State okays $18 million for Greenbelt project

The Texas Water Development Board last week approved more than $18 million for a new water supply project for the Greenbelt Municipal and Industrial Water Authority.

The board approved the financial assistance by resolution at its meeting April 6 in Austin. The package consists of $8.11 million in financing and $10 million in principal forgiveness, from the Drinking Water State Revolving Fund (DWSRF).

The $8.11 million in financing will be issued in bonds. If approved by the city council, Clarendon would bear the cost of about six percent of that.

Greenbelt General Manager Bobbie Kidd said the funds will be used to develop 2,800 acres of groundwater rights the water authority acquired in northern Donley County in 2017.

The water authority has been working for two years to obtain funding for the project and came close to acquiring the funds last August from a different program.

"We actually scored 14th out of about 165 projects in August," Kidd said, "but they ran out of funds with number 13. That's when we changed and applied through DWSRF."

Greenbelt Water Authority provides water to Clarendon, Hedley, Childress, Quanah, and Crowell using both the lake and groundwater sources. As of Tuesday, the level of Lake Greenbelt is 37.92 feet and is currently at about 11 percent of its capacity.

Funding for the project received favorable attention from state authorities in part because all five communities are considered to be economically disadvantaged, Kidd said.

"These people (on the water development board) are really good," Kidd said. "It's not political. It's all based on need."

In addition to the loan forgiveness, Greenbelt could save approximately $2,400,000 over the life of the loan by using the DWSRF.

With the financial assistance approved last week, Greenbelt will construct three water wells, well field piping, electrical distribution equipment, and a 12-mile transmission line to transport water to its existing water treatment plant.

The TWDB is the state agency charged with collecting and disseminating water-related data, assisting with regional water and flood planning, and preparing the state water and flood plans.

The TWDB administers cost-effective financial assistance programs for the construction of water supply, wastewater treatment, flood control, and agricultural water conservation projects.

Those wishing to help this family out during this stressful time are asked to contact the banks to contribute to one of these funds.

Christ's Kids taking donations for meals

The Christ's Kids Ministry is accepting donations to help cover the cost of its summer meal program.

The ministry provides lunches for local kids five days a week during the summer, but the program costs about $10,000 to operate. Those interested in helping with this expense can call Ted Shaler at 806-277-0562.

Constable files suit over county salary

Precinct 3&4 Constable Randy Bond has filed legal action against the Donley County Commissioners' Court seeking a "reasonable salary" for his office.

Commissioners Mark White, Daniel Ford, Neil Koetting, and Dan Sawyer along with County Judge John Howard were all served Monday during the regular commissioners' court meeting following a petition for a writ of mandamus that was filed with the clerk's office on March 27.

"Randy Bond believes he has not gotten a fair shake, so he's sued the judge and the commissioners individually in their official capacities," County Attorney Landon Lambert said.

Lambert has agreed to represent the defendants through his private law firm. A county attorney is not obligated to get involved in disputes between elected officials, Lambert said, and the same goes for attorneys through the Texas Association of Counties.

"We will defend the county's actions vigorously, and we hope eventually all parties can come together and deal with this respectfully," Lambert said.

According to the suit, the Precinct 3&4 constable previously earned "roughly $22,000" but the latest budget puts that salary at "roughly $2,000." Bond is asking the district court to require the county to set a reasonable salary.

The constable's job became vacant when former constable Doug Wright resigned in January 2021. Commissioners took no action to fill the vacancy, and Bond ran for the office and was elected in November 2022. He then took the oath of office in January to fill the remaining two years of Wright's term.

This is not the first time Donley County has faced a legal challenge to a constable's salary. Jimmy Swinney sued the county in 2001 after he ran for the Precinct 1&2 Constable's position in 2000, becoming the first person to hold that office since 1978. Swinney later resigned, and the county formally closed that office in 2003.

Howardwick man in jail for burglary and assault

A Howardwick man is facing charges after breaking into an Airbnb and threatening guests with a hammer early Monday.

Jeremy Kindle, age 42, is charged with Burglary of a Habitation with intent to commit Aggravated Assault with a Deadly Weapon, Donley County Sheriff Butch Blackburn said.

The sheriff said Kindle broke into the Airbnb located on Ten Bears Trail in Howardwick and came at a Jacksboro couple staying there with a hammer. One of the guests began recording video with her cellphone, and the other grabbed a rifle and held Kindle at bay until authorities could arrive, Blackburn said.

As the deputy arrived, the subject fled on foot. Sheriff Blackburn arrived on the scene, and the lawmen soon found the man in a nearby residence. He was taken into custody and booked into the Donley County Jail.

Kindle was arraigned Tuesday by Justice of the Peace Pat White with on charges of Burglary of a Habitation and Aggravated Assault with total bond set at $40,000.

He was still in jail at press time.

Cowgirl magazine names Petry to '30 Under 30' list

Christy Petry of Clarendon has been named to Cowgirl magazine's fourth annual "30 Under 30" list of influential women in the Western industry.

Petry was honored with the Class of 2023 in Fort Worth the weekend of March 10, 2023, at the second annual Wrangler COWGIRL 30 Under 30 Empowered Gala at Hotel Drover in the historic Stockyards. Among invited guests will be alumna from previous 30 Under 30 classes, as well as family, friends, and industry leaders who support the annual program.

Cowgirl wrote of Petry: "One hat, two hats, red hats, blue hats, but always cowgirl hats! Dr. Christy Petry wears many different hats, and sometimes multiple hats in the same day. She wears a coaching hat during weekly practices with her Texas Elite youth horse judging teams, her Doctorate hat to lecture in the Ag Business & Economics classrooms at West Texas A&M University, her sales hat every day for Kimes Ranch, and her rodeo hat when carrying flags at major rodeos.

"Some days she wears a straw hat when working in the branding pen and on special days you can find her under the arena lights showing a horse, managing the show, or judging horses under the brim of a nice clean felt hat! No matter the cowgirl hat Christy chooses to wear, she does it with a passion for excellence and the western lifestyle.

"She has coached several National Champion Youth horse judging teams as well as helped coached the 2021 AQHA World Show Champion collegiate horse judging team at Texas Tech University. Christy enjoys traveling and serving the needs of western wear stores throughout Texas and attending the Dallas Marketplace representing Kimes Ranch and western style."

In describing her vision for the future of women in the Western industry, Petry told Cowgirl: "The world has always painted an idyllic picture of women in the west. Annie Oakley packed a punch with her pistol, but the reality of women in the

Rusty stays on his watch faithfully

They generally give us the benefit of the doubt even when we are dead wrong, wagging their tails while licking the hands that feed them.

One doesn't have to look very far into literature or incline their ears to very many songs to hear dogs revered by the masses but reviled by some who have no use for them.

Elvis Presley reminded some canines that they were "nothing but hound dogs," and an expression from the lips of thoughtless people suggests that some situations "shouldn't happen to a dog."....

the idle american by don newbury

A canine defender compared dogs with cats. "When owners say 'sit' to their dogs, they usually sit. Extend the same command to a cat, and the pet responds that it'll 'get back with us later.'"

We who admit to being dog fanciers - and the same is probably true for feline owners - feel strongly about our choices. Reasons do not have to be given from either quarter.

Truth to tell, we don't have dogs; they have us....

All this aside, dogs assist the living in many critical ways. Think about it, you never hear about "drug-sniffing cats." And don't expect even the most muscular cat to join a dogsled team.

Thanks to the inquiring mind of Sharon Grigsby, brilliant DALLAS MORNING NEWS journalist, we learn that at least one dog assists the dead as well.

His name is Rusty, and he's found his place in life. Instead of a junkyard dog, he's a graveyard canine who chooses to wander around the 27,000 resting places on the 48-acre Oakland Cemetery, where dirt was first turned in 1892....

Rusty and a pack of four other dogs wandered into the historic south Dallas cemetery some three years ago. Almost immediately, animal control personnel rounded up the animals, sans Rusty.

For more than six months, they tried repeatedly to capture Rusty, but he fell for none of their enticements. They set up video cameras and traps - not to mention his favorite treats - and nothing worked.

Finally, Rusty's file became inactive....

He has become a celebrity dog, says Monica Newbury (no relation). "Vets are offering free services, and visitors to the cemetery are bringing treats by the truckload," Monica said.

She warns, however, that Rusty gets along just fine without cuddling or petting, sometimes growling so folks will keep their distance. He not only roams the premises, but also barks when anyone enters the cemetery....

Several have offered to adopt the 60-pound collie mix, but no dice. The doggy in the window has a price; Rusty is not for sale.

The old cemetery has fallen on hard times, and it's hard to keep up with volunteer help.

A gift of cash or pledge to work honors Rusty and is invaluable to a storied cemetery. Interred there are numerous state representatives, eight mayors, a senator and numerous other luminaries. Many markers have names synonymous with street signs in Dallas and Highland Park....

Others include the founding president of Dallas Power and Light (now TXU). Two recently-discovered granite markers - 6-feet tall and 10-feet wide - mark resting places of persons who provided major funding for the establishment of Children's Medical Center in Dallas.

The graves were obscured by brush and brambles back in 2019, when the cemetery board declared bankruptcy, clearing the way for a new beginning. Monica and Armando Gonzalez Jr. work part-time to organize burials, meet family needs, keep records and maintain the grounds. They urge folks to visit the cemetery, and to bring along weed-eaters when they come.

Persons helping are honoring the deceased and paying tribute to a unique service dog. Monica and Armando hope visitors will at least get sight of Rusty, working until they are, well, dog-tired....

Dr. Newbury was a longtime university president. He has written columns of humor and inspiration since 2003, and still is an after-dinner speaker throughout Texas. Contact: 817-447-3872. Email: newbury@speakerdoc.com. Facebook: Don Newbury

Recollections of a zephyr hitting Zephyr

The book about Zephyr calls it a cyclone. Today, we would call it a tornado. But "zephyr" is also an appropriate name for the windstorm that wreaked havoc in Zephyr, Texas, on May 29, 1909.

It was 11:45 on a Saturday night. The Presbyterians had just finished an old-fashioned ice cream supper. The Masonic lodge had just adjourned from its meeting. Friends were gathered at Monte Hicks' home singing hymns and playing "42." Then pandemonium suddenly broke loose.

Arthur Quirl jumped into his buggy and raced to Brownwood, twelve miles away, to summon help. Some other men commandeered a railroad hand car and beat Quirl to Brownwood. A few hours later a rescue train arrived in Zephyr with food, ice, clothing, doctors, nurses, and grave diggers.

Personal experiences of several survivors are chronicled in the book, Zephyr Yesterday and Today. Here is a sampling.

"The roar awoke Mrs. Hans Cobb. She jumped from bed and ran to their gallery (porch). Realizing they had but little time, she and her husband each grabbed a child and rushed amidst flying timber to the storm cellar of Mr. W. Edward Swart.

vignettes tales of the old west by george u. hubbard

As they closed the door, a rock from the tumbling school building crushed in the door; in another minute the cellar top was blown off. They survived but lost their home."

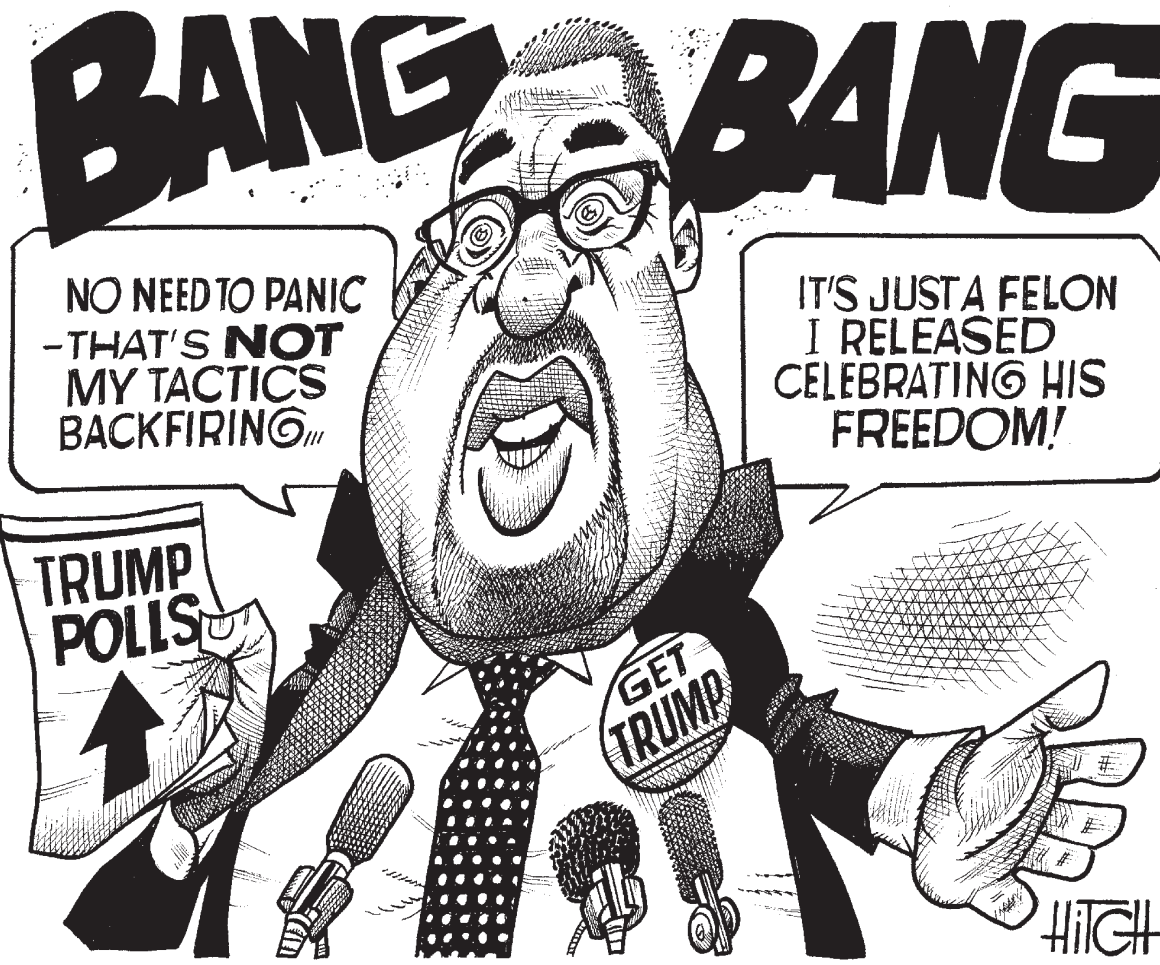

"Ed Reasoner and his wife, Euphie, lost their home. Trying to reach a cellar across the street, time ran out. With their children, ages 1, 3, and 5 years, they clung to a fence. Three posts were uprooted at the site and one of the boys was snatched and carried about 30 feet, but no one was seriously injured."

"Earl Reasoner and his wife, Katie, were awakened by the deafening noise but too late to get out of their home. Her husband grabbed their two year old son, Melton; windows crashed in; the house reeled and rocked. With their child clutched to his chest, Mr. Reasoner was pitched through space. He was later found about 150 yards from his house with his child still in his arms. Mrs. Reasoner was found by A. J. Belvin in the top of a fallen tree wrapped with wire and covered with debris. Despite a broken hip and pelvis, she delivered their second son, McBurney on August 23, 1909 (three months later)."

When the sun came up the next morning, the survivors were able to assess the damage and care better for the dead and injured. Those who were most seriously injured were rushed by train to the Santa Fe hospital in Temple. The dead were gathered onto porches of surviving homes and quilts and blankets were hung to protect the bodies from the sun. Unfortunately, many hogs and pigs were shot because they were devouring some of the dead. And the massive job of cleanup and rebuilding began.

Tragic as it was, it is believed by many that a closer bond existed among the survivors because of the heartache, hardship, and compassion they all shared between families and friends. George U. Hubbard is an author and former resident of Clarendon.

April brings volunteer opportunities

By Catalina Popescu, HHS ASC VISTA and Claire Irwin, HHS Age Well Live Well Coordinator

As April's sun warms us up, it inspires us to put away winter gear, start spring cleaning and seek new opportunities. April is Global Volunteer Month and National Volunteer Week is April 16-22, which gives us a chance to recognize the important role volunteers hold in our communities.

According to AmeriCorps, 4.8 million Texans volunteered through a community based organization and 10.4 million Texans volunteered informally by helping out their neighbors in 2021. April is a great time to join millions of Texans and start volunteering.

Volunteering helps the community, residents and the volunteer. An AmeriCorps research review found that volunteering is shown to lead to better health overall. Along with the satisfaction you get from helping others and your community, there are many reasons to volunteer, including community organizations need volunteers. Consider reaching out to a community organization that is meaningful to you and asking if they need any volunteers.

If you are interested in volunteering but are not sure how to get started, consider these questions:

What are your hobbies, interests and special skills? Identifying what you are interested in can help you figure out what organization or population you would like to volunteer with.

How much time do you have to give? This will help you decide how often you can volunteer.

Are you looking to volunteer in person or virtually? Many organizations offer virtual volunteer opportunities.

What organizations in your community are looking for volunteers? Volunteer search engines, like Volunteer Match or Points of Light, can help you find volunteer opportunities near you.

Are there any barriers to you to get involved? If it is time, consider a one-time volunteer opportunity, or if transportation is a barrier, explore virtual volunteering.

For those looking for an informal volunteer experience, the Texas Health and Human Services Know Your Neighbor Campaign may be a good fit. The Know Your Neighbor Campaign urges Texans to form and maintain new connections with older neighbors to help reduce the risks of isolation and loneliness.

Know Your Neighbor provides resources to make forming those connections easier. Learn more about Know Your Neighbor on the Be Connected webpage. Explore the volunteering resources on the Aging Well Resources Order form. Enter some basic facts about yourself and then select Volunteerism under the category menu.

Embrace spring by connecting with others, improving your health and giving back to your community by volunteering.

TXDOT urges Texans to give driving their full attention

Distracted driving is on the rise in Texas, and TxDOT is urging all Texans to pay attention on the road.

In an instant, Karin Zaltsman lost her teenaged daughter when a driver made the decision to take their eyes off the road to text while driving. In recognition of National Distracted Driving Awareness Month, TxDOT is sharing the Zaltsman's story of losing 13-year-old Emily, to remind Texans to keep their eyes up and phones down while driving. Described as kind, funny, smart and driven, Emily had her whole life ahead of her, but one driver's decision to text and drive cut her life short.

"Emily didn't die in an accident," said Karin Zaltsman of her late daughter. "Emily died in a crash that could have been prevented."

Emily is one of more than 2,000 people killed due to distracted drivers since 2017. Disturbingly, distracted driving deaths increased by 10 percent in 2022. Approximately one of every six crashes on Texas roadways last year was attributed to distracted driving.

"Distracted driving is a choice, and it has devastating consequences for communities," said TxDOT Executive Director Marc Williams.

"Texting, adjusting audio or navigation systems, or scrolling on a social media site can wait until you're safely parked. We're urging Texans to make the right choice and put the phone away."

Texting while driving is not only incredibly dangerous, it's a crime. Since Sept. 1, 2017, it has been illegal to read, write or send a text while driving in Texas, and violators can face a fine of up to $200.

Distracted driving crashes are 100 percent preventable. TxDOT offers these tips to help drivers steer clear of a potentially deadly situation:

Always give driving your full attention—any distraction is dangerous.

Put your phone away, turn it off or use an app or phone settings to block texts and calls while driving.

Pull off the road entirely and come to a complete stop before you use your phone.

Tell friends, family and coworkers you won't respond to texts or calls while driving.

Avoid eating or drinking until you are parked.

TxDOT's "Talk. Text. Crash." distracted driving awareness campaign is a key component of #EndTheStreakTX, a broader social media and word-of-mouth effort that encourages drivers to make safer choices while behind the wheel to help end the streak of daily deaths. Nov. 7, 2000, was the last deathless day on Texas roadways.

Fun on the way

Work began last week installing a new playground at Clarendon Elementary School. Fundraising efforts for the project were led by the Pony Parents organization.

Golf teammate advancing to regional

Over the past week I have been busy, and so I just would like to talk about some of the things I have been up to.

For starts, the Saturday before last was the Lions Club Chance Mark Jones 5K. Remember, April is Child Abuse Prevention Month, and that's what the race is about.

I helped set up, and I handed out water to the racers. Afterwards, I also was able to help the Pony Parents hide easter eggs for their easter egg hunt.

Then I started last week by competing in our second round of District golf, where I got third on our team, but sadly, I didn't advance. However, one of my

the cub reporter
by benjamin estlack

teammates, Cutter Seay, did advance to regionals so I wish him the best of luck. Then I spent the rest of the week taking tests and doing projects for school.

Last Saturday, I had Easter this weekend with my family and got to spend time hanging out with my cousins and had a lot of fun.

I am super excited for summer to be closing in and I hope that in the meantime I can keep having fun.

B-29 Superfortress "Doc" to visit Amarillo

The Texas Air and Space Museum will welcome the Boeing B-29 Superfortress "Doc" beginning Friday, April 14, through Sunday, April 16.

The aircraft will be on display on Friday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Saturday and Sunday from noon to 5 p.m. The cost to enter the plane is $10 per person or $20 per family. Rides scheduled for Saturday and Sunday mornings begin at $600 and may be booked and purchased through the web site: www.b29doc.com/rides. They include a briefing on the aircraft and a 30-minute flight. The museum will hold a raffle for a ride.

On Saturday, April 15 from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m., the museum will host a Supper and Shindig as a special event to meet the crew. There will be catering by Dyer's Barbeque and music by Geezers Gone Wild. The program will offer a tribute to Korea and Vietnam veterans.

Cost for the Supper and Shindig is $40 for civilians, $35 per person for active or veteran military and guest, and $25 per person for those 21 to 29 years old. There will be a wine and beer cash bar. Tickets are available at Goodin's Jewelry at 3701 Olsen Blvd or through www.eventbrite.com

For reservations or more information, call the museum at 806-335-9159.

The museum is located at 10001 American Drive in the English Field Aviation hangar north of the Bell Helicopter complex at Rick Husband Amarillo International Airport.

Built in Wichita, KS in 1945, the aircraft was used by the U.S. Army Air Corp. After a 10-year career, it was retired to China Like, CA to serve as a target for bomb training where it remained for 42 years. In 1987, Tony Mazzolini found "Doc" and began plans to move it back to Wichita and eventually restore the B-29 warbird to flying status, according to the aircraft web site.

western industry is far different from old, faded photos. Western life has always been one of joys and hardships, and women involved often face the brunt. Traditionally, not only would women be expected to care for their families, but they were expected to help with ranch life as well. As societal roles changed, so has the western ways. As a woman in the western industry myself, I see a future in which I, alongside the countless other strong and capable women, become an even bigger part of the forefront of improvements in the western industry. We bring a unique perspective to the table, and I hope to see a future in which women continue to be crucial part of western lifestyle."

Tips before the hot weather sets in

Few things are as miserable – or as expensive – as a broken air conditioning system that could have been prevented by regular maintenance. Springtime is the perfect time to hire a licensed air conditioning contractor to assess any mechanical issues in your system. Regular maintenance of your system will extend its life and help you avoid expensive health and safety issues.

But before hiring an air conditioning contractor, consumers should check the TDLR website (www.tdlr.texas.gov) to make sure the contractor is licensed by the Texas Department of Licensing and Regulation.

"Hiring a licensed contractor helps ensure the safety of your family and property. Checking whether your technician is licensed is an important step in protecting yourself from shoddy and dangerous work," said TDLR Chief AC/R Inspector Bill Weatherly.

Once you've confirmed that the contractor is licensed through TDLR, here are several things they should be inspecting in your cooling system. At a minimum the contractor should: Check equipment cabinets for damage or missing panels. Check and tighten compressor, fan motor, contractor and control panel terminations.

Check compressor crankcase heater (if applicable) for proper operation. Lubricate condenser fan motor and indoor blower motor bearings (if applicable) Check alignment, tension and condition of indoor blower belt(s) (if applicable) Check and clean condenser coils. Check and clean evaporator coil and condensate drain pan. Add biocide pan tabs to condensate pan. Check air filters and replace as necessary.

Start Indoor Blower and perform static pressure test to ensure proper air flow. Start cooling cycle and check for refrigerant leaks Check system for proper refrigerant charge, trim charge as necessary.

Make operating log of all temperatures, pressures, voltages, and amperages. Submit a written report to the customer and report any uncorrected deficiencies.

Broncos annihilate Memphis

By Sandy Anderberg

The Broncos used a great start and two big innings in the middle of the game to easily sweep Memphis last week. The Broncos won 22-4 and racked up 16 hits in the game.

Wilson was on the mound and took the win. He for three innings before Lyric Smith came in as relief. While on the mound, Ward allowed only two hits, zero runs, and struck out two batters. Smith racked up good numbers in the fourth and fifth innings and struck out four.

Harrison Howard was on fire for the Broncos and four hits in his four at-bats. Howard, who took control of Clarendon's offense early doubled in the first, singled in the third and fifth, and doubled in the fourth scoring three runs with four RBIs. Jared Musick and Easton Frausto each made a statement at the plate as well. Musick hit the lone Bronco homerun of the game in the opening inning and Frausto was good for three hits, three runs, and one RBI. Ward and Mason Sims hit the ball well and finished with three runs each and three RBIs respectively.

The Broncos would score two more runs in the fifth to put the game away and had four stolen bases in the five innings.

The Broncos played a tough Nazareth team on Thursday that ended in a disappointing loss to the Swifts at 5-6. The Broncos were up by three in the fifth but allowed Naz to score big in the sixth on an error to take the lead for good. Howard took the loss for the Broncos in his six innings on the mound. He allowed six hits, six runs, and struck out six. Harper came in to finish the game and struck out two batters on 18 total pitches.

The Broncos outfit the Swifts at the plate seven to six but left eight men on base in the game. Howard and Tyler Harper had two hits apiece with Harper posting two RBIs. The Broncos ran the bases well, but only marked four stolen bases, which is on the low side of the Broncos' average.

The Broncos will face off against Valley at home on April 14 at 4:00 p.m. and travel to Wellington April 18 with the first pitch at 4:30 p.m.

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

...that are at risk or may go extinct.

Kids: color stuff in!

Do you know what the word 'extinct' means? When we say an animal is extinct, we mean that there are none left!

Animals and plants have disappeared through natural causes such as storms, volcanic eruptions or diseases. Some animals have been wiped out because people were hungry and killed them for food before they had a chance to replace their populations. Animals may be threatened by loss of their homes or by sprays used to kill pesky insects. Some are hunted for their furs or horns. When numbers of these animals drop so low that they may become extinct, we call them 'endangered' and may work to protect them.

- Fill in the puzzle with some animals that are at risk:
- Arctic; melting ice threatens their habitat
 - hunted for furs and food; found only in Vietnam; looks like an antelope, in same family as the cow
 - Florida; swampy homes drained; hunted for skins, food
 - few small groups left in mountainous bamboo forests of China
 - large gentle animals in African jungles; not enough room for gathering food, raising families; killed for body parts
 - followed by fishermen seeking tuna; drown in nets; now companies support ways to fish that do not kill needlessly
 - Africa, Asia; poachers kill them for their horns
 - beautiful cat of India, Russia; killed for skin or fur
 - ocean animal; largest animal in world; hunted
 - giant lizard; very few left

The Discovery Center to host special storytime

Visitors are encouraged to come in their pj's to "Drop Everything and Read" at DHDC.

Amarillo, TX - The Discovery Center is participating in National Drop Everything and Read (DEAR) Day on Wednesday, April 12 with public programming included in general admission or DHDC membership.

DHDC will host a special storytime at 10:30 am and bring out various animals for guests to interact with. Their goal is to help promote how important literacy is in the world. Providing a hands-on, collaborative space for visitors at all learning levels and educational interest is a major part of the literacy initiatives and elements that the Discovery Center has started. With the opening of their exhibit the Literacy Corner and their weekly program Storytime at DHDC, the Discovery Center has been purposeful in working towards this goal.

The Discovery Center is working diligently to increase access to literacy resources in the community and to bridge the gap in educational achievement existing in vulnerable communities.

Literacy has been shown to impact many aspects of life. Populations with higher literacy rates have also shown higher economic productivity, lower healthcare costs, and even lower levels of involvement with the justice system.

Follow The Discovery Center on Facebook and Instagram for more information.
