Lions Club celebrates centennial

The Clarendon Lions Club celebrated its 100th anniversary last Saturday night, October 22, with a Centennial Banquet at the Bairfield Activity Center to close out a day full of Lions service and fun in the community.

Boss Lion Landon Lambert presented Lion Nathan Estlack as the Outstanding New Member for 2021-2022, and Lion Anndria Newhouse was recognized as the Lion of the Year for her role in promoting club growth and visibility through numerous community service projects.

Laney Gates was formally crowned as the club's Sweetheart for the current year.

International President Brian Sheehan recorded a personalized video message for the club's centennial, and Lions International Director Ernesto "T.J." Tijerina was the guest speaker for the evening, focusing his remarks on the importance of service and fellowship.

Other dignitaries attending the banquet were Past International President Jimmy Ross and his wife, Lion Velda Ross; Lion Juanita Tijerina; and Second Vice District Governor Chris Rogers with his son, Lincoln.

ID Tijerina presented several certificates on behalf of IP Sheehan assisted by District Governor Roger Estlack. The International President's Certificate of Appreciation – the fourth highest award in Lionism – was presented to Lions Jacob Fangman, Chuck Robertson, Ashlee Estlack, and Landon Lambert. The club itself also received a Certificate of Appreciation on the occasion of its centennial.

Several Lions were recognized for their many years of service to the association, including Lion Bobbie Thornberry – 25 years, Lion George U. Hubbard – 20 years, Lion Jacob Fangman – 10 years, Lion Scarlet Estlack – 10 years, Lion Russell Estlack – 20 years, and Lion Tex Buckhaults – 30 years.

Boss Lion Lambert also received recognition on behalf of the club with the Club Excellence award for the previous Lion year and the Membership Satisfaction award.

Lion Ashlee Estlack, in her capacity as vice president of the Chamber of Commerce, presented the club with a $1,500 check from the proceeds of the Hot Rods to Harleys Fun Run. The money will go to the Lions' new effort to secure a gift for each Donley County elementary student this Christmas.

Lion Janie Noble won the bingo game for a Melvin Jones Fellowship, and Wellington Lions Club Boss Lion Jeff Thomas won the drawing for the gift bag DG Estlack and Lion Ashlee brought back from the international convention in Montreal this summer.

All members of the Clarendon club also received a special centennial coin struck for the occasion.

Lion David Dockery read the proclamation from the city naming October 22, 2022, as Clarendon Lions Club Centennial Day, and DG Estlack gave a brief history of the club, which has grown from 23 members two years ago to 49 members today.

Several members of the Ama-

Lion Nathan Estlack was named the Outstanding New Member, Laney Gates was crowned as the club's Sweetheart, and Lion Anndria Newhouse was named the Lion of the Year during ceremonies at the Bairfield Activity Center last Saturday. See more photos on page 8.

rillo Downtown Lions Club attended the banquet, including Boss Lion Gemma Mitchell and Lions John Michie and Kevin Cox. Amarillo Downtown sponsored the chartering of the Clarendon club in 1922, and Clarendon's is now the second oldest club in District 2-T1, which covers the top 26 counties of the Panhandle.

A total of 66 Lions and guests were registered for events on Saturday, which included the District's Fall Family Fun Festival. Events began at the Mulkey Theatre at 9:30 with short sessions on improving service to communities. Local and District Lions posed on the north side of Antrio Plaza to recreate a 1930 picture taken at that location of district Lions with Melvin Jones, the founder of the association.

Lions then participated in a Diabetes Awareness "Strides Walk" from downtown to the Chance Jones Playground at Prospect Park, and later assembled about 100 non-perishable food boxes at the Donley County Senior Citizens Center for local homebound residents. Lions also helped plant a centennial tree in front of the Lions Hall.

Following the service projects, more than 40 local and district Lions and Clarendon residents assembled in the Lions Hall for afternoon bingo with a corn hole tournament being held outside later in the afternoon.

Prior to the banquet, an open house, hospitality, and ribbon cutting were held at the Lions Hall in celebration of the anniversary as well as the completion of renovations to building. Numerous Lions and family members have worked hard on improvements to the building for the last couple of months. The Lions Hall building was originally part of a German POW camp at McLean during World War II before it was moved here following the war. It has served as the club's home since the 1940s.

Perry discusses legislative issues

State Sen. Charles Perry (R-Lubbock) met with students and constituents at the Clarendon College Bairfield Activity Center last Wednesday, October 19, to cover a variety of issues that will be coming up during before the state legislature in 2023.

Perry said the state's economy is being fueled right now but said he expects it to slow down, and the senator outlined some of his top priorities in the next legislative session, including spending $9 billion to fix the state's electric grid and focusing on the recapturing water used in oil production and treating it.

"Water will determine if Texas is here for your great-grandchildren," Perry said.

With that in mind, Perry also supports a $2 billion water initiative designed to help improve water infrastructure in the state, noting that about 143 billion gallons leaks out of water lines currently.

The senator intends to carry a bill intended to improve discipline in schools by removing difficult students from the classroom. Perry also said the state is cannot stop the next school shooting, but there will be efforts to improve school safety, which will come with oversight.

Perry hedged on a question about whether he would support a ballot initiative on Texas withdrawing from the Union, noting that it's a complex issue and that while Texas could probable survive on its own, he prefers to see Texas thrive.

Asked about his view of local government, Perry said that when local governments raise taxes, it's the state that takes the blame for it. Perry said places like Houston "bring their trash to the legislature," and lawmakers try to deal with those communities' issues, particularly rising taxes. Perry, however, has supported "carve outs" that are designed to shield small rural counties from rules aimed at large, urban counties.

Asked about increasing the base allotment for public schools and about the teacher shortage, Perry said the legislature will focus more on "paying down property taxes" than increasing the allotment and said the teacher shortage "is temporary" and that discipline was more important than pay in terms of teachers staying in the profession.

Sen. Charles Perry discusses local government with Donley County Judge John Howard following last Wednesday's forum at the Bairfield Activity Center.

Compatriotism and Patriotism

By Walter Wendler

The concept of patriotism is recognized as love or devotion to one's country. I believe patriotism is cultivated from a love embodied in a family and community that underpins love for one's country. This cascade of patriotism leads to compatriotism, identifying with a group of others. Patriotism and compatriotism can reside in groups of any size or structure.

Compatriotism is human nature to desire membership in a group; without it, loneliness dominates. The smallest and earliest recorded social group is the family. A February 21, 2020 column in the Atlantic argues forcefully, "The Nuclear Family Is Still Indispensable." Confucius said in the Great Learning, "To put the world in order, we must first put the nation in order; to put the nation in order, we must first put the family in order; to put the family in order, we must first cultivate our personal life; we must first set our hearts right." In contrast, Marx proposed the family as a capitalist construct detrimental to his proposed social order.

The Oath of Allegiance taken at naturalization ceremonies has remained substantially unchanged since 1790. These constitutionally affirmed freedoms and responsibilities sustain a republican form of government. They define, without apology, the idea of citizenship and belonging at every level.

The ruggedness of life in the Texas Panhandle requires a commitment to something larger than self for survival. Regrettably, forces at work in contemporary society often diminish the value and purpose of loving our country or place and subjugate it down a long hierarchical ladder of memberships. Ronald Reagan sought "informed patriotism." As he left office in 1989, his farewell address noted that the world was changing and "Younger parents aren't sure that an unambivalent appreciation of America is the right thing to teach modern children." Absent informed patriotism, something approaching anarchy flourishes. Sovereignty in a family or nation draws diverse people together for a common purpose. It is compatriotism—working together for a shared purpose—not an afterthought but a foundational commitment.

In many communities I visited during the "Your Community, Your University" tours to the Texas Panhandle and the South Plains, the school was the sole fragment beyond the family of something larger than self. Many school districts operate at a level of fiscal austerity unimaginable in countless human organizations. But, the emotional commitment and the sense of belonging (compatriotism) profoundly exceed that found in groups of every stripe. The fear of losing the school's civic function increases as schools decrease in size. Scarcity creates a furnace of focus. Compatriotism on fire.

Belonging creates a sense of pride and citizenship, which has great staying power. In the Texas Panhandle, high school football rivalries are based on borders between communities and school districts. You belong to one or the other. For over 90 years, the rivalry between the communities, defined by their high school football programs in Memphis and Wellington, has thrived. The competition is nearly a century old. It may be the longest-standing "small school" rivalry in Texas high school football's storied and gloried history. Community pride, a sense of compatriotism, creates belonging and competition in a helpful, not hurtful, way to communities. Borders allow that. Borders create and allow patriotism.

The idea of globalism works against the idea of borders. Can a person be a "citizen of the world?" This represents a form of cosmopolitanism that is impossible to attain. Sooner or later, as in West Texas, the home team is recognized as the home team. iPhones, the Internet, Snapchat, Twitter, and a host of other devices and networks appear to shrink the world and make it flat, according to Thomas L. Friedman. A potentially dangerous, unattainable utopian illusion diminishing the power of place, the sense of belonging and citizenship leads to positive patriotism. The world is not flat. Citizens belong to bordered settlements with distinctive governments, operated by code, cannon and law. Citizenship is a commitment to that concept, even when it's flawed by human imperfection in its many manifestations.

Patriotism is never blind obedience. The Oath of Allegiance requires an exercise of free will culminating in citizenship. Exercising patriotism and compatriotism is not the result of being an automaton but a conscious heart-felt commitment to participate.

At WT, students can find avenues of belonging on a complex roadmap of possibilities. Residence halls, classes, social groups, clubs, teams, faith-based and intellectual communities all create a framework that reinforces patriotism's nourishing power. Patriotism and compatriotism evaporate in a nation, state, region, community or university that disregards the power of belonging, according to Alasdair MacIntyre.

The values of patriotism and compatriotism are the building blocks of a free society. WT will work to reinforce these concepts because they shape an enlightened mind and promote citizenship. That is our job.

Montague soil passed the taste test

In 1882, three families put down the first Italian roots in Montague County in Texas. These families, headed by Antonio Fenoglio, Giovanni (Jack) Fenoglio, and Barretto Raimondi, had come earlier from Italy and had worked in coal mines in America's central states and in Oklahoma.

Tiring of the coal miner's life, these three families wanted to own their own lands and produce crops. Therefore, in 1876, they left the mines of Oklahoma and moved to Pilot Point in Denton County. They paid almost $3,000 for 640 acres of land and went to work clearing and planting. Things went well until 1881 when the three families learned that they had not been granted title to the land and that they had been swindled. With only a meager command of the English language and with no access to legal counsel, they simply gave up their claim and headed west toward Wichita Falls.

Stopping to rest near Montague, they were impressed with the sandy, fertile-looking soil. Jack, the oldest and the group's leader, picked up some of the soil and tasted it.

"This soil will grow grapes," he declared.

Their destination, however, was Wichita Falls, so they continued westward. Upon reaching Wichita Falls, they were disappointed with what they saw, and then an Indian raid further discouraged them. Returning to Montague County, they found the soil to be as productive as expected. After settling, they wrote letters to friends and relatives extolling the virtues of the area, and soon other Italian families began arriving. Before long there were several productive vineyards and wineries in operation. As farmers, they also produced Concord grapes, apples, peaches, asparagus, and many other vegetables and fruits. They purchased their lands for $6.00 to $8.00 an acre including mineral rights. Oil discoveries on several of these tracts have added greatly to the economy.

The land that tasted like it could grow grapes has lived up to its taste test.

A few points about purchasing

Okay, I confess. I am – as many retailers know – a sucker of the first order. I've ignored pleas of loved ones and friends warning me about buying items at greatly reduced prices.

I want to do better, but can't help it if adrenaline jumps into overdrive upon my noticing signs like "drastically reduced" or "75% off." You get the idea.

Someone said there are only two kinds of people – those who are impulse buyers and admit it, and those who are impulse buyers and deny it. Those balking at such a suggestion would rather endure Chinese water tortures than admit they are easy prey for stores' "come-ons." I've been a member of this group for some 70 years....

Again, I apologize for citing personal experiences, but they're the only kind I've had. Persons gray of head and/or long of tooth remember that in the early 50s, a movie about Davy Crockett ("King of the Wild Frontier") was a box office sensation. Crockett items soon were finishing second only to hot cake sales.

I'd seen the Crockett coonskin caps, but balked at plunking down $1.98 for one. I didn't know the Crockett mystique was soon to ebb, and during a visit to Fort Worth, found them on sale for 11 cents each at Leonard's Department Store.

I "closed them out," greatly denting a $5 bill for the three dozen caps in stock. My mind flooded with dollar marks as I thought of dozens of friends I figured would jump at the chance to purchase these items for 50 cents each.

Why I'd have a profit of around $15, and bragging rights at Early High School. Alas, news of the Crockett bubble bursting reached our community before I returned from the city. I made zero sales, and during an attic-clearing session a few years ago, found a box full of coonskin caps. There were 35, but I really did enjoy wearing that 11-cent cap for a weekend....

the idle american
by don newbury

My wife has given me the stern look, reinforced with "when-are-you-ever-going-to-learn" mutterings. After 56 years of marriage, she is convinced that it will never happen in my lifetime. I lean on the "I-just-can't-help-myself" excuse, realizing that it is a mere "bleep" in a world where many stronger sounds abound.

I will spare you details of dozens of other lousy purchasing decisions. One made this very day, though, is worth mentioning, since I came out on top! Upon entering our Sam's store, a huge display within 20 feet of the entrance beckoned. Thereon were stacks of machines with suggested retail prices of $49.95 each, but for one day only, were offered for $12.95. The guy in front of me bought six.

I didn't want to make him look like a piker, so I bought just four.

Not until arrival at home did I read the fine print about the magical machines. About all I knew was what I'd heard, something about the machines being worth the price if only for the "white noise" that helps many of us sleep...

I wasn't really prepared when Brenda asked, "What are these?"

Stammering, I mentioned how throngs at Sam's bragged about the magical machine. She wasn't buying that, proceeding to dismember me by reading the small print loud enough that passers by could easily hear. She said that we already have four white sound machines.

The literature claimed the light rays greatly enhance yoga exercises. That was all I needed to hear. I returned to Sam's, explaining that I don't do yoga, and wasn't interested in a contraption whose white noise feature might be trumped by yoga-enhancing lights....

Sam's purchasing agent must be catching "what for." He (she?) may have bought a train load of these machines, never thinking that white sound for sleeping and fancy lights for yoga exercises might be a lousy combination.

I suspect he (she?) may be named Walton, or once was.

Whatever, I'm going to try to do better....

New online Agriculture Bootcamp

The Texas AgrAbility and BattleGround to Breaking Ground programs of the Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service have developed a new online version of the Agriculture Production Bootcamp.

The Agriculture Production Bootcamp is an introductory course for individuals interested in production agriculture but have limited agricultural experience. The course is now offered either in person or online for those considering the full BattleGround to Breaking Ground program.

BattleGround to Breaking Ground is a four-phase program designed for former and active-duty military members, beginning farmers, ranchers and others interested in becoming involved in production agriculture.

Participants will also view a session about additional training programs upon course completion. The cost for the online course is $30, <https://tx.ag/NewPhaseOne>.

An in-person boot camp will be held Jan 9-13 in College Station.

The fee for the in-person boot camp will be $350, with a discount of $225 applied at checkout thanks to a U.S. Department of Agriculture National Institute for Food and Agriculture grant, making the total cost per participant $125. It will also include a free link to the Phase 1 online course.

Successful completion of Phase 1 also increases the participant's chances of submitting a successful application for a tuition waiver for the second and third phases of the BattleGround to Breaking Ground program.

Clayton Lake worth the visit

Just north of the volcanic Rabbit Ear Mountains near Clayton, New Mexico lies Clayton Lake. Along with being the gateway to the Rockies, and a popular spot to fish for trout, it's one of most intriguing paleontological sites on the Great Plains.

The lake was built in 1955 and made into a state park in 1967.

In 1982, 500 footprints of at least three species of dinosaurs were discovered in the area of the dam spillway; the most prominent being Iguanodonts and Hadrosaurs (Ornithopods; herbivores) and Acrocantosaurs (Theropods; carnivores).

Eons ago, the area was the muddy shoreline of the Western Interior Spillway, when the Atlantic Ocean covered the Great Plains from the Gulf of

by caylor monroe

Mexico to the Arctic.

There are even baby Iguanodont footprints, and a rare tail imprint there as well, as a result of one great lizard losing its footing.

In addition to the footprints, there are ancient mud cracks, fossil plant impressions, and wavy pieces of sandstone where ocean waves lapped the prehistoric shore.

It is a very interesting spectacle to see, and I highly recommend seeing these dinosaur footprints with your own eyes.

Golden Spread sponsors WISE conference

Registration is now open for the 2022 WISE (Women in Science Endeavors) Conference to be held from 9 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. on November 12 at AmTech Career Academy.

WISE is a STEM (science, technology, engineering and mathematics) conference hosted each year for girls in 6th, 7th and 8th grades, and includes hands-on activities led by female presenters in STEM fields. WISE is dedicated to encouraging middle school girls to pursue math and science-related careers.

Golden Spread Electric Cooperative has been an active supporter of WISE since 2010. This involvement demonstrates the Cooperative's "Concern for Community," one of The Seven Cooperative Principles Golden Spread is guided by.

"Encouraging STEM in early education plays a key role in the enthusiasm and pursuit of classes and future career fields of study," said Kari Hollandsworth, Golden Spread CEO and WISE Committee

Treasurer. "STEM education enables our next generation of innovators by creating critical thinkers and increasing science literacy. Golden Spread is proud to be a sponsor of the WISE Conference."

Once called "Expanding Your Horizons," WISE has been around for more than 30 years, with one goal—to positively impact the career choice of middle school girls by engaging them with fun, relevant STEM-related activities.

"The conference has been going strong since 1989," said Stacy Sanning, P.E., Golden Spread Manager, Member Programs and Services, and current WISE Committee Chair. "In fact, that is our theme for this year, '1989 WISE Original.' I am grateful to have been a part of this program for the past 17 years.

It is amazing to see middle school girls having fun with math and science activities. We have had high school students, once participants, come back to the conference to help out and serve as mentors. It is my hope that WISE has provided a positive impact on the career choice of these students."

The conference is organized and supported by Amarillo Independent School District, AmTech Career Academy, Bell Helicopter Textron, Golden Spread Electric Cooperative, GROW - Women in Non-Traditional Roles Positive Effect, Pantex, West Texas A&M University School of Engineering and Computer Science and Mathematics, Phillips 66 and Xcel Energy.

The registration deadline for the 2022 WISE conference is October 28. Conference registration is $15 (non-refundable) per participant, which includes a light breakfast, three STEM activities/sessions, lunch, t-shirt and a souvenir bag. Register online at www.wisearrillo.org/register. ### TxDOT Engineer Honored

Darwin Lankford, District Engineer for the Childress District (right) received his 35-year service award during the 96th Annual Transportation Short Course recently held in College Station. ### Food handlers online training with a focus on honey set Nov. 3

The Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service will offer a Food Handler's Certification Training webinar on Nov. 3, with a special focus on honey production.

The class is a basic overview of food safety practices necessary to ensure serving and selling safe food products and will have an emphasis on honey. Upon successful completion of the course, a certificate valid for two years will be issued.

The cost is $20. Registration is required at <https://tx.ag/Nov3Food-Trainings>. The event will start at 6:30 p.m. The Texas Department of State Health Services now requires cottage food operators to have the certification to sell most honey, Keck said.

Keck said it is quite common for producers to add cinnamon, orange or other spices to honey. She added that a certification is also required if you add someone else's honey to yours.

Keck said the TDSHS also recommends beehive honey producers selling their own raw honey to have a food handler's certification, but it is not required.

The certification course will be taught by Angie Gutierrez, AgriLife Extension family and community health agent, San Antonio.

Keck will provide input on how the topics relate to honey and how sellers can determine what category they fall under. Gutierrez will cover: Good Personal Hygiene, Cross Contamination, and Time and Temperature Abuse.

Broncos beat Memphis

By Sandy Anderberg

The Broncos reigned supreme over the Memphis Cyclones in a district matchup last Friday night on the road.

The 6-2 Broncos are perfect in district play with two games remaining.

The Bronco defense made a huge showing in the 48-14 win as they stopped the Cyclones all game long. Their solid play allowed the Bronco offense great field position on nearly every possession. Colton Benson made the most tackles with 12 and recovered a fumble in Memphis territory and Colton Caudle posted eight tackles and a fumble recovery. Mason Sims had seven tackles, Quay Brown snatched two interceptions, and Wilson Ward fought hard for two tackles and added one fumble recovery and one interception.

Offensively, the Broncos stuck to their game plan using senior Jmaury Davis throughout the game both rushing and receiving. Davis scored a 57-yard touchdown with only one minute off the clock to give the Broncos the first score of the game. Lyric Smith hit Davis in the endzone for the two-point bonus after the TD. The Bronco offense had one big play after another throughout the game with a variety of players getting into the action. Their speed and quickness impeded the Cyclone defense and is something they will carry into their final two district games.

Harrison Howard was 11 of 15 passing for 139 yards and four touchdowns in the game. Howard leaned on receivers Davis and Smith for big yardage and TD's but also hit Ward twice for 29 yards and one touchdown.

Davis had 18 carries for 201 yards rushing and two catches for a total of three touchdowns. Smith found the endzone three times as well and racked up 48 yards receiving.

The Broncos' early scoring gave them the definite advantage in their win as they held a 28-8 lead at halftime.

Colts' beat the Cyclones, 34-24

The Clarendon Junior High Colts dominated the field and earned a 34-24 win over the Memphis Cyclones in Bronco Stadium last Thursday.

Parker Haynes rushed for four touchdowns to lead the Colts on offense.

Haynes' longest score of the night was a 35-yard run for six to go with shorter runs of one, two, and five yards. Kreed Robinson did a solid job from his quarterback position going two for four passing with strikes to Braylon Rice for 17 yards and a 22-yard pass to Caleb Herbert. Herbert also found the endzone on a good 25-yard run. Robinson ran the ball for a bonus and found Rice for another.

Defensively, the Colts were solid on the line and able to hold Memphis at bay. Herbert finished with three tackles and Rice, Haynes, and Hudson Howard each gathered one. Haynes was also able to grab an interception from the Cyclones.

"The guys played hard," coach Boston Hudson said. "We are happy about the win and are continuing to improve each week."

The Colts will be at home again on Thursday, October 27, when they take on Shamrock at 5:00 p.m.

TxDOT still hopes to 'end the streak'

The cell phone video from Easter Sunday shows the convertible Chevy Corvette going 110 mph on Dumas Highway in Amarillo.

"Joey! Chill, bro!" is what the passenger, Dyego Mendoza, shouted over the roaring engine. But it was too late. The car flipped and rolled for several hundred feet before it flew across a highway below, slammed into the side of an overpass and slid down the embankment.

In the video just before the horrific crash, David Elizalde's 17-year-old daughter, Andrea, can be seen sitting on the center console between the two front seats. She was not wearing a seatbelt.

The crash scene along Dumas Highway was gruesome. Andrea's Corvette was in pieces, scattered everywhere. The only part of the car that remained intact was flattened.

"We pulled up to a car that was unrecognizable," said Amarillo Firefighter Brenton Goerend. "You couldn't tell what it was. It was horrible. We couldn't find the third person, so we started looking underneath the car."

Mendoza and the driver survived. Andrea died at the scene, making her one of more than 79,000 people who have died on Texas roads since November 7, 2000.

"It's not okay to drink and drive," Elizalde said. "It's not OK as a father to go through the death of your daughter at the hands of people who are drinking and driving."

The wreckage of Andrea's car will provide the backdrop for Elizalde who will be a guest speaker during an #EndTheStreakTX press event in Amarillo on November 16.

This November 7, Texas marks 22 years of daily deaths on our roadways with more than 79,000 innocent lives lost to preventable fatal crashes. For the past several years, about 10 people have died every day in crashes across the state.

For the first time in the agency's history of analyzing fatal crashes, experts spoke with a psychology professor to dig deeper into the driver behavior. In an interview, Dr. Art Markman from the University of Texas, alluded to an erosion of community that can be a cause for an increase in traffic fatalities.

"We have to remind people that they are part of a community," Markman said. "We have to start considering everyone as part of our community. If we don't do that, there are going to be all sorts of negative consequences, and those are going to include negative consequences on the road."

Texas Transportation Commissioner Laura Ryan, a champion for road safety and TxDOT's #EndTheStreakTX campaign, said every Texan must do their part. And while the goal of ending the deadly streak is ambitious, Ryan said, it is far from impossible, but we must start to care about others around us.

"With the knowledge that, since the pandemic, people don't seem to view others around them as part of a community, and that they care less about those around them, we are starting to identify the problem," said Ryan. "If we know there is a problem and we can identify that a big part of the problem is a lack of caring or apathy, then we also know the solution - we must care more about those around us."

Drivers have the power to protect themselves, their passengers and fellow community members because most crashes and fatalities are preventable and caused by things such as speeding, drunk driving and distracted driving. That's why the approach to reaching zero deaths must be through what TxDOT calls the Three E's: engineering, education and enforcement. We all have a responsibility to keep our roads and fellow drivers safe.
