes 6.8 percent of total teacher payroll to the pension fund, slightly above the 6 percent minimum. The Texas Constitution says the state cannot contribute more than 10 percent to the pension fund without approval from voters.

The vast majority of Texas teachers do not participate in Social Security, meaning the TRS pension serves as their only source of income after they retire. And they have not seen increases in their monthly pension payments in decades.

Under state law, lawmakers cannot approve an increase in those monthly payments unless the TRS is “actuarially sound” or financially healthy, meaning it has enough money to pay off its debts in less than 31 years. This summer, the TRS’ board voted to lower its expected rate of return on investments, predicting it would earn less money to fund the pension system.

Both House and Senate bills would increase funding enough to make the system financially healthy but would not provide automatic cost-of-living increases for retiree payments.

Most other retirement systems have a mechanisms to automatically increase contributions when necessary.

Instead of approving a cost-of-living increase in retiree payments, both the House and Senate bills would instead give retirees a one-time “13th check” beyond the monthly amount they receive.

A couple of lawmakers praised the bill Monday for being fiscally conservative.

“We don’t have automatic [cost-of-living adjustments], which have put other states in significant peril regarding their long-term fiscal picture,” said Sen. Charles Schwertner, R-Georgetown. “This is a prudent step.”

LOCAL HISTORIANS

Amateur Eastern Montana historian is looking for information on an individual who ranched in Eastern Montana but also had a ranch in your area of Texas. I have made three trips to Texas but have only found a limited amount of information. I would appreciate any information someone from your area might be able to provide. Following is all of the information I have on this individual, whose name was Pierre Wibaux;

In 1903 Mr. Wibaux stated he owned 200,000 acres in Texas. In the 1901 tax rolls for Hall County, Texas, a "P. Wibaux" was assessed for 3 horses and 145 head of cattle but no land. The 1902 and 1903 reports of the Cattle Raisers Association of Texas show Pierre Wibaux to be a member and to ranch in Annstrong, Donley and Cottle Counties in Texas, with Jack Serruys as manager.

I have not been able to find any land or other records on Mr. Wibaux. If you are a student of the early ranching history of your area and have any information on Mr. Wibaux I would appreciate hearing from you. Please contact me at: Russell E. Houck, P.O. Box 119, Wibaux, MT 59353 Cell: 406-989-0559 Email: russhouck@yahoo.com

Kids: color stuff in!

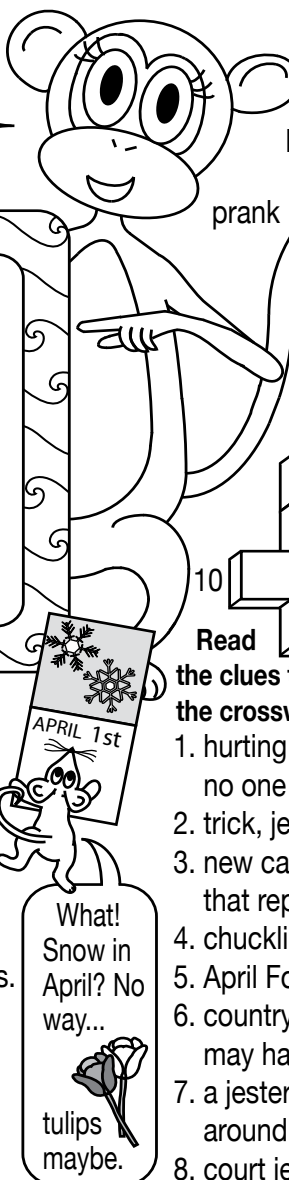

I love thinking up harmless, funny jokes to tease my brother, Chitter, on April Fool's Day. To read the first part of this "tricky" letter about April Fool's Day, hold it up to a mirror!

to People like to April Fool's Day is a time of fun. People like to play harmless jokes and pranks. One of their favorite tricks is to point out something that is not really there! April Fool's Day is used to be called IIA Fool's Day. It is thought to have started France. A long time ago, March 21st was the date of the New Year. People would follow a week or two later and not follow. The last day to the festivities and the last day to be exchanged.

In the 16th century, the Gregorian calendar was introduced. March 21st was no longer New Year's Day and April 1st was no longer the "right day" to visit and give gifts.

News traveled slowly in those times, so many people kept April 1st as the last big day of the holiday season. Many others refused to change their ways. People who clung to the old ways were called April Fools.

Today, on April 1st, you might hear people call out, "Poisson d'Avril!" They have fooled someone and are calling him or her an April fish. That person took the "bait" and was easily "caught." April Fool's Day is a time to share some laughter with friends and family.

CCISD names Student Servant Leaders for Feb.

Clarendon CISD has named their Student Servant Leaders for February.

“True leadership is rooted in the service of others,” Superintendent Mike Norrell said. “To be a servant leader is to think of others first and place their needs before your own, to be kind and generous, to be a positive influence, and to realize that there is something bigger than oneself. Furthermore, anyone and everyone can be a servant leader, and if we have a campus, school, community, nation, and world of those that respect others and sacrifice their time, efforts, and treasures for others, then we all benefit.”

The following is a list of reasons and quotes as to why the students below were nominated for February: Hard worker, nice to everyone. Always willing to help out with his classmates; always trying to do his best. Wonderful personality and great classroom helper. Well mannered, always willing to do what is asked of her, works to do her best. Very pleasant, has taken three classmates under her wing to mentor, enthusiastic learner. Helps other students when they drop things, nice and polite. Strong peer tutor and understanding of others. Nice to others, helps others, and is polite in the hallways. Sweet and pleasant, hard worker. Takes time to help teachers before and after class. Taking five dual-credit classes and doing well and helps other programs. Always has a smile and a pleasant hello. Kind, respectful, helpful to all, very responsible with a great work ethic

“Please join us as we recognize and extend our gratitude to the following students,” the superintendent said.

Elementary: Kindergarten – Marleigh Farmer, 1st grade – Laityn Hanks, 2nd grade – Jayton Moore, 3rd grade – Ja’Zaria Moore, 4th grade – Emery Cariveau, and 5th grade – Gracie Ellis, Junior High: 6th grade – Gracie Clark, 7th grade – Levi Gates, and 8th grade – Rosie Dale.

High School: 9th grade – Lillie Dale, 10th grade – Marshall Whittington, 11th grade – Samara Johnson, and 12th grade – Ryan Ward.

“We are very honored to have these students attend Clarendon CISD and are very pleased to recognize them for selflessly serving others,” Norrell said.
