CC to stage 'Charlie Brown' December 5

Charlie Brown, Snoopy, Linus, Lucy and all their friends are hitting the stage Thursday. December 5, as the Clarendon College Theatre Department presents "A Charlie Brown Christmas."

"A Charlie Brown Christmas" brings the beloved television special to life, complete with Charlie's tree, Lucy's psychiatrist booth and Linus' blanket.

The show focuses on Charlie Brown, who complains about the overwhelming materialism he sees among everyone during the Christmas season - so Lucy suggests that he become director of the school Christmas pageant. Charlie Brown accepts, but this proves to be a frustrating endeavor. When an attempt to restore the proper holiday spirit with a forlorn little Christmas fir tree fails, he needs Linus' help to discover the real meaning of Christmas.

Show time is 7 p.m. in the Harned Sisters Auditorium in Clarendon, and admission $5 for adults, children 17 and under are free, and anyone with a Clarendon College ID is also free.

Mulkey to host Big Band Christmas

The Mulkey Theatre will present a "Big Band Christmas" concert in a live performance on Saturday, December 14, at 7 p.m.

The South Plains Dance Orchestra will return to the Mulkey stage to entertain everyone with popular holiday songs. The group previously performed at the opening gala of the theatre on May 25.

General admission for this Christmas concert is $15 per person, and VIP balcony seating packages are available for $150 for a set of four recliner seats with special refreshments and service.

General tickets are available online at MulkeyTheatre. com. General and VIP tickets may also be purchased in person at the Clarendon Visitor Center or by calling 874-SHOW.

Santa Letters due to paper December 11

The Enterprise is getting ready to make its annual North Pole run, and Letters to Santa must be turned in by next Wednesday, December 11.

Letters can be mailed to PO Box 1110, Clarendon, TX 79226, or delivered to the office at 105 S. Kearney or emailed to news@ clarendononline.com. Letters will be published the December 19.

Trustees expect to name new ISD leader

Clarendon CISD officials were expecting to announce the name of a lone finalist to be the school's new superintendent this week as the Enterprise went to press.

Interim Superintendent Mike Jackson said Monday that the Board of Trustees has three called meetings scheduled this week for a second round of interviews for the top three applicants for the job. Those meetings were set for Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, December 2, 3, and 4 with one applicant being interviewed each night.

Jackson said after the final interview on December 4, the trustees will likely take action on naming one of those individuals as the lone finalist for the job and that person's name will then be made public.

Under state law, the school district must wait 21 days before formally voting to hire the person named as the lone finalist, Jackson said. A board meeting will likely be held on December 27 to vote to offer the finalist a contract, and the new superintendent is expected to be on the job when school starts in January, Jackson said.

The three finalists were narrowed down from a field of seven individuals who were interviewed by the board over several called meet-

In other school business, the board had its last regular meeting on November 11 and held a public hearing was held on the School Financial Integrity Rating System of Texas (FIRST).

Administrative reports were presented at that meeting by Athletic Director Clint Conkin, Elementary Principal Mike Word, CJH Principal Travis Victory, CHS Principal Larry

CC board looks to VP for interim

Clarendon College Regents met in a called session November 27 to consider naming an interim president following their November 21 action to end the contract of Dr. Robert Riza at the close of this month.

The board met with the college attorney for more than an hour and a half to discuss Riza's contract before returning to open session for the matter of appointing an interim.

Regent Lon Adams said he thought the board needed to look to Vice President Tex Buckhaults to fill in until a proper interim could be named. Board Chairman Tommy Waldrop said he had mentioned to Buckhaults that the board would be "leaning on him" during the time of transition.

The board then approved a motion to name Buckhaults as "part time interim president."

Waldrop said this week that Regents are scheduled to meet again this Thursday, December 5, for a report from the attorney and further discussion on an interim president as well as other business.

Citizens have either filed or declared their intent to run for seven of eight local positions with only the county attorney's position yet to have announcement as of Tuesday morning.

At the county-wide level, Sheriff Butch Blackburn is seeking reelection, and Tammy Overstreet has filed to run for Tax Assessor/Collector to succeed Linda Crump.

Doug Wright has filed to run again for his position as the Constable of Precincts 3 and 4, and Precinct 1 Commissioner Mark White and Precinct 3 Commissioner Andy Wheatly have both filed for re-elec-

Judge Stuart Messer has filed for reelection and District Attorney Luke Inman has announced his candidacy as well.

Filing continues through Monday, December 9, 2019.

In the 100th Judicial District, Community Thanksgiving

More than 300 meals were served during the annual community Thanksgiving last Thursday, November 28, at the Clarendon School Cafeteria. More than 90 of those were delivered to homebound residents while the rest were take-outs or eaten at the school. Organizers say about 30 people showed up to help with the event in addition to the folks who furnished turkeys and desserts.

Remember the Ninth Amendment

By James Knight, Cato Institute

Two hundred and thirty years ago, on November 20, 1789, New Jersey became the first state to ratify the proposed amendments to the Constitution that we now know as the Bill of Rights. Over the next two years, other states followed suit, culminating in the adoption of the amendments in December of 1791. It almost didn't happen. Supporters of the Bill of Rights won their opponents over, though, thanks in large part to the inclusion of the Ninth Amendment.

If you're straining to remember what you learned in civics class about the Ninth Amendment, you're not alone. Despite the importance of the rights protected by the first ten amendments to the Constitution, surveys over the past few decades have consistently shown that Americans know little about either the Bill of Rights or the Constitution as a whole.

So what's in the Bill of Rights? For starters, it's not long – all together, the ten amendments are only 462 words and could be tweeted out in ten tweets. Those 462 words pack a punch, though, explicitly protecting a broad range of rights, from the freedom of speech to the right to a speedy and public trial. The scope of several of the amendments, such as the Second Amendment and its right to keep and bear arms, remains a hotly contested issue today. Others rarely breach the surface of public discourse – the Third Amendment's prohibition against illegally housing soldiers in the homes of private citizens has been so effective that it has scarcely ever been litigated.

It protects rights that are not listed in the Bill of Rights.

The Ninth Amendment falls into the latter category – it barely registers in the public sphere. If the Third Amendment is the least relevant of the Bill of Rights to Supreme Court jurisprudence, then the Ninth Amendment is the second-least relevant. The Supreme Court's relegation of the Ninth Amendment to the dusty attic of judicial doctrine is odd when you read it, though: "The enumeration in the Constitution, of certain rights, shall not be construed to deny or disparage others retained by the people." "Others retained by the people" is powerful language. Does it mean that Americans have constitutional rights not actually written in the Constitution? It depends whom you ask.

The inclusion of an amendment dictating constitutional interpretation is a result of serious worries among the founding generation that a Bill of Rights would actually lead to less liberty, not more. James Wilson, one of the Constitution's drafters, argued that a Bill of Rights would endanger liberty by implying that any rights left off the list were unprotected. Because it would be impossible to list all the rights that a person holds, it was better not to have a Bill of Rights at all. Instead, he argued, the Constitution protected liberty by carefully limiting the powers held by the government.

The Ninth Amendment was the compromise measure. By clarifying that listing certain rights did not mean that other rights were less protected, the drafters thought that they had covered all of their bases. The rights listed in the first ten amendments would be protected, but so would those that were not listed. That was important, because the rights listed in the Constitution and the Bill of Rights amendments are hardly comprehensive. Notably left off the list is the principal right asserted in the Declaration of Independence: the right to "alter or abolish" an unjust and abusive government. This and other rights were included in the Bills of Rights of many state constitutions, but they were not explicitly listed in the Bill of Rights amendments to the national Constitution. The Ninth Amendment ensured that these rights would not be demoted to second-class status, as people like James Wilson had feared.

The Ninth Amendment has grown only more important over time. Though the protections of the Bill of Rights amendments originally applied only to the federal government, the 14th Amendment has been interpreted to apply those protections against state governments as well (although which part of the 14th Amendment does this remains the subject of considerable debate). The Ninth Amendment's interpretive rule applies here too, foreclosing the argument that only the rights specifically listed in the Bill of Rights are enforceable against the states.

The animating principle of the Ninth Amendment is one that, as Justice Stevens wrote, "goes to the very core of the constitutional relationship between the individual and governmental authority." Although the Ninth Amendment has only rarely been explicitly invoked by the Supreme Court, you can see its fingerprints on many of the Court's decisions. The Court's protection of unenumerated fundamental rights that are "deeply rooted in this Nation's history and tradition" acknowledges that today, as at the time of the Founding, listing every one of a person's rights is impossible. Our Constitution is one of expansive rights and limited government. The Ninth Amendment's inclusion in the Bill of Rights reminds us, and the Supreme Court, not to interpret it otherwise.

A welcome pause to our busy life

It is a simple request, embodied in a one-syllable, five-letter word. Yet, it is potentially sobering, whether perused by an individual, or considered by an entire nation, or even the world.

Whoever penned it likely had no clue that its message should be implemented beyond the walls of Chick-fil-A to a world spinning insanely fast, with little thought to abrupt stops that could occur at any moment.

Maybe, just maybe, the word on a sign posted before one reaches the counter for ordering could have far-reaching results. Atop a stanchion for patrons next in line to order is the modest request: "PAUSE."...

At Thanksgiving – and certainly at other times as well - this is a welcome prospect. We can use such time to breathe, to be considerate and to reflect on our lives, as well as the zany goingson around us.

It isn't threatening like many signs are. We are not told we can't cross the line, if per chance our hunger is dulling our judgment if not our senses. There is no mention of punishment or penalties should we ignore the request.

I think of it as reinforcement of the biblical admonition in Psalm 46:10: "Be still and know that I am God." As the season for ultimate "rushing" looms, the request is a healthy tonic. It is good to simply pause, reflecting on the promise that the same God who has always intervened in human affairs is still in charge....

If we are lucky, we'll reach times when there'll be unavoidable pauses, like them or not.

Terlingua's female entrepreneur

I was on one of the dusty roads in Terligua's ghost town riding in Mimi Webb Miller's Checker Cab when a young girl flagged us down, ran over to Mimi and told her in an excited voice, "We've just found a house here. We're moving from Austin next month." There's a reason Terlingua is known as Austin Far West.

That morning I stood in a long line of people waiting to get a bite of breakfast at a little walk-up eating place. It does a thriving business. Mimi owns it. She grew up in Wichita Falls. "When I came out here as an adult in my 20's I went back home and asked my daddy why we never came out here when I was growing up. There's a vortex here that sucks you in."

She came out here, fell in love with a Mexican man and set up housekeeping on a ranch south of Lajitas and had 2 children. She became quite popular in the remote mountain country that is becoming more popular with Texans. When Governor Ann Richards came to the Big Bend to inaugurate the Wild And Scenic River portion of the Rio Grande, Mimi went down the river with her and had fun. "I'm John Tower's niece," says

Mimi. "After that river ride, I decided I'm no longer a Republican. The Democrats go on the river, they get drunk and then talk politics. I'm by tumbleweed smith changing parties."

She says when she first got to Terlingua there were simple pleasures. "You could fish out here for catfish with ivory soap or something called hellgrammites which are dragon fly larvae and they just look awful. But fish love them. That was fun."

Mimi is a little concerned about Terlingua's growth. "It's a little scary because it's such a fragile area. We lack water and trash has become a problem. Who would have thought trash disposal would become so important down here?"

She has been in Terlingua 40 years and has found a lot of business opportunities. "My coffee shop is called Espresso Y Poco Mas. At first it was just a little window you walked up to and placed your order. But now we have a patio outside with tables and chairs and our menu has grown. I have a new place called Taqueria al Milagro. It's a real elevated taco stand. It's not expensive. You bring your own beer. We furnish ice. And then I have La Posada Milagro, a 7-room motel."

Mimi owns property in Mexico. "If you drive to Lajitas, I own the mountain on the left. It's about 6,300 feet high with a lot of waterfalls, one of them 40 feet. It's the best drinking water in the state of Chihuahua. I actually built 2 duplexes overlooking the river and that little village across from Lajitas. I take people on tours into Mexico.'

She also has other enterprises that require her to be in California. She is a casting director and finds people to do movies and TV commercials. "Some are actors from the screen actors guild and sometimes they're just regular folks. You remember when Cindy Crawford was younger and drank the Pepsi with short shorts on? That was mine. And I've supplied talent for super bowl commercials.'

The Clarendon Lions Club held its regular Tuesday noon meeting December 3, 2019, with Boss Lion Scarlet Estlack in command.

We had ten members and Sweethearts Mattee Johnson and Kira Weatherton this week.

The Boss Lion updated the club on college activities and reminded everyone of the Charlie Brown Christmas being performed there Thursday at 7 p.m.

Lion David Dockery reported on the city, which hopes to begin excavating the main part of the swimming pool next week and will be advertising for a pool manager soon. He also reported the new City Hall is coming along and should be ready for use in January.

The Sweethearts reported on the high school and said the canned food drive was going well. Lion Chuck Robertson updated the club on the search for a new superintendent.

Lion Bobbie Thornberry reminded everyone of the Museum Christmas Party on December 7, and Lion Roger Estlack said the Mulkey will host a Big Band Christmas concert on December 14.

There being no further business, we were dismissed to spread good cheer and Lionism throughout our fair county.

Grumbles

Michelle Hamlin Grumbles, age 51, unexpectedly passed away at home in Stephenville, Texas, November 27, 2019. Michelle was born on March 15, 1968 in Amarillo.

Marrying her one true love, her life as a married woman took her on a great adventure of knowing little about country life to running the business end of a ranch. She was known to many as a tough woman who didn't back away from any challenge, but with the same hands gently nursed many friends and family members. As her family grew, she took the title of motherhood with great pride. She did all for her family. From Boy Scouts, to sports, endless amounts of homework, teaching basic life skills and all the challenges in raising fine, young men.

As they grew, spending time with her dogs and traveling on the Harley with her husband brought her great joy. Just this summer, they checked off a bucket list item in traveling to South Dakota for the Sturgis Bike Rally. Moving into a dream home added another check to the bucket list and entertaining at an enormous dining table was a dream come true. She cherished the annual pilgrimage to the Camp Ben McCulloch to visit friends and family. In fact, she took a lot of time Holland out of her days to speak with her families and friends.

In every way, with everything land, 61, of she did, it was all and always for her Clarendon families, near and far. With all the died Tuesday, lives she touched, she left everlasting memories.

Proceeding her in death are her mother, Betty Maxfield; a brother, Terry Hopkins; an infant daughter, Misty Joy Grumbles; and father-inlaw, Buddy Grumbles.

of 30 yrs., Richard Grumbles and their two sons, William Grumbles, and Justin Grumbles. She is also survived by her father Doug Hamlin, wife, Margret; stepfather Archie Maxfield; siblings Donna Glisson, husband, Alvin; Ruthie Sustaita, husband, George; brother Tony Maxfield, wife Stephanie; Robert Hamlin, wife Melinda; John Hamlin, wife Carole Benson; Stacey Hamlin; mother-in-law, Carolyn Grumbles; sister-in-law Donna Grumbles; a multitude of nieces and nephews; and a lifetime of friends. Michelle her parents; and a brother, Danny was especially fond of her graduating class of 1986 at Arkansas High in Texarkana, Texas.

Pallbearers are Justin Grumbles, William Grumbles, Glen Cook, Ricky Green, Mark Lyckman, and Trey Tucker. Honorary pallbearers are Richard Grumbles, Robert Hamlin and John Hamlin, Alvin Brock Holland, Monty Holland, Glisson, Tony Maxfield.

In lieu of flowers, the family requests donations be made in cousins. Michelle's name to the Texas Epilepsy Foundation or the Texarkana als be sent to the Burton Memorial Baptist Children's Home in Texar-

Lady Colts roll Memphis

Aubrey Weatherton and Anna Randall teamed up and scored 41 points in the eighth grade Lady Colts romp over Memphis last week at 58-20. Courtlyn Conkin hit a big three-pointer and went two for two from the bonus line.

The Lady Colts controlled the game from the beginning as they went on a 22-9 run in the first quarter of play.

Scoring big was the strategy on offense, but the Lady Colt defense was strong as well. The Lady Cyclones were only able to muster 11 more points throughout as the Lady Colts stopped everything they tried. The ladies were able to keep their opponent scoreless in the final period of play.

Scoring: Weatherton 25, Randall 16, Conkin 5, Elyza Rodriguez 4, Emma Roys 4, and Kynna Phillips and Morgan Johnston two each.

The seventh grade Lady Colts did a great job on both ends of the court as well, taking a 38-16 win over the Lady Cyclones. Hayden Elam was unstoppable with 18 points for the ladies, and Tandie Cummins was right behind her with eight. As good as their offense was, the Lady Colts played strong, solid defense. They were able to hold their opponent to only five points in the first half of play. The second half belonged to the Lady Colts' defensive stance, but they were able to add points to the board.

Scoring: Elam 18, T. Cummins 8, Shelbi Coles 6, Gracie Clark 4, and Sidda Thomas 2.

The Lady Colts will play at Panhandle on December 9 beginning at 5:00.

Colts grab wins over Memphis

The seventh and eighth grade Colts sent Memphis packing last week after taking two big wins from them in the Bronco Gym.

The eighth grade Colts executed on both ends of the court and earned a huge 41-19 win. The Colts jumped on the Cyclones early and never looked back. Lyric Smith and Anthony Ceniceros led the Colts on the scoreboard with nine each, and Harrison Howard was right with them with eight. Derrius McDaniel hit two three-pointers for six, and Patrick Monds added four. Easton Frausto put in three, and Warren Mays had two.

The seventh grade Colts were able to win 25-15 and were able to hold Memphis to single digits in the first half of play. Great execution on both ends was a plus for the Colts as they were able to stop everything Memphis tried. John Weatherton and Dalton Coles each finished with six points while Grant Haynes and Mason Allred each added four. Bryce Williams put in three points, and Ben Estlack hit a bucket for two.

The Colts will host Panhandle on December 9 beginning at 5:00.

Broncos getby Lockney

By Sandy Anderberg

The Clarendon Broncos are beginning to put things together on the court and defeated Lockney 52-41 last week.

The Broncos had a big start and took the early lead and led by 20 after three quarters of play. But a huge final quarter for Lockney in a comeback attempt turned things around somewhat as they inched their way back. They hit twentyone out of twenty-seven, which kept them in the game with the Broncos.

Clarendon was able to hang on and get the win despite missing eight free throws.

Jamal Butler was too much for Lockney from his inside position and turned in 22 points. Sylvester Ballard helped with 14, and Lamarcus Peniger put in six. Jordan Herndon had five, Donovan Thompson had four, and Jmaury Davis, Collin Butler, and Ethan Babcock put in two each.

The Broncos will participate in the Miami Tournament this weekend

Lady Broncos run out of time against Lockney

The Lady Broncos shot 65 percent from the bonus line but could not pull out a win as they narrowly lost to Lockney, 42-45, last week.

After opening the game fairly even, Lockney was able to add points to the board and shut down Clarendon's offense before the break to take a nine-point lead. The Lady Broncos were able to regroup at the break and come out strong. They were able to outscore their opponent, but ran out of time.

Mattee Johnson led the ladies with 16 points that included hitting six out of six from the bonus line and nailing two big three-pointers. Jade Benson helped with 13 points, and Kira Weatherton had six with one three-pointer. Madi Smith had four, and Ashlynn Crawford put in three.

The Lady Broncos will play in the Miami Tournament this weekend.

Lady Bronco JV stomp Lockney

The Lady Bronco junior varsity was hitting on all cylinders in their big 39-19 win over Lockney last week. The ladies really got things going in the second quarter and shot 50 percent from the free throw line overall.

After ending the first quarter tied at nine, the Lady Broncos found a rhythm in their offense and began to put in points. They took the lead and never looked back and worked the court on the defensive end as they held Lockney to only two points.

After grabbing the momentum change, the Lady Broncos were able to stay strong until the end and get the win. Finley Cunningham was strong inside as she led the ladies with 14 points. Makenna Shadle and Aliyah Weatherton had six points each, and Kaitlyn Davis added five. Jayde Gribble added four, and Emeri Robinson and Laney Gates put in two each.

The Lady Bronco JV will participate in the Ft. Elliott tournament this weekend.

Raingutter Regatta

Clarendon Cub Scout Pack 437 held its annual Raingutter Regatta last Tuesday at the Mulkey Theatre. Racing were Lincoln Shannon, Jaxon Robertson (First Place Webelos 2 Den), Braylin Hucheton, Zoe Thompson, Conner Holt, Ella Estlack (Grand Champion and First Place Webelos 1 Den), Hunter Shields (First Place Lion Den), Emily Dzamko, and Kase Zongker (First Place Wolf Den). Cubs had to build their boats using an approved kit and then race them two at a time down a ten-foot raingutter to determine the winner in each den and then the Pack winner overall.
