Buy tickets early for Wheeler ballgame

Bronco fans traveling to Wheeler this Friday, October 30, are advised that they will be required to purchase tickets at the Clarendon CISD Administration office this week.

Clarendon has been allotted 500 tickets for the game at Wheeler, and there will not be any tickets sold at the gate so purchase your tickets at Clarendon CISD. Everyone must have a ticket. Senior Citizens with passes will also need to come and get a game ticket at no charge, but you will be required to present the game ticket for entry on Friday night. If you need a Clarendon CISD Senior Citizen Pass, you may pick one up at the Superintendent's Office in the Administration/Technology Building.

Masks or face coverings are not required for entry at Wheeler but they are strongly encouraged. Make the trip to Wheeler to support the Broncos as they continue District play.

Admission prices will be $5 for adults and $3 for students.

2020 museum party to be held virtually

The Saints' Roost Museum Board of Directors will host their annual Christmas Benefit "COVID Style", virtually this year, via Facebook Live.

The Board is extremely disappointed the traditional dinner and dance is not possible and feels that health and safety are a priority.

The traditional Reverse Drawing will be held on Saturday, December 5, 2020, beginning at 6pm for a chance to win up to $5,000 prepaid credit card. Tickets will be drawn continuously down to the last five. Tickets are $50 and may be purchased from any Museum Board Member.

Seliger to hold town hall online Monday

State Senator Kel Seliger has set up a virtual town hall date for Donley County residents as he continues hosting his meetings for District 31 to discuss the upcoming 87th Legislature. In light of the coronavirus pandemic, town halls will be held virtually this year.

Donley County residents can visit with Sen. Seliger on Monday, November 2, from 9:00 to 10:00 a.m. Participants must register at www.kelseliger.com two days prior to the town hall of their respective county.

Voters heading to polls next Tuesday

Donley County voters will head to the polls next Tuesday, November 3, to decide several local races and make their voices heard in this year's US presidential election.

Locally, ballots will be cast for the Clarendon school board, the Clarendon College board, the Howardwick City Council, and the Donley County Tax Assessor/Collector's office.

Like reports all across America, interest is running high in this year's election. As of Tuesday morning, 933 people had already cast their ballots in Donley County. That total was 654 one week before Election

Day in 2016. The number of early votes so far this year is more than 63 percent of the total 1,480 votes cast in 2016.

Also this year, 349 new voters have been added to the rolls in Donley County, making a total of 2,325 people eligible to cast ballots.

Early voting continues through this Friday, October 30, by personal appearance at the Donley County Courthouse Annex for the General Election as well as the college and school elections. Howardwick ballots must be cast at City Hall there.

Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Election Day, and local ballots can be cast at the following locations: Box 101 – Clarendon College Bairfield Activity Center, Box 102 – Howardwick City Hall, Box 201 – Donley County Courthouse, Box 301 – Assembly of God Fellowship Hall, Box 303 – Hedley First Baptist Church, and Box 401 – Clarendon Church of Christ Family Life Center. Check your voter registration card to determine your precinct box number.

County voters will select the successor for Crump's position as the County Tax Assessor / Collector. Crump is retiring at the end of the year. Seeking her job are Republican Kristy Christopher and Democrat Tony Dale, and Deedra Keen is running as a write-in candidate.

Local voters will also help decide the next person to serve in the US House of Representatives for Texas District 13 when Congressman Mac Thornberry retires in January. On the ballot are Republican Ronny Jackson, Democrat Gus Trujillo, and Libertarian Jack B. Westbrook.

Three seats are up on the Clarendon College Board of Regents, and incumbents Darlene Spier and Carey Wann are on the ballot along with challengers Guy Ellis, Chris Matthews, and Debbie Thompson.

Clarendon CISD's Board of Trustees has two positions available this year. Incumbent Renee Mott is seeking re-election, and Kyle Davis and Chrisi Tucek are also running.

Howardwick has six people running for three city council seats. Aldermen Mary Grady and Marietta Baird are seeking re-election, and other candidates are Shelly Chavira, Terry Barnes, Jeremy Kindle, and Jada Murray.

For live local election results, follow facebook.com/TheEnterprise or @ClarendonTxNews on Twitter, and results will also be posted on ClarendonLive.com.

Voice of the Broncos

Mike Spier (second from left with his family) was honored for his service announced Clarendon High School football games for the 25 years before last Friday's game in Bronco Stadium. In addition to plaque that was presented to a Spier, an inscribed "Mike-rophone" stand will be permanently placed in the stadium's press box as a lasting tribute to the "voice of the Broncos."

Halloween events set for downtown

A Halloween fun-filled day of trick-or-treating, games, food, movies, and more is in store in Clarendon this Saturday, October 31.

Starting at 10 a.m. downtown, the Chamber of Commerce is organizing merchants and vendors who will be set up with trick-or-treating, a costume contest, food trucks, a vendor fair, face painting, and a scavenger hunt.

Burton Memorial Library will also be judging their scarecrow contest that day.

Local officials last week warned against traditional door-to-door trick or treating this year, but City Administrator David Dockery said the trunk or treat and other events planned for downtown was acceptable.

"I think when you look at school kids going door to door to potentially elderly residents, it would be preferable to have an organized trunk or treat where masks can be worn," Dockery said.

Saturday evening starting at 5:30 p.m., the Mulkey Theatre will be hosting a Trunk or Treat along with a costume contest, and concessions. There will be prizes for best costumes and best decorated vehicle.

Also at 5:30, the First United Methodist Church will also be hosting their annual trunk-or-treat in front of the church.

Howardwick will also host a trunk-or-treat and Frito pie feed at the McMorries Memorial Park Starting at 7 p.m.

Then at 7:30 p.m., the Mulkey Theatre will also have a free movie, Hocus Pocus, sponsored by Robertson Funeral Directors.

Local author's book looks at World War II vet's life

George U. Hubbard of Clarendon and his daughter, Elizabeth A. Hubbard, have released their latest book based on the World War II experience and writings of John R. Hubbard.

Fight On! World War II and Cold War Experiences of Lt. Commander John R. "Jack" Hubbard, USNR is a first person account - wrapped with historical accuracy - of a naval aviator's experiences during World War 2. Jack's experiences both on the ground and in the air continued into the Cold War.

Almost a century in the making, John R. "Jack" Hubbard practiced what he preached when he penned the segments of his life's story he considered most meaningful and most memorable. He told his students, colleagues, and anyone else who would listen that understanding what happened, why it happened, and to whom it happened was more important than rote memorization to be regurgitated then spewed forth on a standardized exam. As a history professor, Hubbard was deeply concerned at the amount of revisionist history increasingly being promulgated without any consideration of the relevant geopolitical, social, or economic issues leading up to the historical event in question. Therefore, he took pains to expound personalities, activities, and interpersonal relationships to help transport readers back in time so that they could "feel", "sense", "laugh", and "cry" vicariously.

Fight On! has been written in such a way that anyone can understand the evolution of naval aviation during the second world war. Jack takes you through the nuts and bolts of training through deployment to each duty station. Jack has you secretly watching the delivery of The Bomb climaxing with his assignment to fly support of the Enola Gay on her historic mission. Throughout the book, Jack describes his life away from home as well as those with whom he served and met along the way.

But life didn't end with the surrender of the Japanese. Like most of his fellow service members, Jack had to once again make his own life-changing decisions. Would he make a career in the Navy or would he return to civilian life in academia? His decision led him into the fringes of Cold War international intrigue, espionage, and general mischief. Some have dubbed Jack as the Forrest Gump of that era.

A native Texan who received his public education in Denton, Texas, then earned all of his degrees at The University of Texas, Jack Hubbard taught British History at the University of Texas, Louisiana State University, and Yale

Google is giggling

There are times when a good life is a good laugh, especially if you depend on the fine art of googling for your information.

Google gets the last laugh, probably far more often than we know. Include one letter more than needed to “Google” a subject turns research to clabber quicker than political candidates can call their opponents liars. (Seems like mere decades ago that such comments were tenderized, usually beginning with sentences like, “My worthy opponent deals loosely with the facts,” or maybe, “He is known to spend much of his time in the company of ‘terminological inexactitudes’.”)

I digress. Principal players in this piece are retired, eager to take to the road—any highway will do—after choosing for several months to “play it safe” in self-quarantine for whatever might loom as menacing beyond home and hearth.

Now retired—after serving three terms in the Texas Legislature and three presidential roles (Wayland, Hardin-Simmons, and Howard Payne Universities)—Dr. Lanny Hall and wife Carol now like to “traipse about,” as my old mother used to say of educated people. Ordinary people like her she described as “gadabouts,” usually limiting their “traipses” to nearby destinations....

the idle american
by don newbury

When “cabin fever” peaked recently, the Halls decided to drive to scenic Colorado, where foliage is so rich in color that some artists make impromptu stops, set up canvases, grab easels and flourish paint brushes.

Now married 52 years, the Halls finish each other’s sentences and know which sing-along tunes come next. Give one of ‘em a first name, and the spouse rattles off the last name.

Motoring home, they quickly agreed that sandwiches from the ever-popular Slaton Bakery would be a wonderful end-of-trip treat. Lanny suggested that she “Google” to get the bakery’s phone number, then place an order for a ham and cheese sandwich, and her favorite, a Slaton Bakery hamburger. They’d arrive in Slaton in some 30 minutes....

Seconds later, she was greeted by a friendly voice at the bakery who indicated the order would be ready upon their arrival.

Best-laid plans panned out; they were parked in front of the bakery exactly 30 minutes later.

Bummer, they thought upon discovering the front door was locked. Back in the car, Lanny suggested that Carol hit re-dial. The same man answered, assuring her that the order was ready.

But why was their front door locked?...

Further, she indicated they were parked immediately in front of the bakery. “Ma’am, I just came through the front door, and there’s no car in front,” said the baker.

In the meantime, steps were re-traced, beginning with Lanny’s insistence that the West Texas town in Texas is spelled “S-I-l-a-t-o-n.” Because she had Googled “S-l-a-y-t-o-n Bakery,” the had gotten the phone number of the Slaton Bakery in Slayton, Minnesota, more than a thousand miles away.

Suffice it to say that at end of day, the baker up north had a couple of extra sandwiches to eat, one way or another. (Halls’ note-to-selves: The Slaton Bakery they know and love is closed Mondays.)...

Some people embrace advancing technology. Others act as if they think it’ll go away if avoided long enough.

My friend Ronnie Caram is in the “others” group. And he was more than a little upset recently upon losing his beloved flip phone.

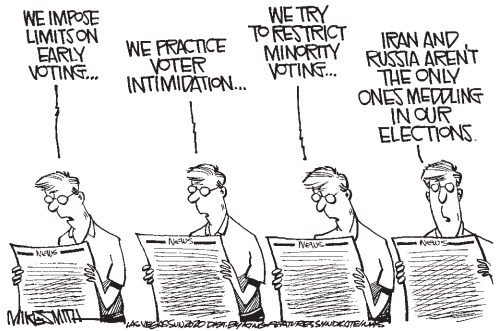

He was sure that wife Linda—longest-tenured AT&T employee in Texas with more than a half-century of service—could find a “new” flip phone somewhere out there...

She claimed to give it the “old college try,” But, there were none to be had. She found an archaic model, only a few “baby steps” ahead of the flip phone. He growled, “I’m going to throw it into the first body of water I see.”

Their 44-year marriage was “saved by the bell,” the one ringing on Linda’s smartphone. One persistent store manager luckily found ONE flip phone in the storeroom.

Linda heaped praise, thanking the manager for his diligence. He “struck a nerve,” though, when he responded, “Anything for Ma Bell.”...

A memorable lesson in humility

By George U. Hubbard

High school football has always been big in Texas, and the city of Temple was second to none in its enthusiasm for the sport. Their high school football teams were, and still are, powerhouses. Now if you have a powerful football team, you can expect to have some big, powerful players who are community heroes. But back in the early 1900s, two particular players on the Temple High School football team received a memorable lesson in humility.

Superintendent L.C. Proctor believed in order and discipline, and his enforcement of these principles rubbed against the grain of some of Temple’s football players. As local hometown heroes, they felt that Superintendent Proctor should be more lenient with them and their antics. Frank and John were especially resentful of Proctor’s “no nonsense” policies.

“One of these days we’ll get him off by himself, and we’ll beat the hell out of him,” they would boast to the other players.

So when word got back to Proctor one day that two of the huskier players were vowing to “beat the hell out of him,” he took up the challenge without hesitation.

Calling Frank and John into his office, Proctor invited them to have a seat. Then without another word, Proctor, who was a former wrestler as well as an educator, locked the office door from the inside, went to the window and threw the key out, pushed his desk against the wall, and then took off his shirt, exposing a thick neck, a hairy chest, and lots of muscle. He circled the room as a wrestler might do, then crouching in front of the boys he challenged them to make good their boasting.

“OK, guys. I understand that you two are telling people that you are going to beat the hell out of me. Which one of you wants to go first?”

Dumbfounded and chagrined, Frank and John sat there, unable to say a word. “The door is locked, the key is gone, and we won’t be interrupted.

Maybe you both want to take me on at the same time,” Proctor further challenged.

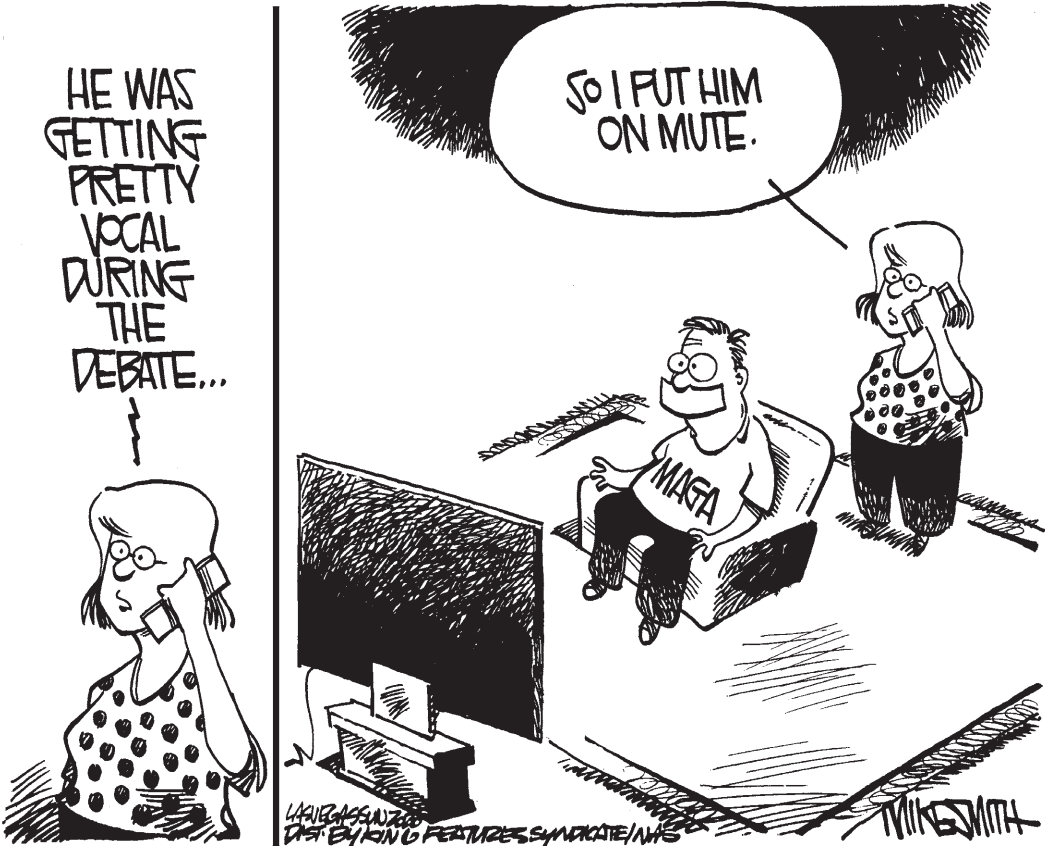

Needless to say, Frank and John continued in silence as they felt themselves becoming weaker and more limp by the minute.

“Now, you watch that wind-blowing boastfulness that’s pouring out from a bragger’s mouth,” Proctor admonished. He then delivered a brief but powerful lecture which the boys never forgot.

Having made his point, Superintendent Proctor then picked up the phone and asked the school principal to come open the door and take the boys back to class.

Frank and John continued as students and as football players, and they now had the utmost respect for their superintendent and his discipline. They became numbered among his staunchest supporters.

George U. Hubbard is a resident of Clarendon, Texas.

A passion for running marathons

Miles Benevich of San Antonio tries to run an ultra marathon once a month. Recently he ran a 100-kilometer race (62 miles) in the Colorado Rockies.

“That was by far my slowest run. They gave us 24 hours to complete it and I finished a little over 20 hours. I started at 3:15 in the morning and finished at midnight, so there was a lot of running in the dark with just my headlight to show the way. It was exhausting because of the elevation and I thought I might come in last, but there were other runners behind me.”

He saw some wildlife. “I took some pictures. I have a page on Facebook called Doing the Miles. I put some photos on it of the moose that I saw in the mountains.”

Once he circled San Antonio on foot.

“I ran 100 miles around Loop 1604. That was my largest run so far. It took me a good 25 hours to complete that run.”

His goal is to run 3,000 miles

this year. He started running just 3 years ago.

“I smoked cigarettes all my life and spent a lot of time not doing anything. This really is a new adventure for me. I just decided to get my life and health together. Not that I had low self-esteem or anything, but I just got tired of seeing that person in the mirror and decided to make some changes. They really have seemed to take me to another place and I just enjoy doing it. I have had so many benefits from it and have met some really fantastic people along the way.”

Miles makes his living as a funeral director and when he doesn’t have business or family obligations, he takes a run. An app on his phone records his running.

stories of texas
by tumbleweed smith

“It records all my runs and breaks down all the activities and shows the routes that I run every day. It’s just a simple app available to runners.”

Sometimes he runs obstacle courses.

“Every so often, maybe a half mile or mile, there’s an obstacle. It might be monkey bars or swinging on a rope or doing some sort of climb, maybe swimming through some freezing cold water, just some little obstacles to break up the run.”

Some obstacle courses feature electrical shocks.

“They look like you’re running through a long hallway or a tunnel, but hanging down from the ceiling are electrical wires. I’m not sure how much voltage they carry but the first one I ran across threw me to the ground.”

Miles says anyone can start a running program. It just takes determination and confidence. He has lost 20 pounds since he started running.

Three requests of Donley voters

I have three requests to make of locally registered voters:

Vote

Our Constitutional Republic does not function well without the active participation of its citizenry. Legislators have difficulty discerning the will of the people when large numbers opt out of the voting process and fail to make their opinions clear. If you have strong feelings about policy issues, make that known - send your message to Washington, DC, by exercising your right to vote!

Vote Early

By voting early you will ensure that your vote is cast. If you wait until Election Day, you might wake up feeling ill, or your car won’t start, or some other event intrudes and prevents you from getting to the poll. Secondly, while all of the polling places will employ safety protocols to protect you and the poll workers from Coronavirus, the Annex workers conducting the early voting have been doing this for two weeks now and they’re very good at it. Additionally, the Annex set-up is very conducive to social distancing. The crowds may be large on Election Day and this could strain some of the protocols. By voting early you can ensure that all the safety measures will be operating as intended. Early voting will continue through October 30.

Vote Republican

This election offers a stark contrast between two very different visions for America.

The Democratic platform calls for higher taxes and increased regulation, which will stifle the economy. It calls for greater control over your health care choices. It is weak on law and order and national defense. These policies have but two objectives: to exert control over you, and to make you dependent upon government.

The Republican platform instead champions individual liberty. It calls for a lower tax burden and reduced government regulations to unleash the economy and create opportunities for all. A recognition of your God-given and constitutional freedoms. A high value placed on law and order and a strong military to ensure peace. In short, Republicans believe in the power of the individual, not the State. We believe that you know what is best for you, not some faceless bureaucrat.

I would urge you to consider one question whenever you evaluate a political party platform: do these proposals enhance, or restrict, my freedoms and liberties? I am confident that when judged against this standard, it is clear that a vote for Republican Party candidates is a vote against oppression and a vote for a strong, prosperous America that will continue to respect the constitution and your individual rights.

City denies two changes to new aquatic center

The Clarendon City Council denied two change orders for the new aquatic center during its regular meeting October 8.

City Administrator David Dockery said the council felt the change orders totaling almost $15,000 and dealing with an accessible sidewalk and a control for the spray ground area were too expensive. The city is seeking more cost effective solutions to those needs, he said.

In his administrator's report, Dockery said the aquatic center is now 93 percent complete and the USDA water infrastructure project is 90 percent complete. He also reported continuing success with the code compliance issues and said that one month into the city's new sanitation contract with Diversified Waste, City Hall has received very few complaints. Dockery also reported Emzy Harris as a new employee in the city's street department.

In other city business, the council confirmed The Clarendon Enterprise as the newspaper of record for public notices for the city and declared two city vehicles as "surplus" to be sold with other surplus equipment.

Don't forget to get out vote

We have been praying for rain and the good Lord listened, but I am not sure we were all prepared for what He sent – freezing rain and snow!. I am anxious to see how much moisture we receive but it is a blessing, thank you Jesus.

November 3, 2020, is one of the most important days in the history of our country, the day we, the American people, elect our president and vice president. Wait a minute; is that right? Actually, those votes are telling members of the Electoral College who to vote for by following Article 11, Section 1, Clause 2 of the United States Constitution. The Electoral College is a group of electors who meets every four years for the sole purpose of electing the President and Vice President of the United States. It consists of 538 electors and an absolute majority of 270 or more is required to win the election.

Each state legislature is to determine how electors for that state will be chosen. In Texas they are chosen at the Republican and Democratic State Conventions, each state has the same number electors as members of the federal legislature; 38 for the state of Texas with the Supreme Court ruling in 2020 each state would be compelled to follow the “winner-take-all” rule. On the 1st Monday past the 2nd Wednesday of December, this year the 14th, members of the Electoral College will meet in their respective State Capitol to cast votes.

Results will be counted by Congress and tabulated the first week of January. The Electoral College is very complicated to a lay-person like myself, but I can see it is not easily manipulated and although it is not perfect has worked for over 175 years and unless you can come up with a better plan, don't knock it.

Saturday, October 31, will be a big day in Donley County with lots of fun for everyone. The City of Howardwick VFD will sponsor Trunk or Treat at McMorries Memorial Park beginning at 7 p.m. where they will also sell Frito Pies. Trunk or Treat will be much safer for your children instead of going door-to-door. Search for “Halloween in Clarendon” on Facebook.

Just a reminder, Sunday, November 1, is the end of Daylight Saving Time for 2020. This is the day we “fall back” one hour. No excuse for being late for work or church that morning.

Please pray for our country and leaders, the sick of our community, and a healing across our land. God Bless America.

Gift leads to video game competition

Last Friday was my Dad's birthday, and we threw him a party with our family. We made burgers, homemade ice cream, and we got a Bundt cake. I also made a fire in my fire pit outside and it was needed because it was very cold on Friday.

A little bit into the party we decided it was time to show my dad his present, which was a cool arcade machine that is like a new form of arcade machine that has multiple games on it. The games on the one we got are Galaga and then six other types of Pac-Man! I think it is really fun to play and so does my dad.

Drive-Through Day of Remembrance Celebration

Former Pantex Plant workers are invited to attend the drive-through National Day of Remembrance Celebration hosted by Nuclear Care Partners. Commemorative goodie bags will be distributed at the drive-through celebration to honor the memory, legacy, and contribution of our nation's nuclear weapons workers.

October 30, 2020 marks the 12th anniversary of the National

Day of Remembrance for Nuclear Weapons Workers (NDOR). Here at Nuclear Care Partners, we humbly honor the hundreds of thousands of men and women who tirelessly served in our nation's nuclear weapons complex and who made many sacrifices, often in the way of their health, to protect our country by strengthening and maintaining its nuclear defense.

This year's celebration will be

At the moment, we are in a competition to see who can get the highest score. I had a lot of fun this weekend, and I'd like to say happy birthday to my dad.

Also, this Saturday I would like to encourage my readers to bring their kids to the Mulkey's trunk-or-treat at 5:30 and then there will be a free movie called Hocus Pocus at 7:30!

Obituaries

Tubbs

Earl Wayne Tubbs, 78, passed away on October 20, 2020 at his home in Clarendon surrounded by his family.

Tubbs

A memorial service was held on Saturday, October 24, 2020, at the First United Methodist Church of Clarendon with pastor Stephanía Gilkey officiating along with Kindred Hospice Chaplin Randy Srader. Arrangements are under the direction of Robertson Funeral Directors of Clarendon.

Wayne was born January 2,

1942, in Carrizozo, New Mexico to Garvis Wayne and Earlena Berry Tubbs. He married Patsy Ann Sharp on December 9, 1961.

Wayne worked 30 years for El Paso Natural Gas Company, first as a pipeline welder and eventually as a district superintendent. He repaired and refurbished antique furniture after his retirement and was affectionately known by his wife Patsy as the “Chair-man of Clarendon.” He was an avid carpenter, helper, father, grandfather, great-grandfather and friend.

He served on the Donley County Hospital District Board for several years. He was also a long-time member of the First United Methodist Church of Clarendon and loved attending Sunday School and bible studies.

Wayne prided himself as a family man and recently became a great-grandfather to his namesake Grady Wayne Grotegut, who he nicknamed “Wee Boy.” He cared for many other children in the community, among them Jayde and Braxton Gribble and Kase and Kinze Zongker.

He was preceded in death by his parents Garvis Wayne and Earlena Berry Tubbs, his brother Garvis Earl Tubbs, and his granddaughter JeanAnn Tubbs.

He is survived by his wife, Patsy Tubbs, his son Laban Tubbs and wife Jennifer of Clarendon, his daughter Tonya Newton and husband Clay of Albuquerque, New Mexico, his grandson Ty Tubbs of Clarendon, his granddaughter Ashlyn Grotegut and husband Parker of Gruver, and his great-grandson Grady Wayne Grotegut (Wee Boy).

In lieu of flowers, the family requests memorials be sent to the First United Methodist Church of Clarendon or Kindred Hospice.

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you’ll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here’s How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Broncos lose to Wellington

By Sandy Anderberg

Things did not go the Broncos' way at home against Wellington last Friday night as the Broncos suffered a 22-42 loss to the Rockets.

The loss put the Broncos at 1-1 in District play and 6-2 overall.

The Broncos were able to gain 238 total yards with Quarterback Brock Hatley posting 117 yards of those through the air. Hatley threw touchdown strikes to Jmaury Davis (a 17-yard catch), Lamarcus Peniger, and also scored six of his own.

Qua Brown caught pass for a 30-yard pass, Sylvester Ballard racked up 10 yards on one catch, and Jordan Evans picked up one yard.

The Broncos had a little success on the ground but struggled to put points on the board. Davis carried eight time for 36 yards, and Peniger ran the ball nine times for 37 yards. Ballard ran 11 times for 30 yards, Evans collected 12 yards on five carries, and Hatley ran it six yards on two carries and one touchdown.

Davis was all over the field on defense and posted 12 tackles in the game. Hatley and Rhett Caison each had seven tackles with Robert McGuire grabbing six. Aiden Caudle, Ballard, and Q. Brown each finished with five tackles.

The Broncos will be on the road to Wheeler this Friday, October 30, beginning at 7 p.m.

CJH Colts fall to Wellington

The Clarendon Junior High Colts struggled against a strong Wellington team on the road last Thursday night and fell short of getting the win.

The Wellington team was big and strong and caused problems for the Colt team.

"It was a tough game for our Junior High kids last Thursday," coach Bostin Hudson said. "Wellington's eighth grade team was the one of the biggest eighth grade teams I think I've ever seen. We moved the ball on them at times, but we had some turnovers that were costly. Wellington had some really good running backs that we had a hard time with. It was just one of those games where you can't make any mistakes and unfortunately, we just made too many. I think our kids will learn from it and we will be better going forward."

The Colts will take on Wheeler Thursday night in their last home game beginning at 5 p.m.

Whew!

Now I've got to figure out my costume!

This year,
Halloween may be a little different,
but that's okay!

Happy Halloween!

I've just finished carving my jack-o'-lantern. I'm going to use a battery-operated light in it.

Have

fun whatever your family

chooses to do! We're making orange popcorn balls.

It is the season of costume making, witches and bats in flight, spooky parties and favorite candy treats. All of this fun, fun, fun fills my mind, but I also know that it's important to follow a few safety rules while celebrating.

University before adding university administration to his teaching responsibilities at Sophie Newcomb College (Tulane). He left Sophie Newcomb when he accepted a position with the State Department to serve as USAID’s chief educational advisor in India. Hubbard ended his academic career at the University of Southern California (USC) where he served as the university’s eighth president during the turbulent decade of the 70s, and where he also taught British History until shortly before his death in 2011. An avid sports enthusiast, Hubbard is well known as the colorful president of USC who cost the Trojans 15 yards during the 1978 USC vs U-Hawaii football game for un-sportsman-like conduct. He served as U.S. Ambassador to India at the end of President Ronald Reagan’s term of office.

Amazon ranked Fight On! World War II and Cold War Experiences of Lt. Commander John R. “Jack” Hubbard, USNR as its # 1 New Release* in Aviation History, 1950s History of the U.S., History of India, and Historiography. The book is available in both print and e-book formats. Both print and e-books can be purchased from Amazon, other online stores, and from ehubbard@punaluudata.com. For more information about the book or the lesson plans that have been created for middle and high school teachers, contact Elizabeth Hubbard at ehubbard@punaluudata.com or via text at 940-297-9347.

George Underwood Hubbard lives in Clarendon, Texas, and spent his life as an educator in the fields of computer science and mathematics. After completing his tour of duty in the United States Army during the Korean War, George taught junior high school mathematics briefly before being recruited by corporate America at the dawn of the computer age. IBM lured him away from Lockheed, but after 32 years teaching and training both IBM employees and clients, he retired to focus on his true passions – historical writing and academia. He retired from Texas Woman’s University where he taught statistics.

George holds a PhD from the University of North Texas, and MS – Statistics from Stanford University, and an MS and BS from The University of Texas. He is the author of numerous magazine and journal articles and the following books: Computer-Assisted Data Base Design; IMS (DL/I) Data Base Organization and Performance; The Humor and Drama of Early Texas; Which End of A Buffalo Gets Up First?; The Last Man to Die by Creek Law; Images of America Krum; and When the Saints Came Marching In.
