Myers gets sentenced for 10 years

A Clarendon man will spend ten years in prison following the death of his daughter last October.

During a meeting of the 100th District Court here Monday, Christopher Bryon Myers, age 38, entered a guilty plea to the charge of second degree felony offense of injury to a child. Myers was convicted and sentenced to 10 years in the Institutional Division of the TDCJ.

Myers was arrested in Donley County by DPS Texas Ranger Mike Smith on October 12, 2018. He was later indicted by the Donley County Grand Jury on January 17.

Law enforcement and emergency medical personnel responded to Myers' residence at 718 S. Ellerbe on Friday, October 12, after a 911 call at 5:02 that morning reported a possible dead baby.

The infant was transported to Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo and placed on life support. Aries Renae Myers pronounced dead on Monday, October 15.

Officials at the time said the complaint against Myers alleged that the child's death was due to blunt force trauma.

Tickets available for Mulkey concert

Tickets are still available for the "Peace, Love, Rock & Roll – Clarendon" concert this Friday, August 30, at the Mulkey Theatre.

Marking the 50th anniversary of Woodstock, the concert will feature the popular Amarillo band Insufficient Funds.

General admission is $20 per person. VIP tickets are $40 each and includes food, an event T-shirt, and a 5x7 commemorative event photo. Tickets may be purchased in advance at the Visitor Center or at MulkeyTheatre.com. General admission tickets will also be available at the door.

Ground breaking set for swimming pool

The City of Clarendon will break ground on its aquatics center Tuesday, September 17, at 2 p.m., according to City Administrator David Dockery.

City officials executed the contracts last Friday with A&S Construction for the $2.7 million facility.

Mulkey to feature Wizard of Oz Sunday

The Mulkey Theatre will present an anniversary screening of "The Wizard of Oz" this Sunday, September 1, at 2 p.m.

Join Dorothy, Toto, the Tin Man, and the Cowardly Lion as they follow the Yellow Brick Road on the big screen for this 80th anniversary presentation.

Doors open at 1:30 and admission is $7 for adults, $5 for kids ages three through 12; and kids two and under get in free.

City utility, trash rates going up in October

The Clarendon City Council approved rate increases for water, sewer, and trash services when it met last Thursday, August 22.

Officials said the cost of water and trash services charged to the city has gone up, and City Administrator David Dockery said the increase in the sewer charge will help the city's application for a grant to improve the sewer system.

"We've been told if we didn't raise our sewer rates, our application didn't stand a chance," Dockery said.

Dockery also noted that the utility increases are the first the city has implemented in several years, other than a $10 per month fee imposed three years ago for debt service.

Mayor Sandy Skelton noted the need for the city to maintain its financial position.

"Unfortunately, the city must raise utility rates on occasion so that expenses don't exceed revenue," the mayor said. "Effective October 1, garbage, water, and sewer rates will increase. Garbage rates will increase 5 percent due to higher rates charged by the Memphis Landfill (Clarendon transports all garbage to Memphis). Water rates will increase by 7.6 percent due to an increase charged to the City by Greenbelt Water Authority. Sewer rates will increase by 5.0 percent simply because rates have not been raised in the past 12 years."

The mayor also reminded citizens that the council has worked to lower the tax burden it places on property owners in the city.

"Several months ago, the City Council voted to significantly decrease city property taxes and to eliminate the city's portion of personal property taxes (vehicles, trailers, campers, RV's, etc.)," Skelton said. "These reductions will be effective January 1, 2020, and will more than offset the increase in utility rates. All property owners will realize a sizeable savings."

In other city news, the council set September 12 at 6:30 p.m. as the date for a public hearing on its proposed budget for fiscal year 2020.

The council also gave final approval to the purchase of the Lowe office building.

"I am pleased that the City Council approved the purchase of the Lowe Building across the street from the Courthouse," Skelton said. "The purchase solved two problems, the first being the very crowded conditions at the current City Hall. The second reason is that the US Department of Agriculture (USDA) is requiring us to add a handicapped bathroom and make other improvements to the current facility in order to comply with the American Disabilities Act (ADA).

Skelton said the Lowe building was recently appraised at $330,000 by a certified appraiser.

"We were able to negotiate a sales price of $163,000 or $45 per square foot," he said. "The City will not have to dip into reserves for the purchase as we should finish the current fiscal year at the end of September with revenue over expense by approximately $200,000."

Skelton said the building is in excellent condition and will provide adequate space for all employees and will accommodate numerous citizens for city council meetings and other gatherings. Employee parking will be in the rear of the building which will allow for citizens parking on Sully Street.

"In my opinion, this action made a lot of sense and was good use of public funds," Skelton said.

Alderman also last week approved $15,015.19 from the airport maintenance fund to match a TxDOT RAMP grant for funding runway lighting improvements at the Smiley Johnson Municipal Airport. Those improvements will cost a total of $29,419.

In his administrator's report, Dockery told the council that the city's code compliance officer has completed training on junk vehicles and said the city will soon begin addressing the numerous junk vehicles around town. Aldermen also learned that Greg Price had resigned from the city and that Jacob Lindsey would be moving from part-time to full-time to take Price's place.

Local schools meet goals on state report

Clarendon and Hedley schools both met state goals on standardized testing last spring and earned "grades" of B for the year, according to information released this month by the Texas Education Agency (TEA).

Clarendon ISD's overall score improved from an 84 last year as a district to 88 this year with Clarendon High School making an 87, down one point; Clarendon Junior High making an 80, up five points; and Clarendon Elementary maintaining a 90.

"We're just two points away from an A," Superintendent Mike Norrell said. "Schools are about more than just accountability tests, but if this is the way the state is going to measure us, we're going to work to make up those two points."

Norrell went on to say that he proud of Clarendon's students and staff.

"It's students and staff that make the difference," he said. "We're going to continue to do the best to provide every child a quality education."

Three components make up the state's grading system: Student Achievement, which is mostly scores on the spring STAAR tests; School Progress, which involves how students are performing over time; and Closing the Gaps, which concerns how different ethnic and economic populations are performing.

Clarendon High School's score was broken down as 87 for Student Performance, 84 for School Progress, and 86 for Closing the Gaps. CHS received two out of a possible seven distinctions for Academic Achievement in Social Studies, Top 25 percent for comparative academic growth when compared with similar schools around the state.

Clarendon Junior High's scores were made up of 80 for Student Performance, 81 for School Progress, and 77 for Closing the Gaps.

Clarendon Elementary received an 88 for Student Achievement, 89 for School Progress, and 92 for Closing the Gap. The elementary school also received five out of a possible six distinctions. Those included Academic Achievements in Mathematics and English Language Arts / Reading; Top 25 Percent in Comparative Academic Growth; Post Secondary Readiness; and Top 25 Percent in Comparative Closing the Gaps.

Hedley received an overall score of 88 out of 100, down from a 92 last year. Hedley ISD operates as one campus, where the state recognizes Clarendon as being three campuses – elementary, junior high, and high school.

Hedley scored 89 out of 100 for Student Achievement, an 85 out of 100 for School Progress, and 87 out of 100 for Closing the Gaps. The school also earned three out of seven distinctions for Academic Achievements in Mathematics, Post-Secondary Readiness, and Top 25 Percent Comparative Closing the Gaps.

Riza welcome staff back for fall semester

Clarendon College President Robert Riza welcomed faculty and staff last Thursday, August 22, as preparations were made for the opening of CC's 122nd fall semester this week.

Officials reported that the dorms were full as the semester got underway, an indication of a strong enrollment. Final enrollment will not be available for several days.

Dr. Riza enumerated several accomplishments of the college and praised the faculty and staff for their roles in making those things possible.

"What you do makes my job relevant," Riza told the employees assembled for All College Day.

Riza also explained the college's new electronic textbook feature that will save students and the college money.

Clarendon is also noted for its student/faculty interaction and support for learners.

"I applaud you and thank you for what you do," he told the employees.

CC has also gained acclaim for its reserve national ranch horse team, its national champion meats judging team, and its men's rodeo team which placed third nationally.

On the state level, Riza said he represented Clarendon College and got community college exempted from the tax changes in House Bill 2, which preserved $42,000 in local funding and up to $350 million in college tax funding across the state.

Riza has also helped expand local offerings through agreements with Western Governors University and Texas State Technical College.

The president also noted that the next round of legislative work has already begun. Clarendon is currently represented by him on the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board committee which helps develop the funding formula for community college. He is the only representative west of I-35.

Clarendon ISD taxes fall, teachers' salaries rise

Clarendon ISD teachers will received a pay raise and local taxpayers could see relief on their property taxes thanks to House Bill 3, according to Superintendent Mike Norrell.

The Clarendon ISD Board of Trustees approved a new compressed tax rate Monday night, mandated by HB 3. The new rate of $1.0683 per $100 valuation will replace the school's old rate of $1.17.

Norrell also said that the starting teachers will see their base salary go up by more than $3,000 in the new budget. Teachers with more experience will receive larger increases on the new pay scale set forth by the Texas Education Agency.

The state also set up increases for certified nurses, librarians, and counselors. Norrell said Clarendon ISD instructional aides will see increases of $1,000 per step on the pay scale and maintenance and cafeteria workers will get a five percent raise.

Clarendon's $5.803 million general school budget is up 9.82 percent due mostly to payroll increases, the superintendent said. In fact, Norrell notes that about 75 percent of the school budget is payroll.

State funding to Clarendon ISD is up about eight percent or $300,000, but Norrell worries that the state might not continue to fund the raises they have put in place.

"My fear is that after this biennium, the state will cut back on their contributions and it will fall back on the district," Norrell said.

The new budget is built on an average daily attendance of 415 students. Enrollment at Clarendon ISD this week is 443.

US should offer visas to migrants

By Alex Nowrasteh, Cato Institute

While President Trump’s immigration rhetoric continues to focus on the need to build a southern border wall, his administration is quietly pursuing a policy that could provide a lasting solution to the ongoing migrant surge.

The Department of Labor recently signed an agreement with Guatemala to increase bilateral cooperation for the H-2A visa program for low-skilled Guatemalans. By providing transparency and accountability measures, such as ensuring that labor recruiters are bona fide and vetted, the agreement paves the way for more Guatemalans to come legally.

The administration should sign similar agreements with the other Northern Triangle countries, El Salvador and Honduras, which are responsible for the overwhelming number of migrants, as well as exempt them from H-2A seasonality requirements. Historical experience suggests increasing legal immigration options would reduce the number who come illegally.

The H-2A visa is for seasonal workers in agriculture. It offers low-skilled migrants the best – and in many cases only – opportunity to come work in the U.S., while also addressing the acute labor shortage faced by American farmers. The Trump administration seems to recognize that economic migration can be channeled into this legal system.

That’s important, because the surge of Central American migrants is not correlated with murder rates in their home countries and most arrivals aren’t referred to asylum interviews. Central Americans are primarily being pushed out of their home countries by a poor economy – exacerbated by the crash in coffee prices – and drawn in by a booming labor market here.

Neither of these push nor pull migration factors are going to change soon, so diverting the migrants onto legal H-2A worker visas is key to meaningfully fixing the situation on the southern border.

For proof of the effectiveness of H-2A visas in stemming illegal migration, the Trump administration can consult recent history. Legal Mexican migration on expanded H-2A and H-2B (seasonal, non-agricultural) visas dramatically reduced illegal Mexican immigration over the last two decades. As the U.S. government increased the annual number of H-2 visas for Mexicans from 56,090 in 2000 to 242,582 in 2018, Mexican illegal immigration fell from over 1.6 million in 2000 to almost 137,000 in 2019 so far – a 91 percent drop.

During that time, a single additional H-2 visa for a Mexican worker is associated with 2.6 fewer Mexicans apprehended – controlling for border enforcement.

“Most of my friends go with visas or they don’t go at all,” said Mexican agricultural worker Jose Bacilio. In previous years, Mexican workers like Bacilio would have come illegally, but now they wait for visas.

Guatemalans, Hondurans and Salvadorans currently have no reason to wait, as they only got about 9,000 H-2 visas in 2018, slightly down from 2017. If the government issues more H-2 visas to Central Americans, then it will divert much of the current economic flow of migrants into the legal market, just like it did with Mexicans.

The Trump administration could achieve this by signing similar H-2A pacts with Honduras and El Salvador then asking Congress to exempt these H-2A workers from the visa’s seasonal requirements, which requires migrants to return home after the harvest is finished. This provision would guarantee that American labor recruiters flock to hire Central Americans without impacting Mexican recruitment.

Electronic visa application processes at U.S. embassies and consulates in Central America must also be modernized and streamlined. Officials should copy their counterparts at U.S. consulates in Mexico.

The Trump administration’s first steps in streamlining the H-2A visa process for Guatemala is promising, but more needs to be done. Extra Mexican immigration enforcement and the summer heat cut the number of Central Americans showing up at the border by 29 percent – but neither will last forever.

Central Americans will come again in large numbers if they can’t come legally. The Trump administration could end the Central American border surge by shelving unhelpful border wall boasts in favor of doubling down on sound H-2A visa policy initiatives.

A dream finally comes of age

Just two decades ago, visionary Galveston leaders risked public monies, made promises they hoped they could keep, and readily shared their vision with cruise lines. They fully believed that cruising was ready to “take off.”

Galvestonians – proud of their historic island city – were “in” for the long haul, and Carnival officials wanted to be. They assigned a vessel to Galveston for one season.

Well, the vision morphed into reality, and the rest is history. Texas’ only cruise port has proved to be resoundingly successful. Carnival’s Dream, Freedom and Vista now are assigned there on a year-round basis. Royal Caribbean has two vessels, and Disney offers cruises seasonally. Cruising from Texas has taken off....

The most wild-eyed optimists – even those deemed incurable – could not have predicted the staggering cruise numbers in store for Galveston. The port reached a record $43.5 million in operating revenue last year, and a net operating income of $8 million, up from $4.5 million in 2017. Percentage increases from “year one” have occurred annually, often in double digits.

Since the initial cruise in September, 2000, more than 10 million guests have been served. Nearly two million folks boarded in 2018, and 2019 numbers are expected to reach new highs.

No wonder Galveston is now the nation’s fourth-busiest cruise port, with an additional terminal on the drawing boards....

My wife and I cruise at least annually, typically from Galveston. While we enjoy several Caribbean ports, for us, the “ship is the thing.”

And, the people we meet!

The caring staff – seemingly every single one of them – considers no request to be trivial. On a recent Carnival Freedom cruise, guests enjoyed not only the anticipated pampering, but also a charming cruise director from across the pond. Emma was breathlessly enthusiastic – even when not on stage. And she melted hearts by calling the lot of us “lovelies.”...

We enjoy “any time dining.” This assures our meeting new friends, many of whom “ooze” uniqueness.

On this cruise, we met a bi-vocational minister who is retired after an Air Force career, and a geologist with a compelling argument that our world running out of places to “store stuff.”

Specifically, he cited oil field “fracking.” The process extracts far more oil, but the process requires great quantities of water. “Earthquakes occurring in formerly unlikely places seem to be tied to ‘fracking’ nearby,” he mused....

The parson – whose military career included the Viet Nam War years – performed all manner of dental procedures despite, uh, limited training in dentistry. He said there was a critical shortage of dentists, so he was requested to take a one-year “crash course.”

For several years, he filled teeth, pulled ‘em and did pretty much whatever the idle american by don newbury

else was required to alleviate dental problems of Air Force personnel.

Toward the end of his career, they gave him a certificate. It provided written assurance of his competence as, uh, a dental assistant....

There were conversations about Carnival’s commitment to participation in humanitarian projects.

Like restaurants known for “selling steaks for the sizzle” and hog farmers capitalizing on “everything but the squeal,” Carnival keeps coming up with ways to help with humanitarian causes, often through recycling.

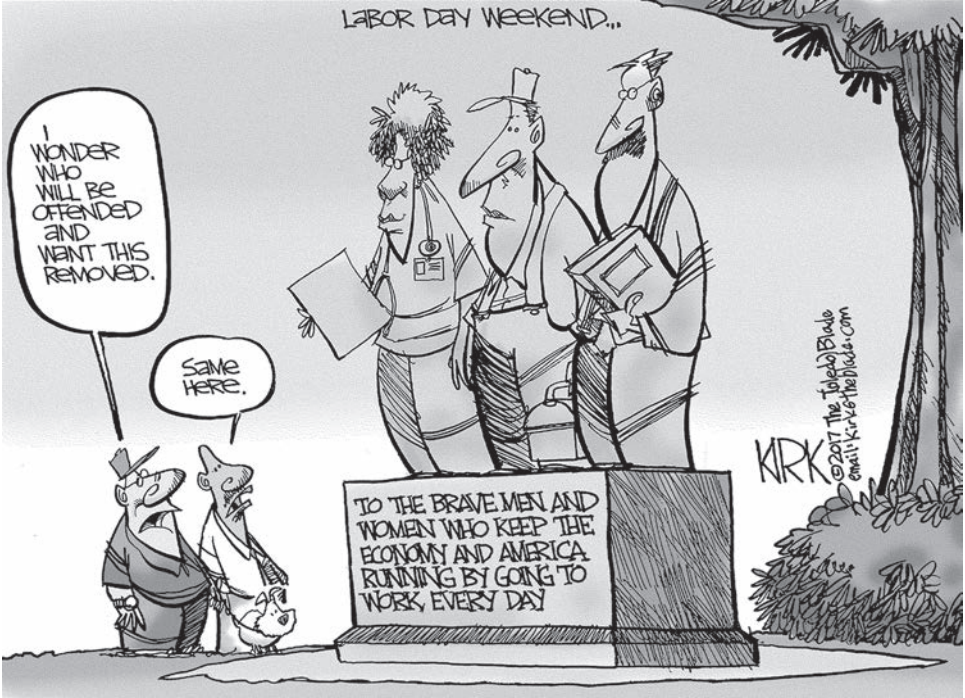

Currently, the company is partnering with “Clean the World.” Carnival is expanding its existing recycling program to benefit folks in the Bahamas, Puerto Rico, Mexico, Central America and the Dominican Republic. Through recycling soap, basic hygienic services will be augmented....

It is shocking to learn that two million children under age five die annually from hygiene-related diseases.

“Clean the World” has contributed to a 60% reduction in the death rate of children in some 127 countries worldwide.

Carnival’s recycling program will utilize nearly 40 tons of discarded soap left in state rooms of 26 vessels each year. It will yield 400,000 new, clean bars of soap for people in need. Carnival President Christine Duffy and her associates see the “big picture.”...

Tourists have discovered Iceland

Tourists have discovered Iceland I asked my wife where she wanted to go this summer. She said, “Someplace cool.” So we went to Iceland, the western most part of Europe. The capital city of Reykjavik is the most northern capital city in the world. In preparing for the trip we watched several videos but none were as beautiful as the sights we saw.

Dallas has a direct seven-hour flight to Reykjavik, a city full of young people, interesting narrow and curving downtown streets with shops, bars, hotels and much construction. The feeling is very similar to what we’ve found in Montreal or Quebec or other cities that have street performers, strolling musicians and lots of activity.

Iceland is a small country about the size of Colorado. Half the population of 330,000 live in or near Reykjavik. Fishing is a major industry and fish is the number one export item. There are small fishing villages all along the coastline. Some have less than a hundred residents. We heard about one that had 240 people living there and 60 of them are in the same family.

Iceland had a major financial crisis in 2008 but rebounded quickly. One of the 300 volcanoes erupted causing major air traffic problems all over the western hemisphere. But it put Iceland on the map and the traveling public became curious about the country. Tourism soared and is now a big part of the country’s economy. There is a volcano eruption every three years, up from every six years a while back.

We saw spectacular waterfalls, clouds of steam, lakes, glaciers, whales and green mountains. The temperature in early August was around 60 degrees and we had sunshine every day. We were expecting rain, wind and cold and brought plenty of winter clothes. Didn’t need them, thank goodness. We took long hikes and had delicious food. Lots of fish. We cruised around the stories of texas

by tumbleweed smith

entire island stopping at Seydisfjörður, Akurevri, Isafjörður and Grundarfjörður. Our cruise ship, the Star Breeze, part of the Windstar fleet, presented us with certificates indicating we had crossed the Arctic Circle.

A lot of people drive the ring road around the entire island (the last part of it was paved while we were there). Gas is eight dollars a gallon. Another popular activity is to take a hot soak in the Blue Lagoon thermal baths. Some of the spots we visited were in remote areas with dirt roads. Suddenly we would see dozens of tour buses at the site, letting passengers view the waterfalls, glaciers or steam clouds. Our captain stopped the ship so passengers could see 18 whales playing around the ship. He was as excited as the passengers. He had never seen anything like this before even though he had been at the spot many times.

Iceland is a surprising place. It is an emerging country just now becoming an important destination. It dates back to the late 800’s when settlers came from Norway and Denmark. The country got its independence from Denmark in 1944.

H’wick fire chief thanks supporters

On behalf of the City of Howardwick Volunteer Fire Department, I would like to thank all the donors and participants who contributed to the Fish Fry Fund Raiser at the Clarendon Country Club. That was some good catfish and chicken!

The kids in attendance enjoyed splashing around in the pool and the beach balls, and the adults enjoyed the cannonball competition and the raffle. A great time was had by all. In fact, we raised $2,422. There were about 100 in attendance.

This is a great testament to the support the community has for its City Vol-

Tackling Junior High football

This year I signed up for football along with a bunch of my friends, and we now make up the 7th grade portion of the football team.

Last week, we picked where we wanted to play, and we started training for that spot. I chose defensive lineman which are the people who try and get through the offensive line which are the people guarding the quarter back. Right now, I'm the only seventh grader who is playing defensive lineman. This means that I'm having to work with 8th graders who help me remember the plays, and it has been fun so far.

Earlier this week we got to put on pads for the first time, and it was fun.

We have a game here in a few weeks, and I would hope some people would come out and watch us play and support the Clarendon Colts.

H'wick remains on a water ban

From all accounts the fish fry and raffle in support of the fire department went well. I can say for a fact the food was delicious, but you know these cooks, they always serve good food.

If you haven't been by the City Hall area in the last week, you have missed the outside of the convenience store going up. I hope the inside goes as well as the outside, and we should have a store before long. How nice that will be! I am so looking forward to the opening.

We were blessed with a nice rain while the water ban was in place, and here is my understanding of the situation. When the pump went out and was repaired/ replaced, Red River Water Authority wanted to check the tank capacity and found the tank can be filled (it had never been full before). They are in the process of more testing and have not released the outside water ban at this time. Makes me happy we don't have a garden.

‘Country Music’ will debut Sept. 15 on PBS

Step back in time and journey through the compelling history of a truly American art form when Country Music debuts Sept. 15.

The eight-part, 16-hour film will air at 7 p.m. nightly on Panhandle PBS from Sept. 15 to 18, then Sept. 22 to 25. Each episode will encore at 9 p.m. nightly.

Locally, Panhandle PBS will air a special country music concert and an episode of its weekly newsmagazine The Handle focused on the Panhandle's ties to the genre.

Country Music, directed by Ken Burns and written by Dayton Duncan, chronicles the art form's early days, from southern Appalachia's songs of struggle, heartbreak and faith to the rollicking Western swing of Texas, California's honky-tonks and Nashville's Grand Ole Opry.

The film follows the evolution of country music over the course of the 20th century as it eventually emerges to become "America's music," while focusing on the biographies of the fascinating trailblazers who created and shaped it – from the Carter Family, Jimmie Rodgers, Bill Monroe and Bob Wills to Hank Williams, Patsy Cline, Johnny Cash, Merle Haggard, Loretta Lynn, Charley Pride, Willie Nelson, Dolly Parton, Emmylou Harris, Garth Brooks and many more – as well as the times in which they lived.

In addition, Country Music: Live at the Ryman, A Concert Celebrating the Film by Ken Burns will air 7 p.m. Sept. 8. The concert was recorded in March at Nashville's historic Ryman Auditorium, featuring performances by Dierks Bentley, Rosanne Cash, Rodney Crowell, Rhiannon Giddens, Vince Gill, Kathy Mattea, Ketch Secor of Old Crow Medicine Show, Ricky Skaggs, Marty Stuart, Asleep at the Wheel, Holly Williams and Dwight Yoakam.

Panhandle PBS also will air a 30-minute Yellow City Sounds Live concert featuring Western music icon Michael Martin Murphey recorded in the Panhandle PBS studios on Aug. 5.

The concert special will premiere at 9 p.m. Sept. 8, following the Ken Burns concert at the Ryman.

Additionally, the Sept. 12 episode of The Handle will explore the life and legacy of Western Swing legend Bob Wills, who is featured in Episode 2 of Country Music, as well as the success of 95.7 The Armadillo, an all-Texas country radio station in Amarillo.

In developing Country Music, Burns and Duncan connect the history of the genre to the larger story of America, looking at how artists and songwriting reflected periods of depression, war and cultural upheaval, and how radio and later television impacted the art form.

The series also tells the story of how Nashville came to be not only the epicenter of the country music industry, but Music City USA.

At the film's heart are the stories of unforgettable songs and the artists who created them: their emergences from humble beginnings, their musical influences and their breakthrough moments.

The film explores the extraordinary connection between country music artists and fans, and notes the enduring influence of particular songs and musicians across generations.

The narrative ends in the mid-1990s as a young Garth Brooks emerges from a small venue in Nashville to achieve phenomenal success, brings country music to an entirely new level of popularity, and yet shows up to sign autographs for more than 20 hours at the Country Music Association's Fan Fair.

Duncan, Burns and producer Julie Dunfey spent eight years researching and producing the film, conducting interviews with more than 100 people, including 40 members of the Country Music Hall of Fame (17 of those interviewed have since passed on).

The first four episodes of Country Music will stream on station-branded PBS platforms, including PBS.org and PBS apps, timed to the Sept. 15 premiere and the second four timed to the broadcast of Episode 5 on Sept. 22 (each episode available for three weeks).

PBS Passport members will be able to stream the entire series for a period of six months beginning Sept. 15.

Country Music is made possible in part with local support from Bank of America, Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum, Texas Outdoor Musical Drama and Townsquare Media – 101.9 The Bull. Major funding was provided by the Corporation for Public Broadcasting and PBS.

Eight sites welcomed by Texas Historical Commission

AUSTIN – The portfolio of state historic sites operated by the Texas Historical Commission (THC) is set to expand.

Beginning Sept. 1, 2019, eight historic sites across the state of Texas will transfer to the THC.

Seven of the properties are currently managed by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department (TPWD). These properties were transferred by the 86th Texas Legislature on the recommendation of the Texas Sunset Advisory Commission. The action will allow both the THC and TPWD to improve efficiency by focusing each agency on its core mission—THC's role as the state historic preservation office, and TPWD's as steward of the state's impressive natural resources and hunting, fishing, and outdoor recreation attractions.

"Our primary goal as stewards of these sites has always been the preservation of these iconic landmarks for the enjoyment of current and future Texans. We entrust the future care of these notable parks to the capable hands of the THC and know they will continue these high standards of maintenance and operations going forward," said Carter Smith, Executive Director of TPWD. "TPWD is proud to have been the caretakers of these historic sites for many decades, and we will continue to care for the hundreds of historic buildings, archeological sites, and other cultural resources that exist within state parks and natural areas across Texas."

TPWD sites transferring to the THC include San Jacinto Monument and Battleground in Harris County; Washington-on-the-Brazos and Barrington Plantation in Washington County; Kreische Brewery and Monument Hill in Fayette County; Lipantitlán in Nueces County; Fanthorp Inn in Grimes County; and the Port Isabel Lighthouse in Cameron County.

"Texas Parks and Wildlife and their professional staff have done impressive work stewarding these historic places," said Mark Wolfe, THC Executive Director. "We welcome this challenge to build on their legacy and continue the preservation of these unique sites for new generations of visitors to enjoy. We are pleased that we will be able to work with many of the same staff who have operated and maintained all the transferring sites. We welcome them and these sites to the Texas Historical Commission family."

Additionally, the 86th Legislature turned management of the Star of the Republic Museum in Washington County (part of the Washington-on-the-Brazos complex) to the THC, effective Jan. 1, 2020. The THC is working with the site's owner, Blinn College, on management logistics. The THC may assume operation of the museum prior to the beginning of the year.

The addition of the new sites means that the THC now manages 31 state historic sites representing nearly every era of Texas' storied history – from the legends and culture of the original American Indian inhabitants of Texas, to the epic stories of the state's revolution and independence, to the humble birthplace of one of the nation's greatest leaders, President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Today’s youth train to become beef cattle producers

COLLEGE STATION — The youth track for the 2019 Texas A&M Beef Cattle Short Course, held recently in College Station, gave real-world experience, hours of education and a beef quality assurance certification to 30 youth interested in expanding their beef cattle knowledge.

“One goal for our youth track is to allow students to have a hands-on experience with the beef industry,” said Victoria Heller, youth track co-facilitator and Texas Beef Council industry outreach manager, Austin. “This allows them to discover aspects of our industry they may not be familiar with and learn about the role they play in the bigger picture of producing a safe and high-quality product.”

Students came from all over the state with varying backgrounds and knowledge — from being a novice with cattle all the way to champion showman — and everything in between.

Youth track started with introductions and team-building exercises to get to know each other and share why they were interested in the beef industry. Some youth said they enjoyed beef products or FFA and 4-H show competitions, while others worked family ranches.

With a welcome from Jason Cleere, Ph.D., Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service beef cattle specialist, College Station, and conference coordinator, all were reminded opportunities present in the industry generally begin with relationships.

“You never know when the next person comes along, what kind of opportunities that relationship may present in the future,” Cleere said. “It is always good to network. You’ve heard of the Aggie network, and the beef industry network offers the same thing.”

The youth then made their way to the Texas A&M College of Veterinary Medicine with a brief discussion on preparing for veterinary school from Dr. Easterwood, clinical assistant professor of equine community practice. They were then divided into groups for some hands-on experiences and up-close animal viewing.

Easterwood and her team of vet students prepared three participation stations for the youth. The first stop was a steer with a cannulated rumen, followed by evaluation of dilated eyes in horses and finally reviews of recent dental work.

Following the vet school, the group bussed to the Texas A&M Beef Center to receive their Beef Quality Assurance certifications. The program, facilitated by Thomas Hairgrove, Ph.D., AgriLife Extension specialist; Joe Paschal, Ph.D., AgriLife Extension livestock specialist; and Joe Mask, Ph.D., AgriLife Extension specialist, taught students how to implement best management practices to produce quality, marketable beef products.

“Beef Quality Assurance is a partnership program with Texas A&M AgriLife Extension, Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association and Texas Beef Council,” Heller said. “Just as we encourage ranchers, we encourage these students to continue their education and learn about production practices that produce the safest and highest quality beef.”

Each student was able to participate in the discussion and experience first-hand working cattle in the hydraulic shoot.

There was also a discussion on implants, vaccinations and ear tagging.

On day two of the course, the youth went to Rosenthal Meat Lab where they learned how to grade meat and practice their new skill on four beef carcasses with Dr. Dan Hale, Ph.D., associate director for Agriculture and Natural Resources programs.

Finally, each student learned how to prepare and cook beef properly by grilling their own steak.

“It was the first time for all of us judging the carcasses, so that was my favorite part. I also liked grilling and learning about steaks and what healthy sides you can make to go with it,” said Caden Hempel, 13, of Victoria County, who participated along with his two older sisters.

After grilling out, the students ventured back for a Path to the Plate discussion, facilitated by Hale and Julie Gardener, AgriLife Extension specialist – healthy lifestyles, and for spokesperson training provided by the Texas Beef Council.

“The Texas Beef Council hosts spokesperson trainings across Texas to equip our beef advocates to talk about what they do on their ranch with people in their community,” Heller said.

“Students have such diverse communities that they engage with each day and starting conversations is the first step in becoming a great advocate for beef.”

The dates for the 2020 Beef Cattle Short Course and Youth Track will be Aug. 3-5, 2020.

the lion’s tale by scarlet estlack

The Clarendon Lions Club held its regular Tuesday noon meeting August 27, 2019, with Boss Lion Scarlet Estlack in charge.

We had 14 members, Sweethearts Mattee Johnson and Kira Weatherton, and one guest this week. Pam Hill was the guest of Scarlet Estlack.

Lion Tex Buckhaults reported that the dorms are full at the college, and Lion Mike Norrell said the Broncos will host their first game this Friday night at home.

Lion Jacob Fangman said the city has approved increases on water and trash rates, and Lion Landon Lambert said the county court was busy today and the county is working on its budget. A public hearing will be held on the budget on September 9.

There being no further business, we were dismissed to spread Lionism and good cheer throughout our fair county.

PUBLIC NOTICE

On July 15, 2019, Southwestern Electric Power Company (SWEPCO) filed a petition with the Public Utility Commission of Texas (Commission) requesting Certificate of Convenience and Necessity (CCN) authorization to acquire an interest in three wind generation facilities (the Selected Wind Facilities) located in Oklahoma. The docket number and style of the case are PUC Docket No. 49737, Application of Southwestern Electric Power Company for Certificate of Convenience and Necessity Authorization and Related Relief for the Acquisition of Wind Generation Facilities. SWEPCO has approximately 184,000 Texas retail customers, all of whom are affected by this Application. SWEPCO has filed separate applications for certification of the Selected Wind Facilities with the Arkansas Public Service Commission and the Louisiana Public Service Commission. PSO has filed for approval of rate recovery for the Selected Wind Facilities from the Oklahoma Corporation Commission.

Through a Request for Proposals (RFP) process, SWEPCO and its sister company Public Service Company of Oklahoma (PSO) have contracted to acquire the project companies owning the following three Selected Wind Facilities, subject to receipt of regulatory approvals and satisfaction of other conditions:

Traverse	999 MW
Maverick	287 MW
Sundance	199 MW
Total	1485 MW

Each of the Selected Wind Facilities is owned by an affiliate of Invenergy LLC. SWEPCO has contracted to acquire 54.5% of each Facility, for a total of 810 MW, and PSO will acquire the remaining 45.5% (675 MW) share. In the event that approval is not received from all state regulatory commissions, SWEPCO requests approval in this application to acquire a larger share of the Selected Wind Facilities for the benefit of Texas customers.

The total price for the Selected Wind Facilities including all interconnection and upgrade costs, payable at closing, is $1.86 billion ($1,253/kW), of which SWEPCO’s 54.5% share is $1.01 billion. Total project costs including PSA price adjustments and owner’s costs are expected to be approximately $1.996 billion, of which SWEPCO’s 54.5% share is approximately $1.09 billion. Closing is subject to regulatory approvals and other conditions, and there are no pre-closing progress or other payments.

Persons with questions about this Project should contact SWEPCO at 428 Travis Street, Shreveport, Louisiana 71101 or call toll-free at (888) 216-3523 during normal business hours. Persons who wish to intervene in the proceeding or comment upon action sought, should contact the Public Utility Commission, P.O. Box 13326, Austin, Texas 78711-3326, or call the Public Utility Commission at (512) 936-7120 or (888) 782-8477. Hearing- and speech-impaired individuals with text telephones (TTY) may contact the commission at (512) 936-7136. The deadline for intervention in the proceeding is September 30, 2019 and you must send a letter requesting intervention to the Commission which is received by that date.

A copy of SWEPCO’s petition may be viewed on the Commission’s webpage at <https://www.puc.texas.gov>. The Commission maintains an electronic copy of all filings on the “Filings/Filings Search” section of its webpage. The control number for this proceeding is 49737.
