Hedley City Hall temporarily shut

Hedley City Hall is temporarily closed following the resignation of City Secretary Tammy Brinson last Friday.

Mayor Pro-Tem Jennifer Floyd said Brinson quit due to a lack of appreciation by the citizens and said that residents can take payments to the office of Justice of the Peace Pat White in Hedley.

Floyd also said the city is working on getting things ready for the upcoming election in May and said Howardwick City Secretary Sandy Childress is no longer helping with that process.

The mayor pro-tem said she understands citizens want results but said it's going to take the city a long time to recover from the difficulties it has faced over the last year.

Hedley is taking applications for a new city secretary, and those can be turned into City Hall after 5:30 p.m. on weekdays when Floyd is there.

City moves forward with water study

The Clarendon City Council met in a called session Wednesday, March 20, with a short agenda.

Ground Water Feasibility Study information was presented by OJD Engineering. The city has contracted with OJD as it explores the option of developing an independent municipal water system separate from the Greenbelt Water Authority system.

A motion was made by Alderman McIntosh and seconded by Alderman Floyd to continue the testing needed for the Ground Water Feasibility Study and Additional Information provided by OJD Engineering not to exceed the original amount of $50,000. The motion carried unanimously. Aldermen Larry Jeffers and John Lockhart were absent.

The council approved a motion to amend the Librarian Job Description to part-time, and aldermen also approved purchasing three computers from Westgate Computers for the library staff for $2,560.

In council comments, Alderman McIntosh brought up the increase in Rural America Suicides and wanted to get information out about help that is available.

CCISD holds town hall on bonds

About 40 citizens attended a town hall last Thursday, March 28, to learn more about Clarendon CISD's $11.7 million bond election coming up on the May 4 ballot.

Superintendent Jarod Bellar welcomed those in attendance and said whether they were for or against the bond or just wanted more information, he appreciated them taking the time to be there. He then went over several accomplishments that Clarendon CISD students have had academically and in a wide range of competitions.

On May's ballot, Proposition A will seek $1.8 million for safety and security upgrades and the school as well as two new buses. Proposition B would fund $6.9 million in improvements at Bronco Stadium including accessibility improvements, new home and visitor bleachers, a new press box, and $3.3 to 3.5 million for a new field house and to renovate restrooms and the concession stand. Proposition C would provide $3 million for a new vocational ag building.

Bellar addressed each proposition briefly. He said the security improvements to the high school are to control access to the building but said the school does not yet know what that will look like. He said the field house and the ag building were both built in 1961 and need improvements. He also noted that Proposition C was broken out of Proposition A so that landowners who had expressed concerns at earlier meetings would know their voices had been heard. Improvements to the stadium, by law according to the seating capacity of the stadium, had to be a separate proposition.

Officials with Live Oak Financial discussed an estimated 32-cent tax rate that would be necessary to pay off the bonds over a 30-year period. A tax calculator has been posted at www.clarendoncisd-bond2024.com to help property owners determine what the impact would be on their own tax bills. As an example, a $150,000 home would pay about $160 per year more in taxes.

Several citizens asked questions ranging from the interest rate on the bond to how long the school has to spend the bond money. The answers were about four percent and within three years. Citizens also asked for more detailed information on the improvements but were told the school had to be careful being too specific. Drawings of improvements, for example, won't be done until the bond passes and there is money to pay the architect. Officials did say the new field house would include dressing rooms, restrooms, offices for coaches, and possibly a changing room for officials.

An alternative bid might also give the possibility of a new weightroom. They said the new bleachers would be similar to the metal systems seen in towns like Floydada, and they also said if there were funds left over, they could be used to make repairs to the rock wall around the stadium.

School officials said they hope to have more town hall meetings in the future. Howardwick City Hall said Tuesday that school officials will be present at their town hall meeting April 16 at 5 p.m. to speak following remarks by county officials about a proposed sales tax district.

OKC man arrested following gunfight

An Oklahoma man is facing two felony charges after exchanging gun fire with the Donley County Sheriff and a Carson County Deputy near Goodnight last Wednesday, March 27.

Donley County Sheriff Butch Blackburn said his office received a 911 call from a motorist who had been told by the subject that he had several weapons and was going to use them to harm himself and others.

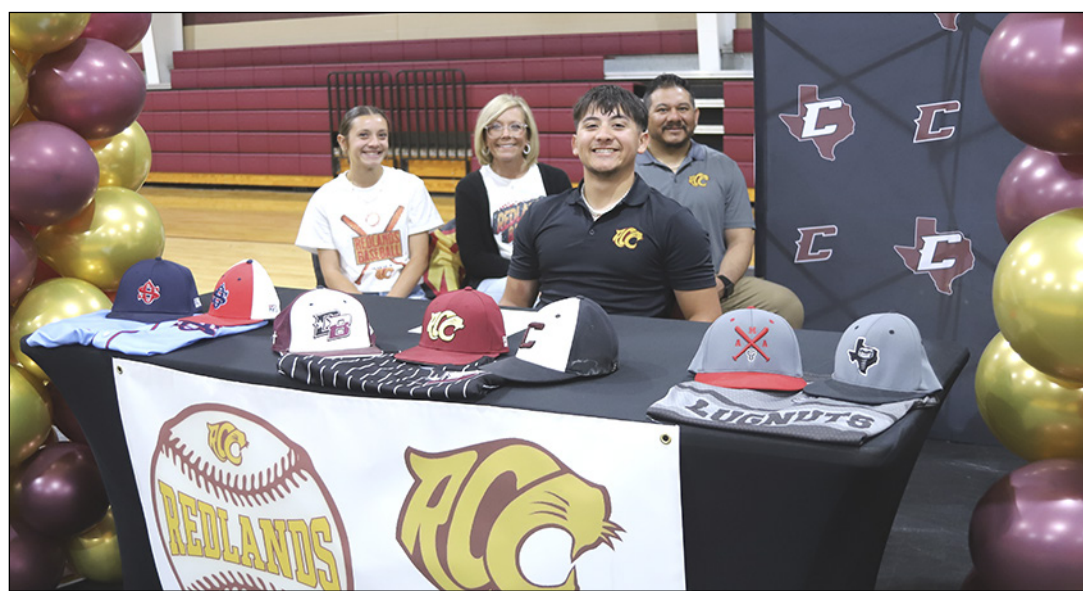

The subject, later identified as 50-year-old William Earl Dance from Oklahoma City, was at the eastbound rest area near Goodnight at the time of the call. Donley County notified Armstrong County, and an Armstrong deputy responded to the scene. Sheriff Blackburn was headed toward Goodnight in case the subject left the rest area and continued east when the Armstrong dispatcher reported their deputy was being shot at.

The Armstrong deputy fell back to block eastbound traffic, and as Blackburn drove past the rest area, Dance shot at his patrol vehicle. The sheriff circled back and took a position in the entrance of the rest area as Dance continued to fire at traffic. Blackburn fired at the subject and was soon joined by Carson County Deputy J.C. Blackburn.

As Blackburn and Blackburn continued to exchange fire with Dance, Donley County Deputies blocked the westbound US 287 traffic, and a DPS trooper arrived on the scene. Dance soon surrendered and was placed under arrest by Deputy Blackburn and the state trooper while other law enforcement kept the subject under gunpoint.

Dance was booked into the Carson County Jail, which houses Armstrong County inmates, and was later arraigned by Armstrong Justice of the Peace Jana Lemons on two counts of Aggravated Assault with a Deadly Weapon Against a Public Servant, and bond was set for a total of $170,000.

The Texas Rangers are assisting Armstrong County with the investigation of the case.

CASA focuses on families to help end abuse of kids

April is National Child Abuse Prevention Month, and CASA of the High Plains is raising awareness of the need for more dedicated members of the community to step up and become CASA volunteers, and help end child abuse and neglect, through supporting children and their families.

CASA volunteers, or Court Appointed Special Advocates, are everyday people from all walks of life who are recruited and specially trained to advocate for children in foster care and provide a consistent, reliable adult presence for them during a difficult time in their life.

"Our volunteers' first priority is to keep families together whenever safe and possible," said Alissha Jeffers, executive director of CASA of the High Plains. "Foster care is only a temporary solution to the problems at hand. We need to create long term support networks that work to care for families, make reunification a possibility, and help break the cycle for the next generation."

CASA volunteers are assigned to one child or sibling group to advocate for their best interest in court, in school and in other settings. They get to know the child and everyone involved in their life, such as their parents and other family members, foster parents, therapists, caseworkers and teachers, in order to develop a realistic picture of the child's unique situation. They engage those important to the child and family in order to build a network of support around them, so that the family has access to support and resources after the case ends. They make recommendations to the judge overseeing the child's case, with the goal of ensuring that the child is safe and the family has the resources, support and healthy relationships needed to heal.

Locally, CASA of the High Plains served 86 children in the foster care system in Donley, Gray, Hansford, Hemphill, Lipscomb, Ochiltree, Roberts, and Wheeler Counties in 2023, which means there are still 11 children who need someone to advocate for them. This April, consider stepping up to make a difference by becoming a CASA volunteer.

When reunification is not a possibility for the children they serve, CASA volunteers work to find others that can provide a positive, healthy and loving environment. These can include relatives, friends or other adults that are important in the child's life—keeping a child connected to their home community.

CASA of the High Plains would like to extend our gratitude to the City of Clarendon, Mayor Pro Tem Larry Jeffers and City Council for signing a proclamation declaring April, Child Abuse Prevention Month in Clarendon and for their support for CASA of the High Plains.

April is National Child Abuse Prevention Month. If you see abuse, report it to 1 (800) 252-5400 or go to www.txabusehotline.org. If a child's life is in danger, call 911. For more information on CASA, visit BecomeCASA.org or 806-669-7638.

State of the Union theatrics

On March 7, 2024, President Joe Biden gave his third official State of the Union Address to Congress where he used his time to criticize his predecessor, talk about border security and tout his economic successes.

As has become tradition, Biden invited several guests to sit with the First Lady in her viewing box. When this tradition first began the guest list was small, but it has grown exponentially.

The State of the Union is more about political theater than substance. This past year Biden invited 20 guests, all of whom in some ways related to the subjects of his speech. Historically speaking, while the guest lists have grown, this practice was started differently—and by one of the greatest showmen of all time.

The State of the Union is as old as the Constitution, which in Article II, Section 3, Clause 1 states the president must periodically “give to the Congress Information of the State of the Union, and recommend to their Consideration such Measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient.”

historically speaking
by dr. james finck

Both George Washington and John Adams delivered their address to a joint session of Congress. However, without the TV coverage these were not political theater and were short in comparison to today where half the time seems to be taken up by one side clapping while the other side scowls. I would say not clapping, but what they do seems more than simply not clapping, it's like sending death rays with their eyes. It's these theatrics that cause many Americans like me to not want to watch these speeches.

Thomas Jefferson saw the State of the Union as too ceremonial and began sending a written address that was read by a clerk—a practice I could get behind. It was not until 1913 that the practice of giving a live performance was reintroduced by Woodrow Wilson but then dropped again until Franklin Roosevelt. FDR, who was a master of political theater not only did live performances, but put them on the radio for everyone to hear. From that point on, most address have been in person, but not all. Jimmy Carter sent in a written address at the end of his presidency. Then, in 1982, Ronald Reagan, “The Great Communicator,” invited Lenny Skutnik to sit next to his wife and started a trend that has lasted until today.

Skutnik was a retired Congressional Budget Office worker who on January 13, 1982, was driving on I-395 heading towards the 14th Street Bridge that crossed over the Potomac River when disaster struck. For kids like me who grew up in the Washington D.C. area, this is an eerie story we all remember and thought about whenever we crossed that bridge.

On that day, Air Florida Flight 90 took off from what is now Reagan Airport headed to Florida when it crashed into the bridge. Of the 79 passengers and crew, only four made it out alive. The plane also hit seven cars on the bridge killing four and injuring four more. Being January, the river had frozen over and blizzardlike conditions made hypothermia a real fear. Any rescue attempts would be next to impossible.

Passersby did what they could to try and reach the plane, but the ice was too broken up to walk on and the water too cold to swim. A few still tried but were forced to come back and just yell at survivors to hold on.

The weather also made it difficult for rescue vehicles to reach the accident, especially now with gridlock traffic in both directions. Fortunately, a rescue helicopter finally arrived. Most surviving passengers made their way to the tail of the plane and one by one survivors plunged into the icy water as the helicopter crew rescued them with a lifeline, dragging him or her to shore. Arland D. Williams caught the line but was still trapped in the wreckage so he passed the line to the flight attendant who was rescued. On the third trip, Williams passed the now two lines to other survivors who were pulled out, but two passengers lost their grips and fell back into the water. The chopper returned and pulled in one, but the other, Priscilla Tirado, was too weak to hold on. At that point, Lenny Skutnik, who was now one of the many onlookers, stripped off his boots and jacket, dove into the water, swam to Tirado and pulled her to safety. By the time the helicopter returned for Williams, the plane had shifted pulling him under.

In response for his heroism, Reagan asked Skutnik to join him a few days later at the State of the Union where Reagan said, “Just two weeks ago, in the midst of a terrible tragedy on the Potomac, we saw again the spirit of American heroism at its finest—the heroism of dedicated rescue workers saving crash victims from icy waters. And we saw the heroism of one of our young government employees, Lenny Skutnik, who, when he saw a woman lose her grip on the helicopter line, dived into the water and dragged her to safety.”

A year later, Reagan invited U.S. Army Sgt. Stephen Trujillo, a medic in the 2nd Ranger Battalion, who “was in the first helicopter to land at the compound held by Cuban forces” during the U.S. invasion of Grenada. With this, a new trend had begun. And, to this day, guests of the president are still known as ‘Lenny Skutniks.’

There does seem to be one difference between Reagan's choice and presidents after. Skutnik and Trujillo were there to highlight American heroism. Most guests today are there to promote their agendas. Case in point: this year's guest, Kate Cox from Texas, whose White House press release said, “has experienced the devastating consequences of state abortion bans and courageously spoke out about her experience.” There was nothing political about Skutnik, other than reinforcing American pride. Today's guests are positioned for very specific reasons of political theater.

Volunteering as foster grandparents

By Emily Dressen, Texas Health and Human Services' Foster Grandparent Program

April is recognized as National Volunteer Month and is dedicated to honoring all volunteers across the nation. From bagging items at a food pantry to spending a Saturday cleaning up a public park, volunteers make a difference in their communities, and we thank them for giving back.

The word volunteer is defined as someone who freely takes part in an enterprise or handles a task. With such a broad definition, the term applies to the thousands of ways people give back every day. A great example of this is the Texas Health and Human Services Commission Foster Grandparent Program.

Through the Foster Grandparent Program, income-eligible Texans ages 55 and older mentor children and youth at elementary schools, Head Start programs, child care centers and juvenile justice facilities, along with boys and girls clubs, libraries and summer camps. Their commitment to the program and the children and youth they serve is unwavering, and their impact can last a lifetime, spanning generations.

One of the Foster Grandparent Program volunteers recently hit a major milestone. On Feb. 16, Willie Piper of Austin celebrated her 30th anniversary as a volunteer with the program. Affectionately called “Grandma,” Piper spent much of her time mentoring youth at the Travis County Juvenile Detention Center. Over the past 30 years, she has served upwards of 50,000 hours and is estimated to have mentored as many as 20,000 youth.

Piper has hundreds of stories to share about the connections she's made, but all of them have one common theme: empowerment. Piper shows love, kindness and empathy to each youth she works with. She is in their corner when no one else is there, offering words of encouragement and giving them hope. The impact of Piper's service is immeasurable, and she has been an inspiration for so many people.

Throughout National Volunteer Month and every month after, we challenge you to serve your community, finding motivation from Piper and other Foster Grandparent Program volunteers.

Interested in becoming a Foster Grandparent volunteer? Visit the Foster Grandparent Program page for more information at <https://www.hhs.texas.gov/about/community-engagement/foster-grandparent-volunteer-program>.

"AND FOR JUST $5999 WE'VE ADDED THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE, THE U.S. CONSTITUTION, THE PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE, LEE GREENWOOD SONG LYRICS AND DELETED THE VERSE ABOUT THE LOVE OF MONEY BEING THE ROOT OF ALL EVIL."

The Brickwood name will live on

The name “Blackwood” has been as closely linked to Southern Gospel Music as ham and eggs to diners, Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz to TV, and Tarzan and Jane to jungle movies. The family has endeared itself to a grateful nation for their renditions of gospel music for some 125 years.

It began when the family started singing in churches in 1934, when the Great Depression had the country in a death grip. In the original group were Roy, his oldest son R.W. and his two brothers, James and Doyle. (Actually, Blackwood music first came from the fiddle of Emmett Blackwood – Roy's dad – in the 1890s.)

There have been many names, including Blackwood Brothers, Blackwood Family and Blackwood Singers. They've all had songs in their hearts, commitment in their souls and remarkable energy as pioneers in Southern Gospel Music. “Southern” is worthy of note; the USA is devoid of Eastern, Northern and Western Gospel Music....

In Branson recently, I chatted with R.W. Blackwood, Jr., who has sung at Pigeon Forge and Branson venues since 1990. He was a lad when his dad and uncles started gaining national renown in the 1940s.

He took leave of his Branson “gig” in November and has been battling COVID and lung trouble.

“I've been singing full-time, mostly on the road, for 60 years,” he said. “Isn't it time for a sabbatical?”...

Thankfully, his lung x-rays show improvement. He credits medical science and heavy-duty prayers at his church and beyond.

Alongside is Donna, his wife of 58 years. (Donna, R.W. Jr. and his brother Ron and wife Sandra, were members of the Blackwood Singers.)

During leave time, R.W. and Donna are greatly enjoying their two children, 11 grandchildren and 6 great-grandchildren, with two more expected soon....

A book about the Blackwoods would require multiple volumes. They've sung throughout the nation and beyond, appearing before both handful-sized groups and others that would fill largest cathedrals. R.W. cites many reasons for his family's preeminence.

First-generation Blackwoods traveled on horse-drawn conveyances, long before the family criss-crossed the nation in Cadillacs. Then, they had the first-ever customized “tour bus,” followed by a twin-engine plane whose pilot was R.W. Sr. Tragically, he and Bill Lyles, another group member and also a pilot, were killed in an Alabama plane crash in 1954.

The funeral for R.W. Blackwood, Sr. was attended by thousands of friends and fans, among whom was a close family friend, Elvis Presley. (An even larger Memphis funeral was held 23 years later when Elvis died.)....

Presley and the Blackwoods visited often. Elvis always chose to sing gospel songs only, leaving his rock-and-roll performances for other places. Enamored by the Blackwoods' tour bus, he had a similar one customized for himself.

R.W. Jr. fondly remembers his childhood, playing games with the Everly Brothers when they were children.

He cherishes memorabilia of the family, many of whom branched out to join other groups after getting started....

Discovering the Blackwoods were Arthur Godfrey's Talent Scout Show and Ted Mack's Amateur Hour. Then, singing in Shenandoah, Iowa, on KMA Radio – a 50,000-watt station covering much of the nation – helped greatly. Later, they sang at many Billy Graham Crusades.

The Blackwoods have won every award for gospel music, including eight Grammys and seven Dove Awards. His favorite is the Memphis Music Award. They've recorded numerous albums and sold millions of records. They also collaborated with Dallas' Stamps-Baxter Music Company to produce thousands of song books.

Back home in Ackerman, MS, is the Blackwood Brothers Parkway....

Just 11 years of age when his dad died, R.W. had to grow up quickly.

He's grateful for God's many blessings. In recent weeks, he has enjoyed attending Branson theaters instead of singing in them. His son Robbie is a drummer for the popular Clay Cooper Show. Grandson Joey is a singer/dancer in the Cooper Show and a singer in the theater's Elvis Show.

May the Blackwoods continue to brighten our lives....

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Intro to City Politics

Clarendon High School freshmen Zak Roberts, Hunter Caison, and Elaina Estlack met with Amarillo Mayor Cole Stanley last Friday to learn more about city government and what it takes to oversee a large city. Caison reached out to Stanley independently due to his interest in politics and set up the meeting. Stanley was very gracious and took time to answer the students’ questions and told them he has faith in their generation and the future. Stanley later wrote on social media: “It was definitely time well spent. All three of these young leaders are very impressive and way farther along than we were at their age. I love that they aren’t afraid to speak up on these important issues, and they represent our Gen Z generation very well. There’s hope!”

Website helps seniors facing food insecurity

Food insecure senior adults across the Texas Panhandle now have access to a new resource to find food pantry, mobile, home-delivered, and congregate meal options close to home. The Mary E. Bivins Foundation launched SeniorHungerSolutions.com the first of April, which coincides with Senior Hunger Awareness Month. The website not only provides food resources across the region, but also breaks down the number of food insecure older adults by county, providing data that highlights a growing problem within our community.

“Our research found that there are several thousand food insecure older adults living in the Texas Panhandle,” explains Mary E. Bivins Program Officer Jessica Tudyk. “Randall County, for example, has at least 2,593 seniors who lack consistent access to enough food for an active, healthy life.”

The Senior Hunger Solutions project first started several years ago when representatives from the Amarillo Area Foundation, Harrington Cancer and Health Foundation, High Plains Christian Ministries Foundation, and the Mary E. Bivins Foundation gathered to discuss the concern.

“We knew this was a critical issue that needed to be addressed further, so the Mary E. Bivins Foundation committed resources to enable an in-depth study of hunger and food insecurity among older adults living in the Texas Panhandle,” says Mary E. Bivins President and Chief Executive Officer Kathryn Wiegand.

The Senior Hunger Study identified the scope of hunger and food insecurity among seniors in the top 26 counties of the Texas Panhandle, produced a list of resources, and served as a catalyst for discussion and collaboration among organizations already serving the growing food insecure senior population.

“Addressing hunger and food insecurity among older adults is an important part of the Mary E. Bivins Foundation’s mission, so we immediately started working on a way to help senior adults find the resources they need to become food secure,” says Tudyk. “SeniorHungerSolutions.com features dedicated pages for all 26 Panhandle Counties, providing a detailed list of food resources specific to each county.”

“Our hope is to provide senior adults an easy tool to find programs close to home,” says Wiegand. “It is a meaningful step toward solving a problem that affects several thousand of our elderly neighbors.”

Jackson and Sherman Lead Letter to Protect Israel

WASHINGTON —Representatives Ronny Jackson (TX-13) and Brad Sherman (CA-32) last week led their colleagues in sending a letter to Secretary of State Antony Blinken, expressing deep concern over the recent election of Nawaf Salam as the president of the International Court of Justice (ICJ).

The letter emphasizes that Judge Salam has a clear record of bias against Israel and that Judge Salam should recuse himself from any upcoming cases at the ICJ involving the Jewish state. Finally, the letter makes clear that if Judge Salam fails to recuse himself from these politically motivated anti-Israel cases, then the State Department should impose sanctions on him.

“It is abhorrent that somebody so blatantly biased and antisemitic is elected as president of the ICJ in the first place, let alone be allowed to rule on this sham anti-Israel case brought by South Africa against the Jewish state,” Jackson said. “A politically motivated ruling against Israel will set a horrible precedent that poses an international challenge to all states’ ability to defend themselves against terrorism and other threats to their security. Unfortunately, in a pathetic effort to serve as a pawn for the Iranian regime, South Africa has fallen victim to factually inaccurate terrorist propaganda.

“I will not stand by while Israel not only fights for its right to exist but fights diligently to defend itself on the world stage against sham, antisemitic lawsuits being entertained by the ICJ and a Judge who has persistently revealed his deep-seated bias against the United States’ closest ally. Judge Salam, who is incapable of remaining fair and neutral in matters relating to Israel, must recuse himself now. If he does not, then he should be sanctioned. America must continue to stand strong with Israel, and I thank Representative Sherman and my colleagues for joining me in this bipartisan effort to hold the ICJ accountable.”

Cosigners of Jackson and Sherman’s letter include Guy Reschenthaler (PA-14), Neal Dunn (FL-02), Keith Self (TX-03), Andrew Garbarino (NY-02), Anthony D’Esposito (NY-04), Bill Posey (FL-08), and Josh Gottheimer (NJ-05).

NNSA establishes federal office for the Pantex Plant

The National Nuclear Security Administration (NNSA) has established a new field office to oversee operations at the Pantex Plant.

The NNSA Pantex Field Office (PFO) replaces the NNSA Production Office which was previously responsible for oversight of operations at Pantex and the Y-12 National Security Complex in Oak Ridge, Tennessee. The Y-12 Field Office has also been established to oversee Y-12 operations. Both of the new NNSA field offices began operations on Tuesday, April 2.

PFO's mission is to ensure safe, secure and cost-effective operations at Pantex, which is operated by Consolidated Nuclear Security (CNS) for NNSA. Pantex is a key facility in the US Nuclear Security Enterprise and is responsible for the final assembly, dismantlement, and maintenance of nuclear weapons.

CNS will continue to manage and operate both Y-12 and Pantex for NNSA until a new contractor is named for the Pantex Plant. The CNS contract to run Pantex currently extends through September 30, 2024. CNS's contract to run Y-12 currently extends through September 30, 2025, with two 1-year option periods.

Jason Armstrong will serve as the Manager of the Pantex Field Office. He previously served as the NPO Pantex Manager and as the Manager of the NNSA Savannah River Field Office.

Gates, and Allred teamed up for six hits and eight RBIs in their four times each at the plate. Musick also earned five runs in the game and Howard had three. Frausto, Haynes, Williams, Sims, and Gates had two runs each and Braylon Rice was good for one run.

The Broncos scored first in the opening inning, but trailed by one as it came to a close. They rallied in the second placing seven runs on the board and left the third inning with a 12-point lead.

Frausto was on the mound in the game against the Mustangs and went the distance allowing four runs on two hits and nine strike outs. The senior did not allow any runs in the next four innings and Claude did not score until the fifth and sixth innings. By then the Broncos had the game well under control.

The Broncos will play Shamrock at home on April 9 at 4:30 p.m.

Lady Broncos breeze by the Lady Kiowas

By Sandy Anderberg

The Lady Broncos once again completely dominated the Booker Lady Kiowas with a 16-1 win last week with Tandie Cummins getting the win in four innings. Cummins only allowed Booker one hit, one run, with 10 strike outs.

Booker committed 10 errors in the game that the Lady Broncos were able to take advantage of. The team ran the bases well and finished with six stolen bases and 13 RBIs. Kennadie Cummins slammed a line drive to center field for a two-run homer in the bottom of the third.

Several ladies had their bats going. Bayleigh Bruce and Shelby Christopher had a double apiece, and Christopher finished with two RBIs from two hits. Graci Wilkins was on fire as she had a run and a hit with four RBIs. K. Cummins turned three hits into three RBIs and four runs while T. Cummins posted four runs and two RBIs. Graci Smith earned a hit and an RBI and Elyza Rodriguez had an RBI and four runs. K. Cummins had four stolen bases, Rodriguez had two, and Elliot Frausto posted one.

The game with Fritch on Tuesday was close until the Lady Broncos opened it up in the fifth inning scoring five runs. K. Cummins was on the mound and held them scoreless for the first five innings.

Kennadie Cummins earning the win and was strong on the mound throwing 73 strikes in her 101 pitches to 27 batters. She allowed only five hits, two runs, and struck out 12.

After a pitching battle in the first three innings, Rodriguez led off the Lady Broncos' fourth time at the plate with a fly ball to center field that was good enough for a home run. Cummins also had her bat working at the plate. She blasted one to the outfield in the seventh inning with no one on base for a one-run homer to help in the win.

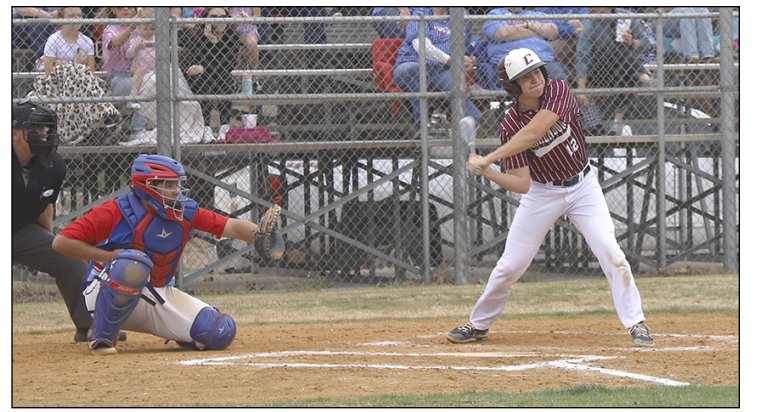

The Lady Broncos will travel to Claude on Friday, April 5.

Farm Credit organizations contribute to wildfire relief

Three regional Farm Credit System organizations have led the way in responding to recent devastating wildfire outbreaks impacting much of the Texas Panhandle and parts of Oklahoma.

Panhandle regional organizations AgTexas Farm Credit, Capital Farm Credit, and Plains Land Bank serve the area most directly impacted by the regional disaster, and they partnered with the Farm Credit Bank of Texas and other Farm Credit System organizations to contribute funds to support extensive recovery and relief efforts.

"No matter how large or small, members of our farm credit family were impacted, including coworkers and customers," said Jeff Norte, Capital Farm Credit chief executive officer. "When tragedy strikes, we come together to try our best to ease heartache, loss, and destruction, even when it seems impossible to rationalize the broken pieces that will mend in time. During good times and bad, Farm Credit is here for agriculture. Capital Farm Credit is here for Texas. Together, we will start to rebuild."

To support agricultural producers and communities stricken by the deadly fires, Texas Farm Credit district lending cooperatives, along with Farm Credit Bank of Texas and other Farm Credit System organizations, pledged a combined $380,000 for fire relief efforts. Pledges will benefit the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association Disaster Relief Fund and county-level efforts recommended by Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service.
