Lions Club to honor all first responders

The Clarendon Lions Club is inviting all Donley County first responders and their families to a free hamburger feed this Friday, March 5, at the Lions Hall.

The event co-hosted by Lions District 2-T1 is being held to honor and thank all local first responders for all they do for the community. Those planning to attend are asked to call the Enterprise or respond to the Facebook event so planners can prepare accordingly.

For more information, call the Enterprise at 874-2259.

Texans urged to fill out disaster survey

Texans are urged to fill out the Texas Division of Emergency Management's State of Texas Assessment Tool to help state and emergency management officials identify damages that occurred during the recent winter storm.

FEMA has asked the state of Texas for additional information regarding the amount of damage in the counties that have yet to be declared, and TDEM will continue to present that information until all Texas counties that qualify for federal assistance receive the assistance they need.

Texans are also encouraged to pass this survey on to family, friends and organizations who live and operate in counties not currently declared for federal assistance. The survey can be found at www.TDEM.texas.gov/warm.

Texans who live in current disaster-declared counties should apply for disaster assistance at disasterassistance.gov.

SWCD selling trees, shrubs thru Mar. 19

Spring is just around the corner and that means it's time to think trees. The Donley County Soil & Water Conservation District will be selling a wide variety of small, medium and large sized evergreens, deciduous shade, shrubs, fruit trees and grasses.

Place your orders by phone only by March 19, 2021. The trees should be delivered to us late March or early April, depending on the weather. We will also have extra trees to be sold on a first come first serve basis at that time.

For more information, contact the Donley County Soil & Water Conservation District at 806-874-3561, extension 3.

Wreaths exhibit coming to Borger

Wreaths Across America (WAA) has announced that its Mobile Education Exhibit (MEE) tour will be in Borger on Saturday, March 20, 2021.

The Josiah Barlett Chapter, DAR and the American Legion Post 671 will play host to the Mobile Education Exhibit for a visit from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at 1401 W. Wilson Street.

Broncos earn two victories

By Sandy Anderberg

Hard-fought games bring out the best in a team and the Clarendon Broncos proved that Friday night with a huge Regional Quarterfinal win over Floydada in Canyon.

The 62-52 win puts them in the Regional Semi-Final Round this week. The Broncos were scheduled to play Christoval at Slaton on March 2. Game results will be posted on ClarendonLive.com and Facebook.com/TheEnterprise.

On Friday, the two fairly evenly matched teams went toe-to-toe in the opening eight minutes of the game and ended with the Broncos up one point. It looked like it might stay that way through halftime until the Broncos found an offensive edge with just a little time on the clock before the half. They were able to score six unanswered points that results in a big momentum boost going into the locker room.

Another scoring run in the third allowed the Broncos the cushion they needed to all but secure the win. Floydada fought hard, but too many turnovers cost them the game. Fighting foul trouble, the Broncos were able to stay solid on both ends to get the win.

Jmaury Davis led the way with 22 points and Lamarus Peniger was right behind him with 21. Jordan Herndon added seven, Cayden D'Costa had five, Sylvester Ballard helped with four, and Donovan Thompson had three.

Earlier last week, the Broncos played Farwell at Vega and claimed the area championship with a victory of 58-49.

The Clarendon Broncos won the Regional Quarterfinal trophy (top photo) last Friday with the 62-52 defeat of Floydada. Earlier last week, the Broncos beat Farwell (bottom photo) 58-49 to win the Area title. For playoff updates, visit ClarendonLive.com and Facebook.com/TheEnterprise.

State shot clinic to be here Friday

The state health department will host a COVID-19 vaccination clinic at the Clarendon College Bairfield Activity Center Friday, March 5; and local residents are asked to sign up now for an appointment.

Donley County Judge John Howard, MD, said the state is bringing 500 doses of the Moderna vaccine and will administer the shots from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The primary purpose of the clinic is to give as many people as possible the first dose of the two-step vaccination. A second clinic will be held on April 6 to administer the second dose, Howard said.

However, if a person has already received the first round of the Moderna vaccine, they can get the second dose during the March 5 clinic. State officials request those needing the second dose schedule as late in the day as possible to allow the most people to get the first round of the vaccine.

Those wishing to receive the vaccination must pre-register online for a specific timeslot at the following link: <https://bit.ly/2Pol3el> or by viewing this article at ClarendonLive.com. Residents without Internet access can go by the Burton Memorial Library for assistance signing up.

The clinic is for people age 18 and older with priority given to residents in Phases 1A and 1B as explained at this link along with other important information: <https://bit.ly/3sErJYJ>

The state personnel will be staying over in Clarendon Friday night and will hold another vaccination clinic in Memphis the next day, Howard said. If a local resident cannot make the Friday clinic in Clarendon, they might consider trying to go the Memphis site. Details on the Memphis clinic were not available at press time.

The arrival of the vaccination clinic comes as the number of active COVID-19 infections has fallen off in Donley County.

The Clarendon Family Medical Center reported Monday that it had no new positives at all last week, and there are currently no active cases in the clinic's care. This again does not include information on people who have may have tested at facilities outside the county.

Updated numbers from the state list Donley County as having 13 fatalities from COVID-19 since the pandemic began.

District court hears ten pleas here

The district court heard ten pleas when it met in Clarendon via the internet-based meeting app Zoom February 16 and 25.

District Attorney Luke Inman, along with Assistant District Attorney Harley Caudle, prosecuted the case for the State of Texas, with the Honorable Judge Stuart Messer presiding.

Six cases were we heard on February 16.

Arturo Obadiah Huerta, 21, of White Deer, was placed on four separate, five-year probation cases for four different counts of the second degree felony offense of possession with intent to promote child pornography. Huerta was arrested by Carson County Chief Deputy J.C. Blackburn on June 4, 2020.

Huerta was also ordered to pay a $5,000 fine to Carson County, $1,360 in total court costs and complete 300 hours of community service. If his probation is revoked, Huerta faces up to 20 years in prison on each count, with the Court having the discretion to order the prison sentences to be served consecutively.

Mercedes Ray McIntosh, 35, Memphis, was placed on six years' probation for the second degree felony offense of engaging in organized criminal activity. McIntosh was arrested by Memphis Police Chief Tim Flaxington on January 20.

McIntosh was also ordered to pay a $6,000 fine to Hall County, $1,323.51 in restitution, $305 in court costs and complete 300 hours of community service. If her probation is revoked, McIntosh faces up to 20 years in prison.

Jeremy Lee Brown-Brannon, 29, Childress, was placed on four years' probation for the second degree felony offense of burglary of a habitation. Brown-Brannon was arrested by Childress Police Officer James Palmitier on January 10.

Brown-Brannon was also ordered to pay a $4,000 fine to Childress County, $500 in restitution, $340 in court costs and complete 300 hours of community service. If his probation is revoked, Brown-Brannon faces up to 20 years in prison.

Maria Benita Rios, 56 from Salt Lake City, Utah, was placed on three years' probation for the third degree felony offense of possession of a controlled substance. Rios was arrested by Childress Police Officer Leroy Rodriguez on July 28, 2020.

Rios was also ordered to pay a $3,000 fine to Childress County, $180 in restitution, $340 in court costs and complete 200 hours of community service. If her probation is revoked, Rios faces up to 10 years in prison.

Thomas Henry Ciccil, 78 from Silver Point, Tenn., was placed on two years' probation for the class A misdemeanor offense of unlawful use of a criminal instrument. Ciccil was arrested in Hall County by 100th District Attorney's Office Investigator Coy Teichelman on April 18, 2019.

Ciccil was also ordered to pay a $4,000 fine to Hall County, $309 in court costs, $410 drug lab restitution and complete 100 hours of community service. If his probation is revoked, Ciccil faces up to one years in the Hall County Jail.

Shelby Wayne Milliman Garrett, 28 of Shawnee, Okla., was sentenced to eight months in the Carson County Jail for the class A misdemeanor offense of possession of a controlled substance.

Following his arrest on May 20, 2019, Garrett was initially placed on probation for three years on August 6, 2019. The State filed a motion

Considering congressional free speech

As the US House of Representatives voted recently to strip Marjorie Taylor Greene of all her committee assignments, I was reminded of two sections of the Constitution. The first is Article 1, Section 5, which reads, “Each House may determine the Rules of its Proceedings, punish its Members for disorderly Behavior, and, with the Concurrence of two thirds, expel a Member.” Clearly the Constitution gives the House the power to punish its own members for wrongdoing. Yet, at the same time, I also cannot help thinking of the First Amendment, which states, “Congress shall make no law...abridging the freedom of speech.”

Coming to terms with these two sections can be difficult. If members of one party say something that members of the opposite party find extremely offensive, should the opposite party be able to censure someone from the first party? What rights to freedom of speech are given to members of Congress and what have we seen historically?

Anyone who has ever taken a class from me has at least once heard me rant against the misunderstanding of freedom of speech. That clause of the First Amendment does one thing and one thing only; it protects you from government censorship and perhaps prosecution. It does not protect you from the consequences of your words. For politicians it could cost you an election, but not your freedom. You can say that Trump is a dictator or that Biden is senile, and government officials will not come kick down your door and take you away.

However, if you are in your workplace and rant about how your bosses are tyrants or senile, you may be fired. The First Amendment does not protect that speech. Not even all political speech is protected. If you wear a shirt that says “Make America Great Again” or “Black Lives Matter” at a workplace that has a policy against wearing political slogans, you can be fired. This is not a First Amendment issue.

This is the most confused amendment in the Bill of Rights. The Founders did not intend to remove people’s responsibility for their actions or speech. They wanted to protect the people’s right to say what they thought, even peacefully protest the actions of their government. When passed, the Bill of Rights only applied to federal cases, not state ones, so, before the 1920s, the Bill of Rights actually had little effect on most people’s lives. Yet today, “freedom of speech” is thrown around like some sort of weapon every time anyone is criticized for their words.

Where I am torn is that it seems like the one place where there truly should be freedom of speech is in the Congress. The amendment literally says, “Congress shall make no law...abridging the freedom of speech,” yet is that not what is happening? Please understand that I am no way supporting the comments made by Rep. Green. What I am saying is the Constitution does not give freedom of speech only to statements we agree with or only for intelligent comments. No, it’s there for the exact opposite, for the outlandish and controversial things. I said I was torn. It does seem like there should be a line that our elected representatives do not cross. But the Constitution does not say that either. The courts have weighed in on this and have deemed some speech is not protected, such as incitement to lawless action or child pornography, but conspiracy theories are not on the list. Maybe, especially with the House, it should be up to the voters if they think she has gone too far in the next election.

Having said that, there is precedence. In 2019 Republicans removed one of their own, Rep. Steve King of Iowa, from committees after he questioned why “white supremacy” was offensive. Even bigger was the 1954 censure of the junior Senator from Wisconsin Joseph McCarthy. McCarthy took advantage of American’s fear of communism to make himself powerful. During committee hearings he accused people of being communists without evidence to the point that it ruined their careers and lives. After four years, he finally fell when he questioned the U.S. Army after they refused to defer one of his staff from the draft. With his fall from grace, the Senate voted 67-22 to condemn his actions and strip him of key committee membership.

There is one key difference between Steve King, Joe McCarthy, and Marjorie Taylor Greene. In the cases of King and McCarthy, Republicans punished their own as is tradition. With the Greene case, the Republicans condemned her comments, yet the Democrats (now the majority party), along with only 11 Republicans, did not feel the punishment was strong enough and stripped her of committee assignments. It is highly irregular to interfere with committee assignments made by each party. Though her comments were inappropriate and have been disproved in the courts, it might just be a slippery slope for the opposing party to start the practice of punishing their opponents for comments made, especially ones they made earlier in their lives. Some Republicans have even talked about retribution if they take over in 2022. They point to racist and violent comments made by Democratic legislators. Is this really how we want Congress to spend their time?

Free democratic governments are hard. There is a reason historically there have not been that many successful ones. Freedom of speech is one of the things necessary for a free government. Yet freedom of speech means people will say things you despise. Rep. Green was elected by her state because of who she is. If her constituents deem her unfit, they are not bound by the First Amendment and have the opportunity to make changes next year.

March 2 is not just another day

There’s not much hoopla, no organized statewide celebration but March 2nd, 1836, is an important day in the history of Texas. That’s the day Texas became a republic and declared its independence from Mexico. It was a long time coming.

In 1820 Moses Austin asked the Spanish government in Mexico for permission to settle in Texas. He was granted land, but Austin died soon thereafter and his son, Stephen F. Austin, took over the project. In 1821, Mexico declared its independence from Spain and Austin negotiated a contract with the new Mexican government to allow him to bring 300 families to the undeveloped area. Others joined in the settlement and soon the Mexican settlers were in the minority. Mexico was not pleased with this situation and passed laws to restrict the flow of immigrants to the new land.

In 1833 Austin went to Mexico seeking statehood for Texas within Mexico but was sent to prison. He was released in 1835, the year Mexican dictator Santa Anna demanded that citizens of Gonzales return a cannon that had been used to defend against Indian attack. When Mexican troops were sent to retrieve the cannon, Gonzales residents fired it at them while yelling, “Come and take it.” That became known as the first battle of the Texas Revolution.

Texas formed an army under Sam Houston and established a provisional government. A convention of Texans met at Washington on the Brazos with the purpose of drafting a constitution and declaring independence from Mexico. In December of 1835 the Texas Army drove Mexican troops out of Sam Antonio. In January of 1836 Santa Anna’s Army began its assault on the Alamo. The delegates in Washington on the stories of texas

by tumbleweed smith

Brazos voted in the Declaration of Independence on March 2nd during the siege on the Alamo.

The Alamo battle was fierce. Santa Anna attacked with more than 3,000 soldiers. The Texans were sorely outnumbered with less than 200 troops. For 12 days the former mission was bombarded by cannon and rifle fire. Colonel William Travis smuggled out a message to Texans that read, “I shall never surrender or retreat. Victory or death.” The Mexicans claimed victory over the Alamo defenders on March 6, 1836.

Six weeks later, General Sam Houston’s Army surprised Santa Anna’s troops at San Jacinto with shouts of “Remember the Alamo.” The Texans defeated the Mexican troops and captured Santa Anna. The Mexican dictator withdrew his troops south of the Rio Grande and recognized Texas as a republic. For nearly ten years Texas existed as a separate country with Houston as its first president. In 1845 Texas joined the union as the 28th state.

Soapy Smith: a con man deluxe

Where wealth exists, con men also exist, and throughout the Rocky Mountain region in the late 1800s, Jefferson Randolph “Soapy” Smith is generally regarded to have been the best of them all. Operating in Denver, Leadville, and Creede as well as in many places outside of Colorado, Soapy’s modus operandi was without flaw. Widows, orphans, and local churches, to whom he contributed openly, loved him. Politicians and law enforcement officials, to whom he contributed secretly, needed him. Whenever his welcome ran out in one area, he moved on and endeared himself to the people of a new area.

For a few years in the 1890s, Soapy spent time in the mining community of Creede, Colorado. In the spring of 1892, a Creede gambler named Bob Fitzsimmons came up with a money making scheme that looked good to Soapy. Ordering a concrete embodiment of a very large man to be built and shipped from Denver, Fitzsimmons had the body buried secretly outside of Creede. He then arranged for a confederate to “discover” the body which they brought in and put on display in the Vaughn Hotel. Spectators could view the discovery for twenty-five cents. Speculation had it that it was the body of one of General Fremont’s soldiers. People referred to the body as Colonel Stone.

Soapy Smith thought that Fitzsimmons was not realizing the full potential of such an exhibition, so he asked for partnership in the venture. When Fitzsimmons denied the request, Soapy did the only other thing he could do. One night, he stole the body and moved it to his own place of business. He installed shaded coal-oil lamps to give the place an eerie atmosphere, and Colonel Stone became a pre-historic monster. Soapy gave lectures on the habits of men

tales of the old west
by george u. hubbard

since the days of creation, and he quoted the Biblical passage (Genesis 6:4) that “there were giants in the earth in those days.” Visitors came by the hundreds to see the monster.

In the meantime, Fitzsimmons was trying to get the body back. But Soapy’s men kept it closely guarded. Claiming the theft of valuable property, Fitzsimmons appealed to the law office of Engley & Gavin for help, and he placed a retainer of $100 into the hands of one of the law clerks. Not to be outdone, Soapy placed $100 into the hands of the same law clerk. When the law firm’s senior partners realized that they were representing both sides at the same time, they summoned Fitzsimmons and Smith and suggested that the two men arrange a compromise. Although the law would have sided with Fitzsimmons, he knew that Soapy could expose the hoax, so the two shook hands and became partners.

Volunteers learn about dog safety

By Mary Lynn

On Tuesday, February 23, Tami Wadell presented training program for senior citizen volunteers. The program, “Prevention and Treatment of Dog Bite,” was well attended.

An unfortunate hazard to delivering meals is confronting man’s best friend. Often the bites and scratches are caused by over affectionate pups, but occasionally dogs become aggressive and dangerous.

In a delightful presentation, Tami spoke about how to identify a possibly aggressive and unpredictable dog, learning signs of threat; and protecting yourself from serious injury in the event you are attacked. It is common for two people to deliver meals, and having another person present can interrupt an attack and get help. First aid is immediately necessary, and call an ambulance for an open bite.

In my last article, I state that the dining room would open on March 15. Actually, we opened on February 15. My apologies for the mistake.

On March 15, we do plan to begin extending hours to 4 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays. We hope to have those who would to come play dominoes or other games. Our Donley County Senior Citizens Center is a safe place for activity. Come see what is going on!

Here’s How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Vaccine clinic to be held at CC

My Mama had a saying about March, “In like a lion, out like a lamb.” Today, we have clouds and a north wind so I wonder if this is a “lion” kind of day.

As she explained, a “lion” day meant we would have storms at the beginning of the month with clear weather by the end. If it were a “lamb” kind of month, it would be clear at the beginning and stormy at the end. Some of the worst snow storms I have seen in Donley County have been in March, so keep your water, blanket, and peanut butter in your car for at least another month.

We are reaching the anniversary stage of COVID-19. Last year at this time, we were looking everywhere for toilet paper. Remember finding some for sale and calling your family members, then maybe picking up some extra? The most shopped-for item was masks. People were digging out the sewing machine and searching the web for mask patterns to make their own. We were looking for recipes for hand sanitizer because Dollar General and Walmart were out.

Things snowballed from there. After a year, Howardwick Baptist Church continues to hold church at the Sandell Drive-In theater (thanks to John and Tammy Morrow); you aren't dressed to go out without your mask; and everyone knows how to judge six feet of space, even my three-year-old grandchildren.

Vaccines are being given in Donley County and according to all information patients with COVID are decreasing. The Department of Health is bringing a COVID-19 vaccination clinic to the Bairfield Activity Center at Clarendon College March 5 and you must preregister online or at the Burton Library downtown. Ole Jim and I will receive our second vaccine, three other family members have signed up which will mean all my immediate family will have received at least one shot of vaccine.

ate family will have received at least one shot of vaccine.

Does this mean we will soon be back to normal? According to Dr. Fauci, what do you mean by normal? For me, that includes not only going to church and hugging everyone in the congregation, family get-togethers, road trips, but also going to the grocery store. If the Whistle Stop reopens, I want to stroll through there, visit with everyone and find some treasures. For all this to happen, it will begin by throwing away the mask, but should we do this? On February 22 there had been zero cases of flu treated at our local clinic. They attribute this in large part to the precautions we are taking plus the number of people receiving the flu vaccine. I am sure we have prevented other illnesses with all our precautions. We should remember this lesson and keep those masks handy when our world does return “to normal.”

We give thanks to the Lord for all blessings He has bestowed on our community and ask Him to continue blessing our little community.

NASA's Perseverance rover lands on Mars

A couple of weeks ago NASA's Perseverance rover landed on Mars on February 18. Since we were off school when it landed, we got to watch the landing live and see the first pictures back from the surface.

One thing that makes this mission special is the fact that it is carrying a small drone that NASA is going to fly at some point. A couple of days later, NASA released a video of the descent which had a view of the parachute opening, and then it showed the sky crane lowering the rover and showed the rover as the sky crane flew away.

asking the Court to revoke Garrett's probation on February 20, 2020, based upon his violation of certain conditions of his probation.

At the hearing on Tuesday, Garrett admitted to violating probation, and Messer sentenced him to eight months in jail.

On February 25, the court heard four cases.

Dacota Shaye Segura, 19, was sentenced to 20 years in prison for the second degree felony offense of aggravated assault with a deadly weapon. Segura was arrested for the crime that took place in Collingsworth County on November 22, 2019.

According to court records, Segura was indicted on June 26, 2020 for three counts of aggravated assault and one count of murder of Frankie Cannon.

"This is the first of several pending cases that we were able to resolve in the offenses that resulted in Frankie's [Cannon] death," said Inman. "We applaud the efforts of all law enforcement officers involved, including the FBI, Texas Rangers Division, and the Collingsworth County Sheriff's Office for giving us the tools to go forward with successful prosecution against this defendant.

According to Inman, Segura was one of four individuals indicted on the same date in connection with the death of Cannon.

"In this Covid era, we, like so many of us, are doing everything in our power to push these serious cases to the forefront for resolution of our victim's and victim's family members."

Segura was also ordered to pay $376 in court costs.

Monty Wayne Benningfield, 57, from Amarillo, was sentenced to eight years in prison for the third degree felony offense of driving while intoxicated 3rd or more. Benningfield was also ordered to pay $455 in court costs.

Chazton Henry Harris, 25, from Lamarque, was convicted and sentenced to Time Served in the Childress County Jail for the Class A misdemeanor offense of possession of marijuana.

Harris was also required to pay a fine of $4,000 and upfront court costs of $340.00.

Alfonso Barragan Cardenas, 37, from Clutier, Iowa, was placed on four years' probation for the second degree felony offense of possession of a controlled substance.

Cardenas was also ordered to pay a $500 to Childress County, $180 in restitution, $340 in court costs and complete 300 hours of community service. If his probation is revoked, Cardenas faces up to 20 years in prison.

Jaramillo to compete in Regional Meet

By Sandy Anderberg

For the fourth straight year, senior lifter Aubrey Jaramillo will compete in the Regional Power Lifting Meet in Kermit on March 6.

Lifting in the 97.5 weight class, Jaramillo has been a force to reckon with. She has won her weight class numerous time and repeatedly lifts nearly five times her weight. Good luck, Aubrey!

Rhett Caison has lifted well all season and earned another first-place finish at Childress last week. Caison competed in the 165-pound class and had a total lift of 920 pounds. Colton Benson finished second in the 123-pound weight class with a lift total of 535 pounds, and Jared Musick finished third with a lift total of 640 pounds in the 165-weight class.

Davis Mays took a fifth place finish in the 181-pound class with a total of 770 pounds and Ethan

Lady Broncos softball win tournament

By Sandy Anderberg

The Lady Broncos played awesome softball last weekend and returned with the Championship of the Hale Center Softball Tournament with wins over Dimmitt, Seagraves, and Dimmitt junior varsity.

According to head coach Brad Elam, the Lady Broncos started off slowly in the opening innings in their 12-3 win over Dimmitt. Building on a 2-1 lead after three innings, the ladies exploded for 10 runs the last three innings. Ashlynn Crawford scored three runs, and Jade Benson and Jentrye Bellar each scored two runs and had two hits each. Bellar hit her first homerun of the season in the game.

“Jayde Gribble and Tandy Blackshear added hits,” Elam said. “Madi Smith pitched a great six innings giving up two hits and a couple of unearned runs while striking out nine.”

The ladies defeated Seagraves in the next game at 12-6 after a slow beginning and trailing by one run. Crawford was on the mound for the Lady Broncos and pitched three good innings and Smith came in to finish the game. Bellar, Smith, and Kaylin Hicks scored two runs each.

“Benson had a huge game scoring three runs and hitting her first two homeruns of the season,” Elam said. “Bellar added her second going back to back with Benson in the fifth.”

The Lady Broncos turned up the heat in the final game and shut out Dimmitt JV with 18 runs on the scoreboard.

“(We) had three good pitching performances by Hicks, Bayleigh Bruce, and Elyza Rodriguez,” Elam said. Dimmitt allowed the ladies several walks in the game and scored 18 points in three innings. “Benson had her third homerun of the season,” Elam said. “This time, a grand slam and followed by another Bellar homerun.”

The ladies will play in the Pampa Tournament March 6.

Broncos drops game to Childress

The Clarendon Baseball Team fell short by one run in their 7-8 loss to Childress last week. Both teams exploded in the second inning putting runs on the board. The Bobcats were able to put seven runs on the board after scoring one in the first to take a four-run advantage. The Broncos added four that inning.

But the Broncos stayed solid and put another three runs on the board behind good hitting by Jodee Pigg, Easton Frausto, Rhett Caison, and Brock Hatley. They just ran out of time to get the win.

The Broncos will play in the Childress Tournament March 4-6.

Maple-Sugaring Time

When winter is ending and snow is disappearing;
when spring is coming,
before buds are appearing;
When the temperatures rise to warm the day;
when later they fall
to freeze the night;
When the sap starts to flow from the maple trees;
when farmers tap the trees
to collect it in buckets;
When the sap is poured into tanks on sleds;
when a horse team pulls it to the sugarhouse;
When the sugarhouse is opened and roaring fires are built;
when the sap is boiled, skimmed filtered and canned;
When the first syrup is poured sweet and warm over pancakes...

It's maple-sugaring time!

NRCS offers financial help in response to winter storm damage

In response to the winter storms that hit Texas in February 2021, the USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) is offering farmers and ranchers technical and financial assistance to repair and replace certain damaged conservation practices.

NRCS is accepting applications for its Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP) for the following recovery measures: Animal Mortality and Animal Mortality Facility, High Tunnel Systems, Irrigation System and Irrigation Pipeline, Livestock Pipeline, Obstruction Removal, Pumping Plant, Roofs and Covers, Waste Storage Facility, Water Well, and Watering Facility.

NRCS accepts conservation program applications year-round; however, applications for 2021 winter storm recovery funding must be submitted by one of three deadlines: March 5, March 19, or April 2. After each deadline, applications will be ranked as soon as possible. Farmers and ranchers negatively impacted by winter weather are encouraged to contact their local NRCS office to seek assistance. Find contact information for local NRCS offices at www.farmers.gov/service-center-locator.
