CC Bulldogs win Texas Tech rodeo

By Ted Harbin, TwistTed Rodeo

The Clarendon College men's rodeo team is reeling off victories like the Dallas Cowboys in the 1990s.

Riding the backs of its bronc busters and bareback riders, the Bulldogs have won three events in a row, most recently at Texas Tech University this past weekend. With that, Clarendon College moved to within 60 points of Southwest Region leader Western Texas College.

"We've been building every week, and it's shown the last three weeks," said Bret Franks, the team's coach. "Our goal is to be the top team in our region when the season ends, and we're making the right moves to be in that position in the spring."

The Southwest Region consists of 10 events through the 2022-23 campaign, and half the rodeos took place during the fall session.

"We have five rodeos left in the spring, so we'll get a chance to take a little break and come back next semester fresh and ready to roll," Franks said. "It's been fun to watch these kids come out and find success. Now, we just want to build off that."

As has happened in their victories at home two weeks ago and at Vernon College a week ago, the Bulldogs earned the most points in saddle bronc riding. Slade Keith of Stanfield, Arizona, won in all three phases – the first round, the championship round and the aggregate – to win the overall title. Dylan Hancock of Golconda, Illinois, placed fourth in the long round, third in the short round and third overall.

Weston Patterson of Waverly, Kansas, rode two broncs for a cumulative score of 142 points but didn't place.

Sam Petersen of Helena, Montana, earned his second bareback riding victory in three weeks. He was 81 points to finish second in the long round, then won the short round and the average after scoring 79.5 points Saturday night. His two-ride cumulative score of 160.5 was a point and a half better than the field. Fellow bareback rider Clayton Moss of Wheeler advanced to the short round but didn't place.

"We have a lot of talented people on this team," Franks said. "They will all have an opportunity to contribute for us. I like the direction we're going right now, and I can't wait to see what we can do come the spring semester."

A week ago, a quartet of CC saddle bronc riders made a big statement this past weekend at the Vernon College rodeo.

The top four men were all CC cowboys, and they were a key reason why the Bulldogs won the men's team title at Vernon.

"We had another good weekend," said Bret Franks, the rodeo team's coach. "I'd say those four were on top of their game and made the most difference for us. It was good to see how well we competed."

Weston Patterson of Waverly, Kansas, led the way for the Bulldogs, placing third in the opening round with an 81-point ride, then winning the championship round with an 85 to clinch the average with a cumulative score of 166 points. He finished just ahead of teammates Dylan Hancock of Golconda, Illinois, and Slade Keith of Stanfield, Arizona, both of whom placed in both rounds and finished tied for second in the aggregate with 163 points on two rides – Keith won the first round with an 84.

Fellow bronc buster Reno McGill of Gardnerville, Nevada, finished fourth in the short round with an 82.5-point ride and placed fourth overall.

"We scored 450 points as a team to win the title, and we got 380 points in bronc riding," Franks said. "If we didn't get any other points along the way, we still would have won the rodeo because of the points we got in bronc riding."

That's a powerful statement, but it's proof of the dominant showing the Bulldogs put on in rodeo's classic event.

Patterson also added points by placing fifth in the long round of bareback riding, while Sam Petersen of Helena, Montana, placed in both the final round and the aggregate. Clarendon team ropers Clay Freeman of Wickenburg, Arizona, and Hayden Bass of Plainview placed fourth in the opening round.

For the CC women, barrel racer Quincy Sullivan of Peralta, New Mexico, placed in both go-rounds of barrel racing. Her 17.16-second run in the championship round was the second-fastest of the weekend, which was also good enough to help her to a second-place finish in the round and move up to third place in the aggregate.

"There are some things we'll continue to work on, but I like the direction we're heading," Franks said. "It's nice to move up the standings at each rodeo, but our main goal is to finish the season with the regional title."

Election Day next Tuesday

Donley County voters will go to the polls next Tuesday, November 8, to cast ballots in this year's general election.

The election is gaining a lot of interest with competitive races at the state level for governor, lieutenant governor, attorney general, and other races down the ballot. More than 400 people had already voted early in Donley County by noon this Tuesday.

Early voting by personal appearance will continue at the Donley County Courthouse Annex through this Friday, November 4.

Balloting on election day for most county voters will take place at the Donley County Courthouse, which is the official polling place for voters in Precincts 1, 2, 3, and 4. The only exception is Voting Precinct 303, which will vote at the First Baptist Church in Hedley.

Polls will be open on election day from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

City working to improve broadband

The City of Clarendon will be seeking a qualified firm to expand broadband service here following a special meeting of the city council last Thursday, October 27.

Aldermen approved an agreement to have the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission draw up language for a Request For Qualifications (RFQ) that will be used to solicit potential Internet providers, according to City Administrator David Dockery.

The city hopes to entice a company to offer better and more reliable internet service to Clarendon businesses and residences and is willing to put up $160,000 in ARPA (COVID relief) money to help fund the rollout of improved service.

Veterans services set for next week

Clarendon College along with American Legion Adamson Lane Post 287 will have a Veterans Day program at 7:00 p.m. at the Clarendon College Harned Sisters Fine Arts Center on November 10, 2022.

The program will honor all those that have served in this nation's military.

Prior to the program, Post members will place American Flags on the graves of 248 Veterans buried in the Rowe Cemetery in Hedley. The flags will be placed on the graves on Wednesday, November 9, 2022, at 9:00 a.m. and remain until Saturday morning.

This is in honor of departed veterans who have served in this country's military.

On Friday, November 11, 2022, at 10:00 a.m., Hedley's Adamson-Lane Post 287 of The American Legion will hold its annual Veterans Day service at the Rowe Cemetery. In case of inclement weather, the service will be moved to the Hedley Lions Den.

This program will be conducted by members of the American Legion and will include the raising of the colors, the National Anthem, Pledge to the Flag and the ceremony honoring the Missing in Action and Prisoners of War still unaccounted for.

The key address will be given by State District Judge Stuart Messer. The program will be concluded with the laying of the memorial wreath and the playing of taps.

Private and civic virtue

By Walter Wendler

The Carson County Courthouse is the hub of Carson County in Panhandle, Texas, representative of many Panhandle courthouses. Striking to me is a 1778 James Madison quote chiseled into stone on the courthouse grounds. It memorializes a concept regarding the nature of what is simultaneously public and private in our lives.

Civic virtue and private virtue are necessary for the functioning of a republican form of government. It is possible to have private virtues isolated from public engagement. However, I do not believe it is possible to have an effective society without civic virtue.

For the past two decades, terrorism has been identified as a threat to our security and sovereignty. True, to be sure. But, the greatest threats to a nation's sustenance and security may come from within rather than without.

In communities across the Panhandle, a commitment to timeless virtues creates interdependence between private and public life. Virtue imbues a people with purpose and responsibility that goes beyond self. Universities can contribute to or diminish virtue essential for effective personal and community governance.

The persistent commitment to right past wrongs is near the center of effective public and private virtue. Our nation has progressed for nearly three centuries in a way that provides more and more liberty to a more significant number of people of every disposition than any other nation on the planet.

This virtue may be defined as the love of the laws and of our country. As such love requires a constant preference of public to private interest, it is the source of all private virtues; for they are nothing more than this very preference itself.

Public and private virtues require establishing a moral and ethical framework to which the majority adhere. Too frequently, a moral framework is seen as a straitjacket rather than the wings of liberty. Liberty's exercise is the keystone to a free society.

Cicero announced that "virtue is its own reward." He believed that corruption in government would lead to the demise of the Roman Republic. He was right. His impact on John Locke regarding natural law and the inalienable rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness changed the world.

The Johnson Foundation identified seven civic virtues in "An American Imperative: Higher Expectations for Higher Education." These were respected for the individual and commitment to equal opportunity. The belief that our common interests exceed our differences. Concern for those who come after us.

Universities have an important role in promoting both private and civic virtues. Too often, people throw their hands up and say, "This is not my responsibility." At West Texas A&M University, we deem the promulgation of private and civic virtues at the core of our responsibility.

Walter V. Wendler is President of West Texas A&M University. His weekly columns are available at https://walterwendler.com/

Charles Balagia loved his baseball

Saba Balagia came to the United States from Lebanon in 1885 at the age of 54. Landing at New York, he made his way to Austin, Texas, where he spent the rest of his life. Initially, Saba earned a living as a peddler.

Now that they were united again, the Balagia family grew and prospered. Advancing beyond the peddler stage, Saba opened a confectionary businesses in which he sold ice cream and candy, all made on the premises.

As part of their Americanization process, all of the Balagia sons became baseball enthusiasts. One son, Charlie, was especially fond of the game.

Throughout his adult life he claimed his name to be Charles Cobb Balagia. But Charles Cobb Balagia did not get his middle name from his Lebanese parents. He assumed it from his baseball hero, Ty Cobb.

Charlie was an involved supporter of baseball in Austin. During one period, Austin had a team in the Texas Association, and the team's games were not well attended.

vignettes tales of the old west by george u. hubbard advertise, Charlie put a sign on his truck and made it available to the team to drive around town. On Saturday nights, Charlie would drive the truck and yell through a horn, "Baseball - tomorrow - Sunday baseball - Austin vs. Mexia. Game at 2:00."

Some of Charlie's brothers were also quite active on the sports scene in Austin. Mike managed one of Austin's semi-pro baseball teams for several years. Pete ran a sports-oriented eatery near the University of Texas campus.

Reader: Liberties are at stake

Vote as if your liberties are at stake. Because they are.

Please don't let talk of a "red wave" at the national level make you complacent about voting. Widespread Republican victories may not materialize, as they left are highly motivated by the Supreme Court's Dobbs decision while some Republican voters may stay home thinking that the battle is won.

And regardless of what happens at a Federal level, don't overlook the importance of our State elections. "Beto" O'Rourke is a ludicrous candidate, yet he came within two points of defeating Ted Cruz in 2020.

Texas is closely split between liberal urban voters and conservative rural voters. Political victory depends upon which group turns out in larger numbers to vote. Have you ever witnessed the insanity taking place in California or New York and thought to yourself,

"Thank God I live in Texas"? If you value the personal freedoms we enjoy here, please go vote Republican to ensure they remain in place.

Election Day is next Tuesday, November 8. But better yet, drop by the Annex this week and take advantage of early voting. And speak to your friends and neighbors and make sure that they vote, too.

William R. "Bill" Word
Donley County Republican Chairman

Take time to honor our nation's Vets

November 11th, Veterans Day, is a special day set apart so that all can celebrate and honor the men and women who served in the U.S. Armed Forces to protect the freedoms we enjoy.

We should always remember our veterans' selflessness, commitment to duty and service to all Americans. Showing our appreciation is as simple as saying "Thank you for your service."

Veterans Day is a historic date for freedom, originating from the armistice that ended World War I on Nov. 11, 1918.

This November 11th brings a new, additional call for veterans to check in with each other and make sure our fellow veterans are doing alright. Buddy Check Day is the 11th of each month. Set a reminder to catch up with veteran friends and family.

To all our Texas veterans, know that you have our gratitude and our unwavering support each and every day. The Texas Veterans Commission is here to help you receive the benefits you've earned and to connect you with services and resources you may need.

And to all, whether active duty, veteran or civilian, let's join in celebrating Veterans Day,

Laura Koerner
Texas Veterans Commission
Chairwoman and U.S. Navy Veterans

Cub Reporter gets big surprise

Over the last couple of weeks, I've had a lot of stuff happen.

For starters, I had a birthday two weeks ago and I turned 16. I got to spend my birthday hanging out with my family, and I also went for a ride on my Uncle Michael's new cotton stripper which was loads of fun.

When I got back home, I went into my room and my entire family and several friends were there, and they surprised me with a Gaming Computer and all of the accessories to go with it!

Since then, I've been using a lot of my free time to play video games and just experience how great video games can look. One game I've been playing a lot of recently has been Civilization 5, which was a game I used to play when I was in junior high. However, I can now play it with amazing graphics, and it has brought back so many great memories.

the cub reporter

I love my new computer. I'm so excited to be able to play on my computer more with my friends, and I can't wait to get my next game.

Scarecrow contest winners were Country Bloomers (top) and the Luttrell family (bottom).

Burton Memorial names scarecrow contest winners

Country Bloomers Flowers & Gifts and the Luttrell Family were the big winners in the Burton Memorial Library's Scarecrow Contest last week.

Mark and Laura Luttrell's "Jeepers Creepers" entry won the residential category with 34 votes, and "Belladonna" won the business category for Country Bloomers with 55 votes.

"Jeepers" at the Back Forty Bar & Grill was named Honorable Mention in the business category with 34 votes.

Burton Memorial congratulated all the winners and expressed appreciation to all 14 participants in the contest. A total of 192 votes were cast with 56 of them coming from in person voting at the library and some who only voted for the business category.

Ironically, the entry that caused the most excitement in the community was #9 "Harvest Moon." Several people who saw the scarecrow standing at the Farm Service Agency window got a scare, thinking it was a real person breaking into the business and someone even called the sheriff's department.

Organizers would like to thank everyone for participating, voting, and giving the library a fun and scary publicity boost.

Broncos dig deep to defeat the Irish

By Sandy Anderberg

The Broncos kept their perfect district season alive last Friday night as they edged out Shamrock 23-20 in a hard-fought game.

Both teams battled the entirety of the game, but the Broncos' quickness and speed gave them the advantage when they needed it. Once again, senior Jmaury Davis turned up the heat with 235 yards rushing, 22 yards passing, and two touchdowns. He also racked up five tackles on defense.

Davis was joined in the backfield by Lyric Smith who consistently plays a solid game. Smith carried the ball nine times for 46 yards and threw a strike to Brown for a touchdown. Howard was three of eight passing for 32 yards.

Both teams came out strong on both sides of the ball and each went four and out before Shamrock put the first points on the board late in the first quarter. The Broncos went to work and put several good defensive and offensive plays together and got back on track. They were able to execute a nice little trick play after Smith broke loose and took it down inside the 20-yard line. Davis was then able to beat the clock and score a touchdown with Wilson Ward adding the kick for the bonus.

The second half was a battle as well with both teams digging in on offense and defense. A mishandled onside kick by the Irish allowed the Broncos good field position and a chance to find the endzone, but a weak series of downs caused Clarendon to give the ball back. They were able to find the endzone one more time, however, with nine minutes left in the game. Shamrock would score one more time early in the fourth quarter, but it would not be enough, and the maroon and white held on for the win.

The Broncos have one regular season game left this Friday against Wellington. They are looking to be the spoiler for the second year in a row to send the Skyrockets packing and claim the District Championship once again. Senior recognition will be during the pre-game and kickoff is at 7:00 p.m. Online tickets are available at <https://bit.ly/3DQop1N>.

Colts play solid in loss to Shamrock

The Clarendon Junior High Colts played a good game despite losing to Shamrock 8-18 last week at home.

The Colts were fresh off a big win over Memphis the week before. They will play their last game of the season on Thursday, November 3, at Wellington at 5:00 p.m.

Quarterback Kreed Robinson scored the lone touchdown for the Colts with Parker Haynes running the two-point bonus. The Colts were able to rack up good numbers in the game but struggled to find the endzone.

Caleb Herbert had a great game on offense and ran the 106 yards on 17 carries. He hauled in a seven-yard pass from Robinson who went five for nineteen. Herbert also had five tackles, and Robinson had three each.

Haynes led the defense with 11 tackles. Dakota Jameson had four tackles, Klay Wilkins finished with three tackles, and Shawn Childers, and Hayden Moore posted two each.

Bronco Wilson Ward runs the ball for the Broncos Friday night.
