Donley voters turn out for GOP candidates

Donley County voters overwhelmingly favored Republican candidates last Tuesday with Democrats and Libertarians picking up only a small percentage of support.

All local races were unopposed, and the new voting system did not allow voters to mark those races. Those candidates were simply declared elected.

For Congress, US Rep. Ronny Jackson received 1,069 to the 112 received by Democratic challenger Kathleen Brown.

Gov. Greg Abbott was the clear favorite in Donley County over Democrat Beto O'Rourke, 1,084 to 97, with seven votes going to the Libertarian and four votes going to the Green Party candidate.

Donley voters also preferred Lt. Gov. Dan Patrick, 1,051 to 114, over Democrat Mike Collier. The Libertarian picked up 17 local votes.

Republican Attorney General Ken Paxton garnered 1,047 votes to 110 for Democrat Rochelle Garza. Libertarian Shanna Steele received 22.

Comptroller Glenn Hegar had 1,069 votes to 103 for Democrat Janet Dudding and four votes for the Libertarian.

Dawn Buckingham got 1,047 to be Commissioner of the General Land Office to 111 for the Democrat Jay Kleberg and ten for the Green candidate.

Bill to name Canyon post office for Fletcher

A bill approved by the US House of Representatives Monday night would rename the US Post Office in Canyon for a former Clarendon rancher.

US Rep. Ronny Jackson carried the bill to honor the late Gary Fletcher and spoke on the house floor about his life and legacy.

"Gary Fletcher embodied everything it means to be a West Texan—hard-working, God-fearing, and service-oriented," Jackson said. "He lived a life of service before self with a steadfast commitment to his family, country, and community in the Texas Panhandle. As a Vietnam veteran, banker, rancher, and active member of the Washington Avenue Christian Church, Mr. Fletcher earned the admiration of all who knew him. He left behind an incredible legacy that will be carried on by his loving family, and now he'll be forever memorialized through last night's Congressional action.

"I'm grateful to my colleagues for supporting my bill to officially name the US Post Office in Canyon, Texas the Gary James Fletcher Post Office Building. He was a great Patriot and American," Jackson said.

Born in Amarillo, Fletcher graduated from Canyon High School and later joined the United States Army in 1968 as a specialist E5. He served his country in the worst of times, during the Vietnam conflict, providing lifesaving medical care to countless young men who would've never returned home otherwise. He was decorated for his service with the National Defense Service Medal, the Vietnam Service Medal, and the Republic of Vietnam Campaign Medal.

Returning to Canyon, Fletcher graduated from West Texas State University, now known as West Texas A&M University, with a Bachelor of Business Administration and Finance.

Fletcher spent 34 years as a banker and 45 years as a rancher and owner of the Salt Fork Ranch in Clarendon.

Fletcher and his family also rode in team penning events, riding the same horses they used on the ranch. He was a former president of the United States Team Penning Association.

A lifelong volunteer to organizations like United Way and the Make-A-Wish Foundation, Fletcher was dedicated to serving the community.

Fletcher was a beloved husband, father, grandfather, and brother. He passed away on October 29, 2020.

City's battle over Neece house ends

A historic Clarendon home will be razed following the end of a long legal battle between the city and the property owner.

The Clarendon City Council approved a mediated agreement about the house at 602 Bugbee Avenue during its regular meeting last Thursday, November 10.

"It's a long tragic story," City Administrator David Dockery told the Enterprise, stating that old Neece house — also known as the Gentry house for the family of Donley County's first sheriff, Al Gentry — will be demolished December 1.

City officials had code complaints on the house going back almost ten years, and repeatedly gave property owner Linda Lewis deadlines and extensions to bring the structure into compliance.

In January of this year, the city council ordered the property demolished and accepted a bid for that work. That led to another round of legal wrangling between the city and Lewis, which came to an end with mediation recently. As a result, the city will receive the property and proceed with demolition.

Dockery said Koetting Construction had the winning bid earlier this year and did not put an expiration date on the bid. Razing the house, which is more than 100 years old, and disposing of the wreckage will cost the city $20,000.

In other city business last week, the city council directed Dockery to negotiate an agreement with AW Broadband for a tower lease to bring expanded wireless internet options to town. Dockery reported that the final phase of the USDA grant to replace waterlines will begin this week on First Street, and discussions were held regarding the possibility of amending ordinances to address dilapidated buildings downtown in terms of facades in disrepair and windows broken.

DCCF seeks donations in annual drive

As part of a national day known as Giving Tuesday, the local Donley County Community Fund (DCCF) is participating in The Panhandle Gives campaign.

For nine days from November 21 through November 29, all funds raised locally will be increased through a match from the Amarillo Area Foundation.

"Participating in this campaign is an opportunity for our local fund balance to grow," DCCF chair Jacob Fangman said.

The DCCF is a local board whose purpose is to raise money for a perpetuating fund while contributing a portion of the money to local organizations.

Over the past six years, the DCCF has been able to give $7,500 to local charities while increasing its own fund balance, thanks to support from county-wide residents.

So the DCCF can benefit from the match, anyone wishing to participate needs to donate by Monday, November 28, so the deposit can be made on GivingTuesday.

GivingTuesday is a movement held annually in all 50 states on the Tuesday after Thanksgiving to kick off the holiday giving season to demonstrate that every act of generosity counts towards giving back to local communities and the causes they support.

Contributions can be mailed to Donley County Community Fund, c/o Jacob Fangman, Box 906, Clarendon, TX 79226. Checks should be made out to The Panhandle Gives, with DonleyCCF written on the memo line.

Loyalty a great quality in the Panhandle

By Walter Wendler

In traveling the Texas Panhandle, I sensed in many communities a genuine, thoughtful loyalty to people and place. I am not naïve and know that in towns, as in many families, no matter how big or small, there are frequently underlying tensions.

For universities, many forms of loyalty create excellent scholarly and study environments—loyalty to the pursuit of truth, fairness and treatment of others; loyalty from students to faculty and faculty to students is important to a healthy organization and exhibits diverse manifestations of loyalty.

In contemporary corporate America, loyalty is perceived as a one-way street from the employee to the employer. Forbes says it's the cause of the diminishment of corporate loyalty. Loyalty is a two-way street that gestates from perseverance, dedication, pride and respect evidenced by leadership.

The WT Alumni Scholars (WTAS) program is intended to enliven trust. Our goal is to have the strength of loyalty exhibited across the Panhandle permeate WT. We encourage alumni to recommend potential WT students who they think will make a difference at WT and enjoy the university experience.

Don't be fooled. We still have admission standards, and as we approach alumni about making recommendations, we share those standards and expectations. Students recommended through the WTAS will have application fees waived, be granted express admission and be considered for all WT scholarships, including the WT Merit Scholarship program.

Strong students will study, work hard and make positive contributions to society. Such individual contributions increase the value of all degrees. Degrees are stock certificates—strong institutions, like WT, that get stronger benefit all. Texas A&M University just surpassed $1 billion in research funding, the first University in Texas to top that mark.

WT will demonstrate thoughtful loyalty by listening carefully to alumni recommendations about who might study here. We will work hard to find students who, when they graduate, will increase the value of all WT degrees. It is our job and demonstrates loyalty to the interests of alumni.

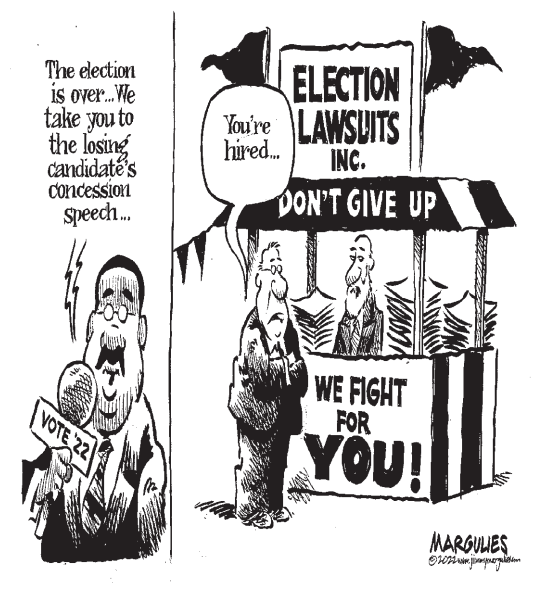

I have become acquainted with thousands of WT graduates in six short years. The intensity of pride in accomplishment grows from community trust and loyalty. Students trust faculty, and faculty trust each other. Likewise, leadership trusts faculty and students. Trust breeds loyalty as surely as spring rain spawns wheat on the high plains.

George Eastman, founder of Kodak, found ways to instill loyalty from workers to the company. Loyalty flowed from Eastman to each worker. If institutions demonstrate genuine loyalty, alumni will be loyal. Their loyalty coupled with enlightened faculty and staff, will create a better university. Leadership starts it. Self-serving leaders might create a chimera of loyalty, but it will evaporate at the speed of light.

This simple calculus was what I discovered in the small, frequently struggling communities of the Texas Panhandle. Loyalty is a salve that heals many afflictions. At some level, it will heal every social or organizational affliction. West Texas A&M University will be recognized as a university that values loyalty through our actions, demonstrating that such thoughtful loyalty is a two-way street. Commitment and trust are the nucleus of the University's long-term plan, WT 125: From the Panhandle to the World.

To be sure, loyalty and trust are the heart and soul of the Texas Panhandle. I am betting my career on it.

Walter V. Wendler is President of West Texas A&M University. His reflections are available at http://walterwendler.com/.

They say love knows no language

Nicholas Basila Haley, a son of Lebanese parents, was a student at the University of Texas in Austin. He did not know a word of Arabic. Kawssar Marie Chammaa, a dark-haired Damascus girl, did not know a word of English. But in 1971 when Kawssar made a visit to San Antonio, Nicholas was there, and they not only became acquainted, they fell instantly in love with each other.

"We did not speak, but we communicated," Nicholas later explained.

After visiting with Nicholas on several occasions, Kawssar returned home to Damascus, and the couple corresponded by mail. Writing in English, Nicholas had friends translate his letters into Arabic. "Of course," Nicholas acknowledged, "I didn't have any idea of what they said after my friends translated them."

Kawssar had a similar problem. Her letters, written in Arabic, had to be translated into English. But Syrian girls could not speak openly of love. She could not share her feelings even with her best friend who did the translating. So Kawssar's letters spoke only of dayvignettes tales of the old west by george u. hubbard to-day things.

The two lovers must have said the right things, however, for Kawssar returned to San Antonio the following year, and the two were married in the St. George Maronite Catholic Church. About 400 guests attended the ceremony which was performed both in English and in Arabic. The songs were sung in Aramaic. During the reception, the newly-weds simply looked at each other and smiled.

"In Damascus, we say love knows no language," Kawssar explained.

Some plane talk about batteries

Jerks and others of assorted intellects were jolted by a recent piece of news that is bound to reach front pages sooner than later.

It's one thing to consider the Energizer Bunny, hear commercials challenging us to "start something," and marvel at the growing list of battery-powered mechanisms.

Most of us may have self-inflicted knee-jerk injuries, what with said knees jerking all the way up to our chins. There are bound to be new twists on an old theory, like "If God had intended planes to fly on batteries, He would have created charging stations at 35,000 feet." And it's weird to think that someday, planes' price tags will include the reminder that batteries are not included....

Petroleum-peddling companies may "harrumph" at this news, warning about the dangers of battery failure. What if someone leaves cabin lights on overnight? What if mice chow down on the wiring?

"How do they know the amount of remaining power needed to reach the next airport?" wonders my aged Uncle Mort. "With gasoline, they at least know how much remains in the tank."

He has numerous other questions, such as how much power can be expected from batteries in sub-zero weather and/or how well they'll hold up in lightning strikes? Further, what if all passengers decide to plug in their phone chargers at the same time?...

*****

What irony! As Americans grow up, ever larger - airlines have proposed making seats even smaller. "They're going to cram us in like sardines," one flyer said.

"If one passenger gets a shock from a battery-powered engine, everyone on the aircraft will be doomed."

We're passing on boatloads of problems for our grandchildren to deal with.

In all of this, keep in mind that several airlines - including United and Alaska - have signed pacts to decrease greenhouse gas emissions. These two airlines are cited because of their vows to have "net zero carbon emissions" long-term. Imagine "net zero emissions," thus ending vapor trails....

the idle american by don newbury

All the hubbub about serious - or fatal - shocks resulting from implementation of the proposed new propulsion is likely to increase, since most aviation experts figure we may be a decade away from implementation of batteries.

Current prototypes are the size of buses, weighing several thousand pounds. (And battery power for 777 aircraft isn't even on the drawing boards yet.)

This points to eventual mandates for Americans to get rid of "personal poundage." We may be required to go to great lengths to avoid great widths....

This discourse about electrical shock brings to mind the story about a woman who finally realized a lifetime ambition. Quite simply, it was to visit

San Francisco, highlight of the trip being a ride on the long-popular trolley. She flew to Frisco without event. All went well on her flight. (She is delighted about the smooth, pleasant journey, realizing, though, that it offers little to "beef up" her usual pessimistic view of things.)

Her good fortune continued as she waited only a few minutes for a cab to take her to a trolley stop.

As she approached the trolley, however, her "worst fears" came into play. She feared that if her foot should touch the rail, she might suffer electrocution. She hailed down a young Californian who was about to get on the trolley, asking, "If my foot accidentally touches the rail, could I be electrocuted?" Smiling, he answered, "Ma'am, I don't think you have a thing to worry about unless you swing your other leg over that wire up there," pointing to a cable strung a dozen feet overhead....

*****

Finally, this yarn: A co-pilot, new to the crew, is strapping himself into harness for the upcoming flight. Next to him is the pilot, already seated, muttering, "Steady, Dave Martin. You can do it, Dave Martin. Our passengers are counting on you, Dave Martin."

The new guy said, "Captain, I appreciate your suggestions, but my name is NOT Dave Martin."

"I know that," the captain responds. "Mine is."....

The Sweetheart reported on the high school girls basketball schedule and said the FFA kids will be in area competitions in Canyon this week.

Lion Corey Blais reported on the college basketball teams and the upcoming Thanksgiving break.

Lion Jacob Fangman reported on the city with grant-funded projects starting soon. He also reported fundraising efforts of the Donley County Community Fund and said Lions will be serving hot chocolate again during the Courthouse Lighting on November 26.

The Boss Lion reported that the county made it through the election cycle with no issues. He also congratulated Troop 433's six new Eagle Scouts.

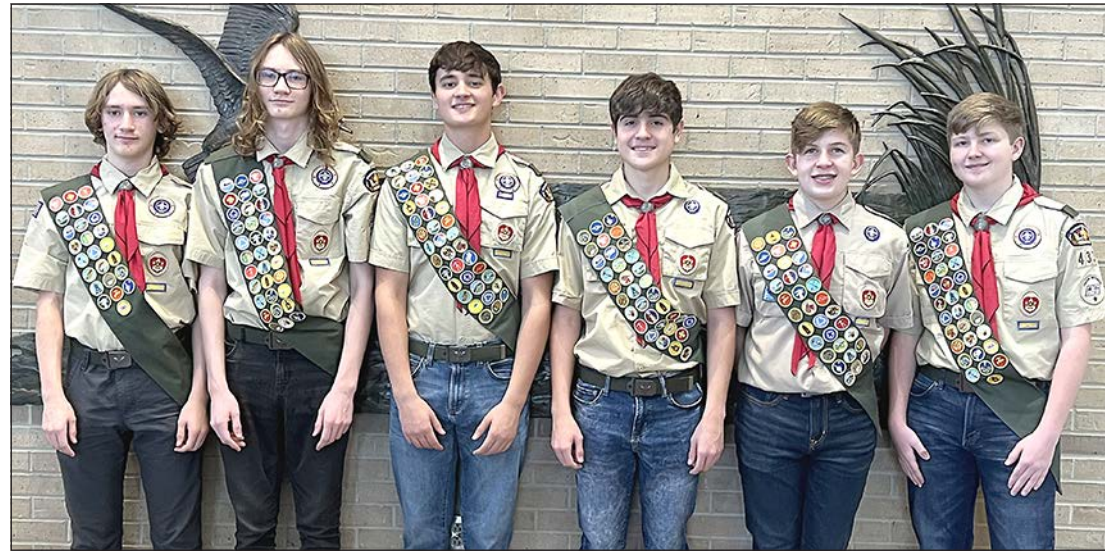

Lion Bobbie Thornberry thanked those responsible for setting out and taking up flags for Veterans Day.

Lion Larry Capranica reminded everyone of the Community Thanksgiving Service this coming Sunday at the First Baptist Church at 6 p.m., and Lion Roger Estlack reported the Community Thanksgiving Lunch will be next Thursday, November 24, at 11 a.m. at the school cafeteria. Lion Anndria Newhouse said organizers are looking for donations of desserts for that meal.

We were also reminded of the Toys for Joy drive currently going on. The Lions' project will place a toy in the hands of every elementary student in Donley County. Donations of toys and/or money are still needed to make this a reality. Toys can be donated at Lowe's Family Center, the Clarendon CISD Administration Building, Brake Time, the Enterprise, and the Visitor Center. Money can be donated at the Enterprise.

Lion Mary Green reported on an effort to take a group of senior citizens for dinner and a show in Amarillo. The club donated to the transportation fund for that effort, but more funds are needed. The club also voted to support the junior livestock show again.

Thanksgiving cookies were presented to those in attendance courtesy of First Lady Tonya Lambert. Thank you, Tonya!

Haughton Bivens, Henry Bivens, Daniel Estlack, Mason Allred, Ben Estlack, and Koltyn Shields passed their Boards of Review Sunday afternoon in Pampa and were all officially recognized as Eagle Scouts, attaining scouting's highest rank.

Friends reach highest goal in Scouting

Over the past ten years, a group of my friends and I have been working our way through Scouting, starting when we were in the first grade.

We worked our way through the ranks of Cub Scouts, and then we got our Arrow of Light and moved up into Boy Scouts. Now after many years of work and fun, my friends and I have achieved the final rank of Eagle Scout.

This had been one of the most amazing experiences of my life, and I've loved every moment of it. I am still going to stay active in scouting, but this is one of the pinnacle achievements of my life.

There is no doubt in my mind that this will be one of the most memorable experiences of my entire life. I would like to thank everyone who has helped me throughout my entire scouting career and especially with my Eagle Scout project. I truly appreciate everyone's help, and I plan to keep giving back to my community through Scouting.

Broncos roll Gruver; Bi-District Champs

By Sandy Anderberg

The Broncos (8-3) earned the Bi-District trophy with a huge win over the Gruver Greyhounds last Friday in Amarillo's Dick Bivins Stadium.

The 47-20 win put them well on the road to mid-December playoff games. The Broncos will play Ralls in the Area round on November 18 in Tulia at 7:00 p.m.

Once again, senior Jmaury Davis took control of the Broncos' running game and left Gruver stunned as to how to stop him. Davis accumulated 276 yards on 15 carries and turned his efforts into four touchdowns. He was also responsible for the first score of the game, which is something the team is accustomed to, taking it in from 48 yards out on the second play of the game.

"That's always our plan," coach Clint Conkin said. "Jmaury does a great job and runs the ball hard every time. The kids feed off him when he gets going early."

Davis struck again early in the second quarter on a 59-yard run that gave the Broncos a 20-6 halftime lead. Also playing solid as usual was Lyric Smith who had 10 carries for 56 yards and a touchdown, and Wilson Ward who went 37 yards on six carries. Harrison Howard was back at the helm after an ankle injury and hit Smith, his favorite receiver, three times for 93 yards and two scores.

As strong as they were offensively, the Broncos played spot-on defense and handled Gruver somewhat easily on allowing them 20 points. The defensive line succeeded in holding the Greyhounds when they needed to and made stops when they needed to.

Smith played solid and finished with 13 tackles and one interception and Mason Sims posted eight tackles and two interceptions. Colton Benson and Jared Musick had eight tackles each, and Anthony Ceniceris grabbed seven tackles.

Lady Broncos' defeat Happy

By Sandy Anderberg

The Lady Broncos played hard against the Happy Cowgirls and walked off the court with a one-point win at 34-33. They were able to shoot 63 percent from the free throw to aid in the win.

The Lady Broncos had a great start and held a seven-point lead going into the final eight minutes. The Cowgirls hit four three-pointers to come back, but time was on the side of the Lady Broncos, and they were able to get the win.

Baylee Gable and Hayden Elam put in eight points each, and Makenna Shadle added six. Courtlyn Conkin and Kenidee Hayes added four apiece, Finley Cunningham had three, and Graci Shadle added one.

Later in the week, the ladies went against Childress and suffered a one-point loss in overtime at 42-43. A slow start gave the Lady Bobcats a slight lead early on, but the Lady Broncos came back strong to take the lead after three quarters of play. Foul trouble plagued the ladies with two players fouling out. Childress hit two three-pointers in the fourth quarter to tie the score at 42 all and they managed a free throw in the overtime period to take the game.

Cunningham hit three three-pointers for nine and Gabel added nine as well. Shadle had seven, Conkin and Elam had six each, Berkley Moore finished with three, and Hayes had two.

The ladies will be at Claude November 22.

Lady Bronco JV grabs two wins

The Lady Bronco junior varsity jumped all over the Happy Cowgirls from the beginning and settled in for a 61-10 win.

Clarendon held Happy scoreless in the first quarter and only allowed two points at the break. Their solid defense stifled the Cowgirls' attempt at getting anything going in the entire game. They were able to make three three-pointers and go 60 percent from the free throw line.

Four players finished in double figures. Gracie Clark and Gracie Ellis led all scorers with 12 points apiece, and Presley Smith and Kimbrasia Ballard put in 11 points each. Kashlyn Conkin ended with seven, Elliot Frausto had four, and Madi Benson and Millie McAnear put in two points each.

The ladies then defeated Childress 45-25 executing the same game plan with fundamental play on both ends of the court. Despite a slow start, the ladies regained control and the lead to put some distance between them and the Lady Bobcats. They were able to take care of business to get the win with Conkin putting in 11 points to lead the way.

Smith had nine, Clark and Ellis put in six, Ballard had five, and Benson and McAnear had four each.

"We started out slow, but we had a fantastic 2nd and 3rd quarter," coach Kasey Bell said. "We did a good job executing plays to get some momentum."
