Mulkey Theatre will reopen this Friday

The Mulkey Theatre will reopen this weekend to feature "Trolls: World Tour" while following social distancing guidelines set out by the state.

Seating will be limited to 25 percent capacity, and the balcony will be closed. Patrons will be asked to pay for their movie tickets and concessions at the ticket window and may come inside as their concession order is ready.

Once inside, parties are asked to skip every other row and to keep at least two seats between each household or party.

Movie times will be 7:30 p.m. on Friday and Saturday and 2 p.m. on Sunday. Doors will open 30 minutes before show time, and tickets may be purchased online at MulkeyTheatre.com.

Texas PPP loans top $41B, SBA reports

Texas has recorded another 175,418 approved Paycheck Protection Program (PPP) loans since the resumption of the program on Monday, April 27.

According to data released today by the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA), the Texas total thus far in PPP Round Two has totaled $12,789,880,775. When combined with Round One figures, 310,155 approved loans have been made in Texas totaling $41,273,591,048 since April 3.

"These numbers are mind-blowing, but it has happened because Texas banks—especially our community banks—have worked overtime to help small business owners across the state to save jobs," said Texas Bankers Association President & CEO Chris Furlow.

"Our Texas banks realize that for every small business loan they make, they are not just helping the owners, they are helping to save the livelihoods of that company's employees, so the human and community impact is heartening."

Approximately $135 billion in Round Two PPP funds remain available.

Ads available now in graduation paper

The Clarendon Enterprise graduation edition will be published May 21 and ad space is available through next Wednesday for parents or others wishing to congratulate their seniors.

The publication is open to not just Clarendon and Hedley graduates but other students graduating from other colleges, universities, and high schools.

Greenbelt Lake open for 'day use' only

New restrictions are in place this week for people visiting Greenbelt Lake after the reservoir reopened to a large crowd last weekend.

Greenbelt Water Authority General Manager Bobbie Kidd said the lake was very busy Friday, Saturday, and Sunday with perhaps as many as 1,500 people there on Saturday.

With the COVID-19 virus still active in the area, Donley County Judge John Howard, MD, asked the lake to observe Gov. Greg Abbott's Executive Order GA-18 and to follow the lead of state parks, which are operating only from dawn to dusk and with no overnight camping.

Lake officials say they have been following the governor's orders and also say that even though the lake is private property, they are complying with the judge's request.

"We feel it is in the best interest of Donley County," the water authority said in a statement.

As of now, there is only "day use" of the lake until further notice. No groups of more than five are allowed, and social distancing must still be practiced.

No overnight camping is permitted at Greenbelt. Customers can still shop, three at a time, in the Marina for bait, tackle, groceries, ice, and permits. Lake officials have been and will continue to sanitize touchable surfaces in the store frequently.

"If you are sick (with anything), if you have been directly exposed and tested for COVID-19 and are awaiting test results or you are positive for COVID-19 and are quarantined for either reason, don't come to the lake," the water authority's statement said. "Help us help everyone stay healthy."

Kidd said the lake intends to limit attendance this weekend to 500 people at each of the north and south entrances and admission will be on a first come, first served basis.

Greenbelt is also telling its licensed spaces holders that only people who live in their households are permitted in those spaces. No group cookouts or gatherings or going to other trailers will be allowed, and the water authority says licensees who violate that order may lose their lease.

Retirement recognition

Clarendon Elementary Principal Mike Word was surprised Tuesday morning with a new smoker grill. The Pony Parents organization presented the gift to Word, who is retiring this month after 31 years in his present role and a total of 39 years in education.

Negative COVID-19 tests now up to 74

One new case of COVID-19 was reported in Donley County last Friday, May 1, but the number of negative test results has grown to 74 this week, according to Judge John Howard, MD.

Clarendon Family Medical Center had conducted 95 tests on local residents as of Tuesday afternoon. One of those remained pending, but 74 were negative. Twenty local tests have come back positive, and five other local residents have tested positive at facilities outside the county.

"We're conducting fewer tests because we're not seeing as many sick people," Howard said. "That's good news for us."

Of the positive cases, twenty-one have been listed as "recovered." Howard says it's possible that as many as three of the remaining four positive cases may be recovered also, but those are not under the care of the local clinic.

The new case reported on Friday appeared to be a result of "household spread," Howard said, with the patient catching the virus from a family member with the disease during quarantine.

While COVID-19 in Donley County seems to have flattened out, cases in the Amarillo metro area and in Moore County have gone up dramatically. City officials in Amarillo announced last week that federal resources are being brought in to help manage the virus outbreak in there, and the state health department is taking over the cases in Moore County.

Amarillo media reported 75 new cases on Monday bringing the total in Potter and Randall counties to 1,172.

Howard still urges everyone to continue to follow social distancing guidelines and says older folks should continue to limit going out.

Also this week, Gov. Greg Abbott announced Tuesday that hair salons and barbers would be allowed to reopen on Friday with gyms being able to open on Monday.

"If Texans stop using the distancing strategies we have been utilizing in the past month, they will cause an increase in COVID transmission," Abbott said. "If that happens, it will lead to some counties having to impose stricter requirements."

The Texas Tribune reported that Abbott's announcement "came as the number of coronavirus cases in Texas increased to at least 33,369, including 906 deaths, according to the latest numbers from the Texas Department of State Health Services. The virus is present in 216 out of the state's 254 counties."

Clarendon housing authority receives funds

Public housing authorities and Section 8 voucher programs in the Amarillo area received several federal grants totaling $677,328 to help with coronavirus-related improvements and maintenance to local public housing programs, U.S. Sen. John Cornyn announced this week.

The Clarendon Housing Authority received $25,995, according to Cornyn's office.

The funding comes through the Department of Housing and Urban Development as part of the CARES Act, which was signed into law last month, under the Supplemental Public Housing Operating Funds program, which helps prevent, prepare, and respond to the Coronavirus Pandemic in public housing.

"The coronavirus outbreak has hit Texans hard, and as much as we can protect each other from its effects, we must," said Sen. Cornyn. "I'm grateful to the Trump Administration for making public housing in the Amarillo area an important priority during the outbreak."

These grants may be used for resident support services; management and operations, including staff; routine and preventative maintenance; safety and security; energy costs; insurance; debt service incurred to finance unit rehabilitation and development; planning for the long-term capital needs and viability of the properties; and other costs.

Clarendon, Hedley plan graduations at Sandell

Clarendon and Hedley High Schools will be holding graduation exercises at the Sandell Drive-In this year as the COVID-19 virus continues to impact lives and activities.

Clarendon High School graduation will be held Friday, May 22, at 8:45 p.m., and Hedley's ceremony will follow on Saturday at 8:30 p.m.

Sandell owner John Morrow said Hedley reached out first about using the drive-in to hold graduation and later Clarendon called. Social distancing requirements designed to mitigate the spread of COVID-19 are prohibiting large gatherings of people in places like gyms and auditoriums.

"They are making some really good plans," Morrow said of the two schools. "It's gonna be different, but it's better than not having graduation."

Morrow said the schools will use a gooseneck trailer as a stage, which has been in place for the last few weeks for a community worship service. Both schools are also planning to project images and video on the Sandell big screen.

Clarendon Principal Larry Jeffers said gates will open at 7:45 p.m. for guests, and CHS is encouraging students and parents to decorate their vehicle appropriately. CHS senior parents are also asked to ride in the vehicle with their graduate to ensure they get a good space.

CHS student vehicles will drive forward for the student to exit and then drive to the other end of the stage to pick up the student. Parents can get out of the vehicle when it has reached the other end of the stage and take a picture of the student receiving their diplomas and then return to the vehicle. The student will come on stage, receive their diploma and/or awards, exit the stage, get back into their vehicle and return to their parking space.

Graduation organizers remind everyone that the audio for the service will be broadcast over FM radio. If you are unable to listen to the radio and keep your headlights off, you should bring a portable radio.

Hedley Superintendent Garrett Bains said participants and guests will remain in their cars at the drive-in but otherwise they would try to have as "normal" a graduation service as possible.

A video will be played on the Sandell screen, and Bains said the school is working on a plan to allow the seniors to come forward, one at a time, to receive their diplomas, since there are only six seniors in the class.

Working to protect our health care employees

In times of crisis, Texans are always eager to lend a hand. I think about those who came together in the wake of Hurricane Harvey to lead search and rescue operations, clear debris and rebuild their communities. Though the crisis we face today is an entirely different breed, that same Texas generosity is still easy to find.

texas times
by sen. john cornyn

From organizations like the Houston Food Bank stocking families’ pantries, to alcohol producers like Gulf Coast Distillers donating hand sanitizer, to a personal protective equipment (PPE) drive at Minute Maid Park — these stories are a reliable source of comfort amid so much uncertainty.

As Texans work together to flatten the curve and support one another, I’m continuing the fight in Congress to get the resources our health care workers and local leaders need.

I recently held a video conference with members of the Texas Nurses Association and heard from Kimberly Curtin, a nurse practitioner at MD Anderson, about the need for additional PPE such as masks, gloves and gowns. She said nurses are given a clean mask at the start of each shift, and that mask is supposed to last an entire day. After hours of wear, masks can become damp and soiled and carry germs from one patient to another. This practice is unsafe for both our health care workers and their patients.

Congress has provided billions of dollars to increase our nationwide supply of PPE. Recent legislation included $16 billion for the Strategic National Stockpile to procure PPE and other medical supplies. It also provided $1 billion for the Defense Production Act to bolster domestic supply chains and speed up production for PPE, as well as ventilators and other urgently needed equipment.

Our health care workers should never be in a position where they’re forced to decide between their own health and that of patients. Period.

A key component of our ability to slow the spread, and eventually defeat COVID-19, is through testing. The sooner we can identify positive cases, the sooner these individuals can self-isolate, and notify those with whom they’ve been in contact. Congress has passed legislation to expand testing capacity and make testing free of charge for all Texans. Last week, we took another major step forward and provided an additional $25 billion to support and expand state-led testing.

We also bolstered funding to support our hospitals. Urban and rural hospitals alike are being crushed by the weight of this virus, and they need financial assistance to survive. Congress has provided $175 billion to help our hospitals and health care providers keep their doors open.

One of the cascading effects of this virus is the broader impact on our health care system. The surge in coronavirus led to a statewide postponement of elective surgeries. In the beginning, this made sense: we needed to free-up medical resources to fight COVID-19. We must remember, though, that “elective” doesn’t mean “unimportant.” Procedures covered by these cancellations include everything from cancer biopsies to organ transplants, and patients living with chronic pain who once had a surgery date — a sign of hope — had to continue living with the pain.

A recent executive order issued by Gov. Greg Abbott has loosened these restrictions and given hospitals the ability to perform procedures that aren’t expected to reduce coronavirus response capacity. This is welcome news for Texans whose procedures have been postponed and marks a small but significant step toward restoring normal operations.

As we look for that light at the end of the tunnel, it’s important to remember that much is still unknown about COVID-19. While we are learning more and making progress every day, the right balance needs to be struck to ensure public safety.

While Texans continue to support their communities, I want to thank those who are in the trenches battling this virus. Texas’ doctors, nurses, first responders and health care workers make physical and emotional sacrifices every day to support their patients. These brave men and women offer more than lifesaving care — they’re a hand to hold, a friendly face and a source of comfort for patients who are isolated from family and friends.

Thank you to the health care workers who are keeping Texans safe. We stand with you.

Senator John Cornyn, a Republican from Texas, is a member of the Senate Finance, Intelligence, and Judiciary Committees.

The trio looks back on old times

A few days ago, my wife and I enjoyed a short road trip. Typically an hour’s drive to Stephenville, this day it was twice that. It took 40 minutes to make it through Granbury, where folks — weary of “sheltering” — seemed happy to be in their cars again, perhaps looking for “essential places.”

Stephenville friendships were renewed. One visit was “through a glass darkly.” We peered through a therapy center window to see a smiling Dwain Bruner, who reported for work daily at the dealership until experiencing a stroke at the end of February.

The automobile executive — selling Chevrolets for 58 years and adding other brands along the way — soon will be 90. However, his smile is ever young — the kind car dealers flash when both parties are happy upon completion of transactions....

Dwain is getting daily therapy. Daughter Gwyn and son Greg are happy that his room is farthest from the therapy center, so he “gets additional exercise, coming and going.”

We conversed by phone with Dwain, whose carotid artery procedure was “wedged in” at a packed Fort Worth hospital in March. Upon his admission, Gwyn and Greg “signed off” on being with him until the COVID-19 nightmare ends.

Thankfully, they can have “window visits,” as we had. Phones are blessings!....

Two other longtime friends have had unique phone experiences. One is AT&T’s Regional Director of External Affairs; the other helped his granddad keep phone lines intact in rural Brown County around 1930.

The latter, Dr. Joe B. Rushing, begins his 100th year of life this month at his Lampasas, TX, home. He has “hitches in his git-along,” but remains “tack sharp,” this nationally-recognized higher education leader. He founded two junior college districts — Broward County, FL, then Tarrant County College in Fort Worth.

When his father died in 1928, Joe was age seven. That’s when he and his mom, pregnant with his late sister Cordie, moved in with his grandparents. “We had a ‘crank’ wall phone activated by two long and two short ‘rings.’ After a rainstorm, I’d go with my granddad in his Model A to check on the lines, sometimes re-attaching the wires to fence posts on the roadside between our house and Blanket. We didn’t want to miss important calls, usually from kin in Friona and Eldorado,” Joe remembers....

The “phone pro” in the trio has been a part of AT&T for 53 years. Linda Caram — self-described as “Ma Bell” — is the “face” of area operations. Of AT&T’s thousands of employees worldwide, she ranks number eight in tenure, longer than any other employee in Texas. Except for one in Louisiana, the six

the idle american
by don newbury

others with longer tenure are scattered on the left and right coasts. Her region includes all or parts of Denton, Parker, Wise, Johnson and Tarrant Counties.

A public relations genius, she personifies her company as well as any person I’ve ever known.

She’s forever “on task.”...

“Taking one for the team” is the norm for Linda. Speaking at a retirement event for a friend, she decided to “dress the part,” knowing the honoree was big on conservation and recycling. She gathered dead leaves fallen from her trees, gluing them on a big trash bag. She cut head-and-arm holes in the bag, and felt “ready to go!” Or so she thought.

Oh, no! Turns out, Linda was allergic to the leaves. Before ending her remarks, her eyes were watering and she was sneezing. Yep, she’s a team player whose age and social security number are not revealed. (Word has it both are two digits.)

It was 33 years ago that AT&T urged us to “reach out and touch someone.” Such helps when dealing with quarantine. As my old mom would have said, we “kept the phone lines warm.” Much of our “time out” was refreshing, used to “reach out,” including a visit to see a friend’s bright smile — even if through a glass darkly — and reaching others by phone....

Outrageous Texas women characters

By this time of year, I’ve usually done several speeches at various events around the country. All of my scheduled winter appearances took place, but because of the Corona Virus, most of the ones scheduled for this spring have been canceled or postponed. With this extra time at home I’ve had the opportunity to create a new one-man show. It’s all about women characters I’ve interviewed during the past 50 years. Although the show will have a couple of trial performances between now and the end of the year to get some possible kinks worked out, the official debut will be February 9th of next year when I speak to the Second Tuesday Club in Midland.

The title of the new show is Outrageous Texas Women of Character. So far I’ve gone through about 10,000 programs to pick out some of the most hilarious women who tell about their personal experiences. I still have 3,000 more programs to check. No telling what I might find.

I’ve met women with names usually associated with men’s names like Gary, Charlie, Travis, Cecil and Tony. (I’ve also interviewed men named Beverly, Vivian, Sher-rill, Carroll and Laurie).

Some of the women I’ve interviewed have unusual pets: monkey, bobcat, raccoon, mountain lion, coyote, chimp, rabbit, donkey, pig, chicken, wolf, kangaroo, peacock, porcupine, bat and turtle.

Some have unusual occupations: raising fighting roosters, blacksmithing, working on a pipeline, truck driver, alligator hunting guide, stunt pilot, goat farmer, bagpipe player, cowgirl, water witch, totem pole carver, faith healer, worm raiser and horsebreaker.

I interviewed Mrs. Pancho Villa (I’ve been doing this a long time), a lady stories of texas

by tumbleweed smith

who makes fruitcakes using a cement mixer, a champion hog caller, a woman who uses her red umbrella to coax oil out of the ground, 84 year old triplex who were married in a car, a lady who swears greasewood tea cured her leukemia, a champion shrimp eater (she weighs about 100 pounds), a woman who makes baskets from armadillos, another who has a landing pad for UFOs, one who drinks burro milk, a woman who uses ducks to guard her property, a woman who repairs accordions, a female who won a tobacco spitting contest, another who makes mesquite bean jelly, sisters who play harmonicas, a couple of female champion chili cooks at Terlingua, a woman who shears sheep, a llama kisser, a female steamboat pilot and many other fascinating Texas women.

I’ve interviewed some Sisters on the Fly, a group of women who have small travel trailers and caravan around the country. They say it’s like girl scouts but with martinis. Their motto is “We make make girls out of women.”

Online Texas A&M AgriLife Organic Workshop available

The Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service is now offering the Texas A&M AgriLife Organic Workshop online.

Although the videos are tailored toward the High Plains and Rolling Plains producers, there are videos that provide great insights for producers across Texas, said Emi Kimura, Ph.D., AgriLife Extension agronomist, Vernon.

The series of nine videos range anywhere from about 10 to 90 minutes and can be viewed at any time without a fee.

Topics and speakers for the online organic workshop will be:

Texas Department of Agriculture Organic Certification Program, Brandi Chandler, Texas Department of Agriculture interim coordinator for organic certification, Levelland;

Organic Transition in North Texas Wheat Systems: Research Project, Curtis Adams, Ph.D., Texas A&M AgriLife Research crop physiologist, Vernon;

Integrated Goat Grazing System, Justin Benavidez, Ph.D., AgriLife Extension economist, Amarillo;

Organic Wheat Production: Grower Considerations, Justin Tuggle, Ph.D., Crop Docs Consulting, Stephenville;

Predatory Mites for Control of Spider Mites in Texas High Plains Corn, Ed Bynum, Ph.D., retired AgriLife Extension entomologist, Amarillo;

Entomopathogenic Nematode Studies for Control of Corn Rootworm, Pat Porter, Ph.D., AgriLife Extension entomologist, Lubbock, and Bynum;

Crop Insurance and Farm Service Agency Programs for Organic Production, DeDe Jones, AgriLife Extension risk management program specialist, Amarillo, and Amanda Cook, FSA district director, Amarillo;

Status of Corn Earworm Resistance to Bt Corn on the High Plains, Porter; and Organic Production Marketing, Pancho Abello, AgriLife Extension economist, Vernon.

For more information, contact AgriLife Extension agronomist Jourdan Bell, Ph.D., Amarillo, at Jourdan.bell@ag.tamu.edu, or Kimura, emi.kimura@ag.tamu.edu.

Donley County Social Hour

The fourth Donley County Social hour, hosted by County Attorney Landon Lambert (above right) and editor Roger Estlack (above left) was held last Thursday and interviewed Judge John Howard M.D. The video can still be viewed at Facebook.com/TheEnterprise, and this week's Social Hour will be broadcast at that same address this Thursday, May 7, at 5:30 p.m.

Happy Mother's Day to the best

This Monday, I went to the school and picked up all of my things from my locker. With that, I found out that I was getting medals for UIL.

I got four medals and a ribbon, but it couldn't have been possible without my mom.

Since this Sunday is Mother's Day and I wanted to write about my mom and everything she does for my family, the community, and me. My mom is a funny, smart, and talented person. I enjoy getting to spend time with her painting or raising money for my Scout trip in 2021. She is always so supportive of me and the rest of my family.

She has a job working at Pantex, but right now she gets to work from home because of the pandemic. She is a member of the Lions Club and helps to put on the Pancake Supper and the 5K. She also takes care of our family, cooking and cleaning.

My mom's favorite hobby is to sit out on her lanai.

My mom also helps me and my sister with our online school, and she helps my sister and me with our paintings.

I could go on and on, but in all, I love my mom, and I want to say Happy Mother's Day for all you do!

CHS announces Promenade plans

Clarendon High School has come up with an alternative to the traditional junior-senior prom this year due to social distancing requirements.

A Promenade will be held May 15 for any CHS senior, junior, sophomore, or freshman that was invited to the CHS prom that was scheduled for March 28th.

Line-up will start at 5:30 p.m. at the CHS parking lot with the Promenade starting at 6:00.

Girls are asked to wear their prom dresses, and boys are asked to wear either a suit or their Sunday best.

Students will Promenade east on 5th Street and make their way to the Donley County Courthouse.

Students will need a driver to move their vehicle once they are announced and get out of their vehicle at the courthouse. The driver will be responsible to move their vehicle and pick them back up at the designated pickup area. Once they are picked up, they may continue to watch but must find their own parking spot and remain in their vehicle.

USDA reminds producers to complete crop acreage reports

The Donley County office for USDA's Farm Service Agency (FSA) is currently open to phone and virtual appointments only but can still work with producers on timely filing crop acreage reports. FSA staff can provide assistance over the phone, by email and through virtual meetings via Microsoft Teams.

The following acreage reporting dates are applicable for Donley County: January 15, 2020 — Wheat; July 15, 2020 — Cotton, Peanuts, Sorghum, Corn, all other spring seeded crops; and December 15, 2020 — Grass.

"In order to comply with FSA program eligibility requirements, all producers must file an accurate crop acreage report by the applicable deadline," said Vance Killian, FSA's County Executive Director in Donley County. "Our FSA staff is still able to assist producers in completing acreage reports, including providing maps."

The Donley County FSA office can provide maps to producers through mail and/or email with instructions for completing the maps. Please call the Donley County FSA office at 806-874-3561 x 2 to request a copy of the maps and instructions. After planting is complete, producers should return completed maps and the acreage reporting sheet by mail or email no later than June 10, 2020.

The Donley County FSA office is using Microsoft Teams software to virtually meet with producers to review maps and documents for certification. Producers who want to schedule a virtual appointment can download the Microsoft Teams app on their smart phones and call the FSA office for an appointment. You can also use Microsoft Teams from your personal computer without downloading software.

After completed maps and all acreage reporting information is received, FSA will make software updates and mail and/or email producers the completed Report of Acreage form (FSA-578) to sign. Producers must return the signed form certifying their acreage report to the FSA office through mail and/or email by July 15, 2020.

The following exceptions apply to acreage reporting dates:

If the crop has not been planted by the acreage reporting date, then the acreage must be reported no later than 15 calendar days after planting is completed.

If a producer acquires additional acreage after the acreage reporting date, then the acreage must be reported no later than 30 calendar days after purchase or acquiring the lease.

Appropriate documentation must be provided to the county office.

Producers should also report crop acreage they intended to plant, but due to natural disaster, were unable to plant. Prevented planting acreage must be reported on form CCC-576, Notice of Loss, no later than 15 calendar days after the final planting date as established by FSA and USDA's Risk Management Agency.

Noninsured Crop Disaster Assistance Program (NAP) policy holders should note that the acreage reporting date for NAP-covered crops is the earlier of the dates listed above or 15 calendar days before grazing or harvesting of the crop begins.

For questions, please contact FSA's Donley County office at 806-874-3561 x 2.

USDA Service Centers are open for business by phone appointment only and field work will continue with appropriate social distancing. While our program delivery staff will continue to come into the office, they will be working with our producers by phone, and using online tools whenever possible. All Service Center visitors wishing to conduct business with the FSA, Natural Resources Conservation Service, or any other Service Center agency are required to call their Service Center to schedule a phone appointment. More information can be found at farmers.gov/coronavirus.

Community newspapers ask Congress to support the USPS

Nearly 1,000 community newspapers, including the Enterprise, added their voices to a letter to the 116th Congress: Save the Postal Service.

Amid the flurries of legislation to protect the U.S. economy from the coronavirus damage, Congress has been asked to recognize the needs of the Postal Service. USPS has been in headlines in recent weeks as disagreements over its package services have arisen, but National Newspaper Association says most members of Congress agree that a viable universal postal delivery is essential to the economy.

"It is an election year, so editors expect to see vigorous debate about virtually everything, but it is unfortunate that the value of USPS has been caught up in political debate. Mail delivery is essential to the commerce of this country and even more so in rural areas," NNA President Matt Adelman, publisher of the Douglas (Wyoming) Budget, said. "After all our nation's businesses have been through this year, the last thing we need is an interruption of the mail. That affects invoices, checks in the mail, newspaper delivery and small parcels with essential items like medicines."

NNA is a member of the Coalition for a 21st Century Postal Service, known as C21, a business organization that supports the mailing industry. C21 has been active for more than a decade in urging Congress to shore up the public policy guiding universal service. C21's letter to Congress, joined by newspapers in all 50 states, urged Congress to provide funding for USPS. The letter said:

"We, along with the postal-reliant industry that generates $1.6 trillion in sales and employs 7.3 million workers, have long supported a self-sufficient Postal Service. But no business entity can withstand a 50 percent or more externally-imposed drop in business and revenues, as USPS projects due to COVID-19, and long survive. That is why emergency funding must be provided now."

Adelman said he expected some in Congress to call the funding a "bailout."

"There are a lot of misunderstandings about USPS across the country and certainly in Congress. Saying that providing an appropriation for USPS, which is a federal agency, is a 'bailout' is like saying making an appropriation to keep parks open is a 'bailout.' Both operate on user fees to a greater or lesser degree, but when the user fees — postage in this case — can't keep up with the expenses, the responsibility for keeping the systems running falls to Congress. That is not a bailout. It is just common sense. It is time for members of Congress to get on with its work in this area," he said.

USPS has said it expects to run short of cash by the end of the year. Communities and businesses that depend upon it may see a slowing or interruption of mail service as the system struggles to stay afloat.

TWC sets new guidance for unemployment

AUSTIN — Governor Greg Abbott today announced that the Texas Workforce Commission (TWC) has issued new guidance to unemployment claimants concerning their eligibility for unemployment benefits should they choose not to return to work at this time due to COVID-19.

Under this guidance, Texans can continue to receive unemployment benefits throughout the COVID-19 response if they choose not to return to work for certain reasons as specified by TWC.

"As the Lone Star State begins the process of safely and strategically opening the economy, our top priority is protecting the health and safety of all Texans—especially those who are most vulnerable to COVID-19," said Governor Abbott. "This flexibility in the unemployment benefit process will help ensure that Texans with certain health and safety concerns will not be penalized for choosing not to return to work."

Each unemployment insurance claim is currently evaluated on an individual basis. However, because of the COVID-19 emergency, the following are reasons benefits would be granted if the individual refused suitable work.

Reason for refusal:

At High Risk: People 65 years or older are at a higher risk for getting very sick from COVID-19.

Household member at high risk: People 65 years or older are at a higher risk of getting very sick from COVID-19.

Diagnosed with COVID: The individual has tested positive for COVID-19 by a source authorized by the State of Texas and is not recovered.

Family member with COVID: Anybody in the household has tested positive for COVID-19 by a source authorized by the State of Texas and is not recovered and 14 days have not yet passed.

Quarantined: Individual is currently in 14-day quarantine due to close contact exposure to COVID-19.

Child care: Child's school or daycare closed and no alternatives are available.

Any other situation will be subject to a case by case review by TWC based on individual circumstances.

Ag Secretary says producers may apply for SBA loans

WASHINGTON, DC — U.S. Department of Agriculture Secretary Sonny Perdue today applauded the announcement that agricultural producers, for the first time, are now eligible for the Small Business Administration (SBA)'s Economic Injury Disaster Loan (EIDL) and EIDL Advance programs.

"America's farmers, ranchers, and producers need the same help that other American businesses need during this unprecedented time," said Secretary Perdue. "This significant new authority signed by President Trump will make a tremendous difference for America's agricultural community."

SBA's EIDL portal has been closed since April 15. However, the Agency is able to reopen the portal today, in a limited capacity, as a result of funding authorized by Congress through the Paycheck Protection Program and Healthcare Enhancement Act.

The legislation, which was signed into law by the President one week ago, provided additional critical funding for farmers and ranchers affected by the Coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic.

In order to help facilitate this important change to EIDL Loan and EIDL Advance assistance eligibility, SBA is re-opening the Loan and Advance application portal to agricultural enterprises only. For agricultural producers that submitted an EIDL loan application through the streamlined application portal prior to the legislative change, SBA will move forward and process these applications without the need for re-applying.

All other EIDL loan applications that were submitted prior to April 15 will be processed on a first-in, first-out basis.

AgriLife Extension offers tips for alleviating concerns, stresses as businesses open

Returning to work after six weeks under the COVID-19 pandemic shutdown can cause differing amounts of emotions – disbelief, fear and even anger – among workers, much like after a disaster.

But employers and co-workers alike can watch for signs of emotional impact over the coming weeks and months, to ensure everyone is finding their way back to a new normal, said a Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service specialist.

When states, cities and workplaces begin reopening, COVID-19 won't be gone, nor will the concerns that surround it, said Miquela Smith, AgriLife Extension health specialist, Amarillo.

Some workers will gladly head back to their offices and places of business, while others will do so with trepidation, Smith said.

Returning to work
Many Americans with management and professional occupations will be able to continue working from home, while those with service, production and maintenance-related jobs will have to physically return to work, she said. Employees who can continue to work from home will inherently be at a lower risk of exposure to the virus compared to those who cannot.

This will disproportionately affect Americans with lower education levels because they are less likely to occupy professional and management positions that might allow them to work from home, Smith said.

"Minimizing employees' potential exposure to COVID-19 must be a top priority," she said. "The CDC offers resources on their website for businesses and employers to help them prepare to safely reopen. Reopening businesses will come with challenges and people will respond differently to being back at work."

Some people may have lost loved ones or know someone who got sick, so it will hit close to home, Smith said.

Others may have anxiety about returning to work safely; or about finding safe daycare for their children, who are not returning to school. Others will be tired of being at home and will welcome the opportunity to go about life as if nothing is happening.

"Each of our lives have been altered and directly impacted by this crisis," she said. "Crisis situations affect people differently and just because a person is not responding to the pandemic in the way you think they should, does not mean they are unaffected. Returning to work after a pandemic is new territory for all of us, and we must have patience with ourselves and others while we navigate the process."

Emotional stress and well-being
Employers and co-workers should watch for signs of emotional impact over the coming weeks and months. Signs someone may be struggling in their return to the workplace include changes in performance and productivity, such as missing deadlines, calling in sick frequently, absenteeism, irritability and anger, difficulty concentrating and making decisions, withdrawal from work activity, and difficulty with work transitions or changes in routines.

Smith suggested employers will need to educate supervisors and managers to be aware of the signs of emotional distress, and to encourage staff to seek treatment when necessary.

One program that is offered by AgriLife Extension, Mental Health First Aid, teaches these exact skills. That program is in the process of being modified so it may be offered on a fully virtual platform soon.

"While each business will dictate how they come back online and what will be expected of their employees, it is important to remind them that support among colleagues can help employees work through difficulties," she said.

Initially, it may also be important to reconsider travel needs, as employees, clients and other individuals may be hesitant to make business trips for some time. Consider postponing or canceling upcoming conferences and other meetings that require travel.

Do's and don'ts upon returning to work

Key messages Smith offered for individuals to help facilitate a safe return to the workplace include:

Wash your hands often with soap and water for at least 20 seconds. Use hand sanitizer with at least 60% alcohol if soap and water are not available

Avoid touching your eyes, nose and mouth with unwashed hands.

Follow the policies and procedures of your employer related to illness, cleaning and disinfecting, work meetings and travel. Continue to follow guidelines from state and local authorities for using face coverings in public spaces.

Clean and disinfect frequently touched objects and surfaces in your work area, including keyboards, phones, handrails and doorknobs.

Stay home if you are sick, except to get medical care.

Inform your supervisor if you have a sick family member at home with COVID-19.

Avoid using other employees' phones, desks, offices, or other work tools and equipment, when possible. If necessary, clean and disinfect them before and after use.

Know what to expect of yourself. You may experience a variety of emotions after returning to work, which is normal. Talking about your feelings with someone you trust is a healthy way to process this evolving situation.

Continue to take care of yourself. Eat well, get plenty of rest and exercise, spend time with those closest to you.

Take care of your children and your family. Parents could be concerned about their children's well-being when they must return to work. Make sure your children know proper hygiene practices and let them talk about what is going on to help reassure them.

Seek help if you need to. If your feelings are too much to bear, seeking help is a sign of strength, not weakness. Mental health problems – in general and in response to a major event such as the pandemic – are real, diagnosable and treatable.

Know your rights and the COVID-19-related guidance that has been given for your specific industry by visiting the CDC website and the Occupational Safety and Health Administration website.

State Sales Tax Revenue Totaled $2.6 Billion

AUSTIN – Texas Comptroller Glenn Hegar last week said state sales tax revenue totaled $2.58 billion in April, 9.3 percent less than in April 2019, the steepest decline since January 2010.

The majority of April sales tax revenue is based on sales made in March and remitted to the agency in April. Widespread social distancing requirements were not in place across much of the state until late March, meaning the impact of those measures affected only a portion of sales tax remittances in April. Next month's remittances likely will show steeper declines compared to a year ago, as the effects of both the shuttering of businesses related to COVID-19 and plummeting oil prices were manifest throughout April.

"State sales tax collections declined as a result of efforts to stem the spread of COVID-19 through business closures, crowd limits and stay-at-home orders adopted in the state, as well as a precipitous drop in worldwide demand for oil," Hegar said. "The steepest declines in tax remittances were from businesses most quickly and dramatically affected by social distancing: restaurants, performing arts venues, movie theaters, theme parks and fitness centers, as well as department stores and boutique retail shops. However, those losses were, to a degree, offset by increases from big-box retailers, grocery stores and online vendors. Remittances from oil- and gas-related sectors also fell significantly as oil and gas exploration and production companies slashed capital spending in response to the crash in oil price."

Sales tax is the largest source of state funding for the state budget, accounting for 57 percent of all tax collections. It can also be a lagging indicator of economic slowdowns. The recession associated with the financial crisis more than a decade ago began in December 2007 and lasted 18 months, but Texas did not see significant sales tax declines until early 2009. While the effect on sales taxes from the current economic contraction has been more immediate, the impact of rising unemployment and contracting economic activity in many parts of the state's economy, including oil and natural gas exploration and production, likely will act as a drag on sales tax revenue for many months.

The effects of the March economic slowdown and falling oil prices were more evident in other sources of revenue in April 2020. Texas collected the following revenue from other major taxes:

Motor vehicle sales and rental taxes — $164 million, down 45 percent from April 2019, the largest monthly drop on record in data going back to 1983;

Motor fuel taxes — $284 million, down 12 percent from April 2019, the steepest drop since 1991;

Natural gas production tax — $67 million, down 48 percent from April 2019;

Oil production tax — $191 million, down 45 percent from April 2019;

Hotel occupancy tax — $24 million, down 63 percent from April 2019, the deepest drop in data going back to 1990; and Alcoholic beverage taxes — $57 million, down 55 percent from April 2019. Declines were driven by mixed beverage gross receipts and sales taxes, both of which were down more than 58 percent. Excise taxes on beer were up 16 percent from April 2019, while wine excise taxes were up 9 percent from April 2019.

Property Tax Protest and Appeal Procedures

Property owners have the right to protest actions concerning their property tax appraisals. You may follow these appeal procedures if you have a concern about:

- the appraised (market) value of your property
- the unequal value of your property compared with other properties
- the inclusion of your property on the appraisal roll
- any exemptions that may apply to you
- the qualification for an agricultural or timber appraisal
- the taxing units taxing your property
- the property ownership
- the change of use of land receiving special appraisal
- failure of the chief appraiser or appraisal review board (ARB) to send a required notice
- any action taken by the chief appraiser, appraisal district (CAD) or ARB that applies to and adversely affects you.

Informal Review
For information about informal review and obtaining property tax records, call your appraisal district at the number listed on the Notice of Appraised Value.

Review by the ARB
If you cannot resolve your problem informally with the CAD, you may file a notice of protest requesting to have your case heard by the ARB.

The ARB is an independent board of citizens that hears and determines protests regarding property appraisals or other concerns listed above. It has the power to order the CAD to make the necessary changes based on evidence heard during the ARB hearing.

If you file a written request for an ARB hearing (notice of protest) before the deadline, the ARB will set your case for a hearing and send you written notice of the time, date and place of the hearing. If necessary, you may request a hearing in the evening or on a Saturday or Sunday. You may use Comptroller Form 50-132, Property Appraisal - Notice of Protest, to file your written request for an ARB hearing.

Prior to your hearing, you may ask to review the evidence the CAD plans to introduce at the hearing to establish any matter at issue. Before a hearing on a protest or immediately after the hearing begins, you or your agent and the CAD are required to provide each other with a copy of any materials (evidence) intended to be offered or submitted to the ARB at the hearing. Evidence may be submitted for any hearing type either in paper or on a small portable electronic device (such as a CD, USB flash drive or thumb drive) which will be kept by the ARB. Do NOT bring evidence on a smart phone. The ARB's hearing procedures regarding all the requirements to properly submit evidence on a small portable electronic device must be reviewed.

To the greatest extent practicable, the hearing will be informal. You or a designated agent may appear in person or you may by telephone conference call or submission of written affidavit to present your evidence, facts and argument.

Deadline for Filing Protest with the ARB*

Usual Deadline
Not later than May 15 (or within 30 days after a notice of appraised value was mailed to you, whichever is later).

Late protests are allowed for good cause if you miss the usual deadline. The ARB decides whether you have a good cause. Late protests are not allowed after the ARB approves the appraisal records for the year.

Special Deadlines
For change of use (the appraisal district informed you that you are losing agricultural appraisal because you changed the use of your land), the deadline is not later than the 30th day after the notice of the determination was delivered to you.

- The deadline is postponed to the next business day if it falls on a weekend or legal, state or national holiday.

If you decide to participate by telephone conference call, you must provide your evidence to the ARB with a written affidavit before the ARB hearing begins. You may use the Comptroller Form 50-283, Property Owner's Affidavit of Evidence to the Appraisal Review Board, to submit evidence for your telephone conference call hearing or for the hearing by affidavit.

You and the CAD representative have the opportunity to present evidence about your case. You may cross-examine the CAD representative. The ARB will make its decision based on the evidence presented by both parties. In most cases, the CAD has the burden of establishing the property's value by a preponderance of the evidence presented.

In certain protests, the chief appraiser has the burden of proving the property's value by clear and convincing evidence. You should review ARB hearing procedures to learn more about evidence and related matters.

You should not try to contact ARB members outside of the hearing. ARB members are required sign an affidavit saying that they have not talked about your case before the ARB hears it.

Review by the District Court, an Arbitrator or SOAH
After it decides your case, the ARB must send you a copy of its order by certified mail. If you are not satisfied with the ARB's decision, you have the right to appeal to district court. As an alternative to district court, you may appeal through binding arbitration or the State Office of Administrative Hearings (SOAH) if you meet the qualifying criteria.

If you choose to go to district court, you must start the process by filing a petition with the district court within 60 days of the date you receive the ARB's order. If you choose to appeal through binding arbitration, you must file a request for binding arbitration with the CAD not later than the 45th day after you receive notice of the ARB order. If you choose to appeal to the SOAH, you must file an appeal with the CAD not later than the 30th day after you receive notice of the ARB's order. Appeals to district court, binding arbitration or SOAH all require payment of certain fees or deposits.

Tax Payment
You must pay either the amount of taxes due on the portion of the taxable value not in dispute, the amount of taxes due on the property under the order from which the appeal is taken or the amount of taxes due in the previous year.

More Information
You can get more information by contacting your appraisal district at the address and telephone number shown on the Notice of Appraised Value. You can get Comptroller forms and additional information on how to prepare a protest from the Comptroller's website at comptroller.texas.gov/taxes/property-tax/.

For ARB changes (the ARB has informed you of a change that increases your tax liability and the change did not result from a protest you filed), the deadline is not later than the 30th day after the notice of the change was delivered to you.

If you believe the CAD or ARB should have sent you a notice and did not, you may file a protest until the day before taxes become delinquent (usually February 1) or no later than the 125 day after the date you claim you received a tax bill from one or more of the taxing units that tax your property. The ARB decides whether it will hear your case based on evidence about whether a required notice was mailed to you.

Happy Mother's Day!

I made a funny card for my Mom!

I love Mother's Day! I was wondering how this lovely holiday for moms began, so I went to the library to do research to find out.
I searched web sites on the computer. I found beautiful books full of stories and pictures. To find out what I learned about Mother's Day read my clues below, then fill in the crossword puzzle.

1. Mother's Day is a time to honor a mother, _____ or even a special aunt.
2. Soon after the death of her mother (in May 1905), a woman named Anna Jarvis urged people to support the idea of a national _____ for moms.
3. Anna wanted people to show respect for _____ and to give thanks for all the work that mothers do for us.
4. She gave out her mother's favorite _____, the white carnation, a custom that spread to many states.
5. Her home _____ of West Virginia was the first (in 1912) to have an official Mother's Day celebration.
6. On May 9, 1914, U.S. President Woodrow Wilson declared the first _____ Mother's Day to honor mothers whose sons had died in war.
7. Mother's Day is celebrated on the second _____ in May (U.S., Canada).
8. A beautiful, historic building in West Virginia was named
The International Mother's Day Shrine and Museum.
They hold teas and programs to promote the _____ of mothers (and other women) to our country.
9. Businesses promote the _____ of cards, flowers, jewelry and other gifts for Mother's Day.
10. Although it is nice when children give a gift, it is even more special when they take the _____ to write a letter or to do something special with their moms.
11. Often families attend religious services, have picnics or do _____ get-togethers or calls.
12. Can you _____ a breakfast, write and decorate a card or plan an activity for your mom's special day?

Do You Know...?

Sometimes we wear
a white carnation to honor a mother who has died and a red or pink carnation for a mother who is still living.
