Mayoral candidate filed late in Hedley

The City of Hedley announced this week a clarification to its list of candidates who had signed up for this year's election.

The terms of Mayor Trisha Chambless and Aldermen Clenton Pierce and Aaron Hanes are expiring this year. In the Enterprise's March 5 edition, it was announced that Chambless was not seeking reelection, Hanes had filed as the lone candidate for mayor, Pierce had filed for reelection, and Caylor Monroe had filed to run for alderman.

Since then, Lauren Glover, the new City Secretary in Hedley, says she discovered that Hanes application was filed late and he therefore is not a candidate for any office.

After the new council is seated in May, aldermen will have to appoint someone to serve as mayor.

Lady Bulldogs make the Final Four NMJC ends CC's magic season at national tournament

Clarendon College's Lady Bulldogs saw their magic season come to an end Monday with a 58-53 loss to New Mexico Junior College in the NJCAA Women's Basketball Tournament in Lake Charles, Louisiana.

Clarendon finished the year one win shy of a national title opportunity with a 33-3 record after claiming both the WJCAC and the NJCAA Region V titles.

CC Head Coach and Athletic Director Mark James said he and his team are disappointed but still see the season as successful.

"We are obviously disappointed we aren't cutting down a third set of nets this year, but ultimately, we'll all look back at this season as nothing but an enormous success," James said. "33-3 overall, Conference Champions, Region

V Tournament Champions, the #5 seed in the National Tournament, and making it to the Final Four of the National Tournament speaks for itself."

In Monday's tightly contested Final Four game in Lake Charles, the Lady Bulldogs trailed 34-25 at halftime before rallying in the third quarter, outscoring New Mexico Junior College 17-11 to cut the deficit to 45-42 entering the fourth.

Valentina Chinhama led Clarendon with 18 points, while Zainab Olalekan added 17 points and a dominant 18 rebounds. Eugenia Ngungo and Nuria Muongo each grabbed 10 rebounds as the Lady Bulldogs held a 48-32 advantage on the boards, including 18 offensive rebounds.

Also scoring for Clarendon were Armanda Sindalawa 8,

Ngungo 6, Muongo 2, and Julianna Dada 2.

The No. 16-ranked New Mexico Junior College responded in the final quarter, holding No. 5 Clarendon to 11 points to secure the win. The T-Birds advanced to the NJCAA DI Women's Basketball National Championship on Tuesday for the first time since 2019 to face No. 2 seed Eastern Arizona.

CC had defeated NMJC twice in prior matchups this season, and the Lady Bulldogs thought they would do it again.

"We truly expected to beat New Mexico for a third time this season and win a National Championship," James said. "We came into the tournament with that mindset. We expected to win not just be satisfied with qualifying for it. But like I said ultimately when a little time has passed our entire team will look back at this season as a huge success."

James said turnovers and cold shooting cost Clarendon in the Final Four game.

"Certainly give New Mexico credit, but we picked a tough time to play poorly offensively," he said. "We turned the ball over too much and just couldn't get enough shots to fall. Our defense and our effort kept us in the game. Once we took the lead in the final couple of minutes, I really thought we would finish the game the way we were hoping to. But they hit a couple of big shots, and we just came up one shot or one stop short."

On Saturday, Clarendon's Armanda Sindalawa scored 25 points, including key baskets in the

Clarendon spotlights child abuse

The Clarendon City Council put a spotlight on child abuse before tackling a wide-ranging agenda covering the parks system, the airport, and the dog-catcher's truck during their regular meeting March 12.

Mayor Jacob Fangman opened the meeting with a proclamation declaring April to be Child Abuse Awareness and Prevention Month in the city.

Fangman said there were 33,249 confirmed victims of child abuse in Texas in fiscal year 2025, including 501 cases in Donley, Gray, Hansford, Hemphill, Lipscomb, Ochiltree, Roberts, and Wheeler counties.

The proclamation highlighted the work of CASA (Court Appointed Special Advocates) volunteers who are assigned by a court to speak up to ensure a child's voice is heard and urged all citizens to dedicate themselves to improving the quality of life for all children and families. The full proclamation is on page eight of this week's Enterprise.

In other city business, aldermen appointed Laverne Pinion and Misty Speed as the judged and alternate judge for the city's upcoming election on May 2.

Leasing AED devices was discussed, but no action was taken. Council members directed Administrator Brian Barboza to consult local paramedics to see which locations in the city – specifically the library, City Hall, and the aquatic center – would be the best location for such devices.

Barboza proposed a draft of a parks plan proposal to guide the city over the next two to four years. The plan would cover Prospect Park as well as property on the north side of town the city is acquiring, which currently has some old playground equipment. Alderman Ashlee Estlack said the city needs to get public input and stakeholder input through an advisory committee, similar to the one that guided the construction of the aquatic center – which is also part of the parks system. Fangman said the city will form a parks and recreation committee.

The council approved a resolution authorizing a grant application for plans and survey work at the Smiley Johnson Municipal Airport. This project will lay the groundwork for replacing the runway in the next three to five years.

The council considered a proposal to lease a new truck and ACO box for the animal control officer but opted instead to buy a vehicle outright and make payments back into the city's rolling stock fund.

At the close of the meeting in Mayor's Comments, Fangman spoke at length about conversations he has had with Barboza and City Secretary Machiel Covey, as well as other city employees, about working together and improving working relationships within the city. The mayor said all parties have agreed and are making efforts to "put their best foot forward" for the good of the city and to serve the citizens.

Alderman Estlack thanked the mayor for his leadership and the employees' willingness to work together.

"I'm ready to get back to what streets are next to work on and what waterlines are next and get back to improving our citizens' lives," she said.

First freedoms are unique to the US system

When I teach about the American Revolution, I explain that it initially began as a fight for the colonists' rights as British subjects that later turned into a revolution for independence.

Even among the patriots in the colonies, many believed the British Empire was the greatest and freest in the world, it simply had not granted those same privileges to them.

When the First Congress set out to create our Bill of Rights, they followed suit and based most of our "rules" on British law.

historically speaking by dr. james fink

The Ninth Amendment states that there are other rights not listed, and the Tenth declares that anything not mentioned in the Constitution falls under the authority of the states.

What I have only recently started to consider is that the First Amendment - the one often considered most important - was not borrowed from the British at all. It was an American creation, one that allowed America to surpass Britain as the land of the free.

As the First Congress wrote the Bill of Rights, the members understood most of our rights through the lens of British law. Our Second Amendment, which grants us the right to bear arms, comes from the 1689 English Bill of Rights, which allowed Protestants to keep weapons.

As for the Fifth Amendment, the idea of a grand jury existed in English Common Law before American colonization. The concept of double jeopardy predates British common law and goes back to 8th century BC Rome.

Amendments Six through Eight - the right to a speedy and public trial, an impartial jury, to be informed of the charges, to confront witnesses, the right to counsel, and protections against excessive bail, excessive fines, and cruel and unusual punishment - also draw directly from the 1689 English Bill of Rights.

What you won't find in the English Bill of Rights, however, is anything like our First Amendment. In 1776, the official religion of England was the Church of England.

As for freedom of speech, the English Bill of Rights only protected speech within Parliament. It states that "freedom of speech and debates or proceedings in Parliament ought not to be impeached or questioned in any court or place out of Parliament."

While there was some concept of freedom of the press, publications could still be punished for seditious libel - even if what they printed was true. Truth was not a defense.

So, while many of our rights were adopted from the past, our Founders also envisioned something different, something unique, something better.

In 2023, England led in arrests for online posts with 12,000, followed by Belarus with 6,205 and Germany with 3,500. Just this week, a Finnish member of Parliament was found guilty by the country's supreme court of inciting hatred after criticizing homosexuality from a Christian doctrinal and moral perspective.

According to the U.K.'s Communications Act 2003, a person can be found guilty of an offense if they send a message through a public electronic network that is considered "grossly offensive," indecent, obscene, or menacing.

In a time when America's principles are being questioned from within - and when many challenge the idea of American exceptionalism - it is important to look at other nations we often think of as free.

Our First Amendment is unique. It creates a society where people have the freedom to think, speak, and live according to their own beliefs without constant fear of government control.

Stewardship is job we've forgotten

This week, in talking with some smart people across Texas, one word kept coming up again and again: stewardship. Not as a political talking point, but as a way of thinking about responsibility - about what it means to be entrusted with resources that don't belong to us.

It showed up in the new series I've been bingeing -- Taylor Sheridan's The Madison -- and in the scene Michelle Pfeiffer, who plays Stacy Clyburn, reads from her husband's journal-- played by Kurt Russell -- as he is reflecting on having land and how it was different than owning a building in the city.

The scene spoke to me because it's something rural Texans have understood for generations, whether we've put a fancy name to it or not. Land ownership isn't about possession. It's a brief window of time where something special has been entrusted to our care.

In rural Texas, stewardship is a mindset. You take care of your land so it will last. You don't waste resources because you may need them tomorrow. You respect what's been handed down to you, maybe because you watched your daddy struggle, and you do your best to leave it better than you found it.

Public officials aren't owners of power, but caretakers. They're entrusted with taxpayer dollars, infrastructure, and community stability. That trust demands careful management, transparency, and decisions that endure beyond what we see in front of us today.

Doesn't it seem that somewhere along the way, that understanding has gotten lost? Rather than prioritizing stewardship, we're seeing a growing tendency to use government to drive outcomes - to build bigger, direct more aggressively, and intervene. Even among conservatives, there's more willingness to seek government solutions, from major economic development projects like AI data centers to new regulations shaping community growth and response.

But stewardship asks a different question. It's not "What can government make happen?" It's "What is government responsible for protecting and managing well?" There's a difference between creating conditions for community growth and engineering outcomes. When the government shifts from caretaker to driver, it expands its reach, often in ways hard to reverse.

This is what we should always have watchful eyes upon. In rural communities, we feel that shift faster than most. When the government expands beyond its role, it drains local resources with unfunded mandates and nonsensical demands. It brings distance, complexity, and decisions made

texas rural reporter by suzanne bellsnyder increasingly far from the people they affect.

That doesn't mean I'm saying that the government has no role. It does. But that role is stewardship of public resources: maintaining infrastructure, safeguarding resources, guaranteeing accountability, and creating a stable foundation in which individuals, families, and businesses are able to build a community.

When done right, stewardship is quiet. It's seen in balanced budgets, clean audits, and sensible decisions. It builds trust through consistency, not promises.

Right now, whether or not people use the word, there's a growing sense across rural Texas that this principle has gone missing. What's needed isn't just better policy or ideas, but a return to the basic understanding that leadership isn't about control - it's about care.

This is why I talk about "Dirt to Democracy", which is anchored by the belief that strong communities are built from the ground up by the people and for the people.

Stewardship is where that starts. If we can truly return to those roots - not just in word, but in practice - we won't just address today's challenges. We'll rebuild the trust that makes real progress possible.

Looking at life by numbers, statistics

Whether we bow in reverence to statistics or grow nauseous dealing with the barrage of numbers dealt with daily, most of us value "peace and goodwill" wherever we can find it. Foundational to both is Christian commitment for guidance on life's highway.

The beginning of baseball brings conversations about statistics to the fore. Later in this piece, I will cite an unbelievable former sports star worthy of a one-of-a-kind recognition. The proposed honoree is one Bobby Richardson.

He lives in his hometown of Sumpter, SC. Now age 90, he has been married to his devoted wife, Betsy, for 70 years. They have five children, three of them ministers and another a nurse. Betsy has been ill for several years during which he has provided 24/7 care....

I know. "Service-oriented," real life heroes don't find their way into sports statistics. If such were true, Richardson would be a "hands down" winner.

Old-timers remember this storied major leaguer (1955-1966) as a stellar New York Yankee second baseman. Except locally, few fans knew of his deep Christian faith. Great as he was on the baseball diamond, even more is revealed in his life story.

It is worthy of gold entry into the Lamb's Book of Life....

Unashamedly a "preacher man," his approach to life continues to inspire. He's a pillar in his community, and positively remembered by aging baseball fans in general and Yankee fans in particular.

A spotlight shines even more brightly on his personal life than on the sport he loves; let's turn to the spiritual.

A Christian since childhood, he has survived life's storm-tossed challenges. And, he's had the courage, determination and strength to smile through catcalls from envious critics. Consider this: For all of his deceased Yankee teammates--and most of them are--he has conducted their funerals.

One was for the great Mickey Mantle, a heroic Yankee teammate who accepted Christ on his deathbed, with Richardson nearby.....

On another sports topic, how I wish two combatants could fight to a draw, spending their hundreds of millions of dollars in the process, perhaps leading to infusions of common sense.

I am sickened by most recent major NCAA decisions. They favor perhaps 1 percent of players and coaches, and the rest can but shake their heads.

Having discussed NCAA matters with several friends who are coaches (or have been), I am in no way surprised that ALL of them are critical of what the NCAA has become.

They're 100 percent critical of bloated coaches' salaries, as well as NIL (name/image/likeness) endorsements that makes a small number of athletes instant millionaires before games have begun!....

Shame on the NCAA; instead of "Collegiate," the "C" should stand for "Cash." Disenchantment, generally, is that the NCAA has lost its moorings, particularly with policies that are contrary to the purposes of character development, teamwork, commitment and loyalty; distinctions that used to matter.

the idle american by don newbury

New to the list is gambling. And rapidly-increasing gambling companies now are sponsoring athletic contests. Surprisingly, the NCAA is suing one gambling company, DraftKings, for copyright infringements.

Stay tuned. Maybe--if both sides should run out of money-- a truce could be fostered, then the NCAA might again be true to its name. For some D-1 schools, there's little collegiate about their teams....

Perhaps ignition for unjustified and unimaginable salaries began 44 years ago at Texas A&M University, where Coach Jackie Sherrill signed a seven-year contract worth a total of $1,700,000.

That's petty cash these days for a double handful of coaches, and maybe four handfuls of athletes.

"More, more, more" screams drown out other sounds at major schools--where too many athletes already have too much....

Finally this random notice. Netflix is increasing its monthly charges. Yes, it's but a buck or two, but such announcements come often.

Netflix, of course, is valued by millions.

If the steady increases continue, maybe it should be re-named. How about calling it "GROSSflix?"...

State to test warning systems April 2

The Texas Division of Emergency Management (TDEM) has announced a statewide test of local alerting systems to evaluate effectiveness and functionality of public warning tools.

Donley County residents could receive multiple test messages from different alerting authorities as part of this test, including landline-based emergency notification systems, wireless emergency alerting and Integrated Public Warning systems.

TDEM has begun notifying local partners of the planned drill, which will be held April 2.

"Regular training and testing of public warning systems builds readiness before disaster strikes and is an important component of community safety," said Texas Emergency Management Chief Nim Kidd. "Conducting drills to reaffirm procedures, promote confidence in technological tools, and identify potential shortfalls is key to ensuring these systems operate with precision, accuracy, and timeliness when they are needed the most."

This test of local warning systems is part of TDEM's commitment to working with Texas communities to prepare for, respond to, recover from and mitigate the effects of disasters and emergencies throughout the state.

To create consistency and unified coordination across the state, a designated testing window has been established for local jurisdictions to utilize their primary, alternate and contingency systems, allowing for verification of continuity within alerting local processes.

TDEM has requested participation from designated local alerting authorities, along with local emergency management programs, school districts, primary and secondary education programs, college and universities, councils of government, river authorities, sovereign tribal nations, law enforcement agencies and any other entities with emergency alerting capability.

TDEM has also requested participating organizations share with state emergency management officials an update after completion of the drill with a summary, key takeaways and any relevant details that may provide context about the success of the local system test.

Bats help clear mosquitoes in the 'Wick

He Says – What a great week this has been – The Boys of Summer with the bats are back and our Mexican Free Tailed Bats are back! I just wish I could be as happy about watching the first Texas Rangers games as I am about seeing the bat guano! Every Ranger game my stomach knots up because I know I'm going to see some stupid mistakes and I'll end up yelling at the TV. The bat guano? I just sweep it up and wish they would use one of the two bat houses we have instead of the fake decorative vent on the east side of the house.

She Says – I know some of our friends were a little alarmed about our pet bats, but in six years only two people have said they've had a mosquito bite sitting on our deck. Those blood thirsty little vampire-wannabees eat mosquitos and other insects all night long. Of course, there might have been mosquito bites that weren't mentioned as long as the wine was being poured.

He Says – Remember when we moved to the 'Wick in May of 2019 and discovered that we were "bat blessed," we wondered if this was good, bad or ugly!

She Says – Yes, and it did get ugly a few years ago when you stupidly picked one up with your bare hand!

He Says – Yep, I have to own that! I knew bats have to be vertical to fly and I found this little fellow on the patio and without thinking picked him up to launch him and the ungrateful little blankety-blank bit me on the very tip of my ring finger!

She Says – I still can't believe you actually showed me and confessed what you did. So, as if we don't make enough trips to Amarillo, we started going for rabies shots. That first day I really felt sorry for you. Seven shots! Three in your rear

The Clarendon Lions Club held its regular Tuesday noon meeting March 31, 2026, with Boss Lion Pro Tem Eric Gehman in charge of the pride.

We had nine members present, one attending virtually, Sweetheart Millie McAnear, and five guests this week. We were joined by Christianna Perez, Destiny Rhodes, Courtney Nelson, Valeria Perez, and Mia Wall, who are all employees of The Bridge – Children's Advocacy Center.

The club was updated on the Chance Mark Jones Roar & Run 5K, which will be held April 11. The t-shirt reservation deadline has passed, but sign-ups are still open through the day of the race.

The District Lions Convention will be held in Canyon on April 24 and 25, and the club's annual election is will be held in April.

Sweetheart Millie announced that she is the recipient of the Thoma Scholarship, a full ride to Texas Tech University. Guns up! Millie will also be competing in Dallas soon for the state FCLA contest.

With no further business, we adjourned the meeting and were joined by our Bridge friends in placing pinwheels in front of the Lions Hall to promote April as Child Abuse Awareness and Prevention Month. Remember: "Don't take a Chance on child abuse."

Ellis, Seay headed to Regional golf

Clarendon senior golfers Gracie Ellis and Heston Seay are headed to the Regional Golf Tournament after playing two solid rounds at the District level.

Ellis turned in a 91 at Palo Duro on the first day and finished with an 85 on the second day at the Stoney Ridge Golf Course in Childress. Ellis led her team to a third-place finish in the tournament. Seay played well and posted a two-day total of 162. Seay shot a score of 83 at PD golf course and bettered his score at Childress by four strokes ending with a 79.

The golfers will be back at

Baker named Childress Area Engineer

Jordan Baker, P.E., has been named Childress Area Engineer for the Childress District of the Texas Department of Transportation and will assume his new role beginning April 1.

Raised in Seminole, Baker left oilfield country after high school to attend West Texas A&M University in Canyon, where he earned a bachelor's degree in mechanical engineering in 2018.

Baker joined the Childress District in 2020 as an engineering assistant in the Childress Area Office. He spent two years working as a end and four in the very tip of your finger – that was hard to watch!

He Says – Hard to watch????! Try being on the other end and then have to follow up with shots for four weeks.

She Says – Well, you didn't start foaming at the mouth – except during Ranger games, and you did get a LOT of attention. Sweet neighbors Blake and Carrie gave you a Batman tee shirt that you still sleep in, and people started humming the Batman theme song whenever you came around.

I love it whenever someone asks "Why didn't you wear a glove or at least use a stick?"

He Says – Let's pour a glass and go outside and listen to a little Lyle Lovett.

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Hedley VFD receives tanker

The Hedley Volunteer Fire Department have added a tanker trailer to their fleet thanks to the generosity of the McLean Volunteer Fire Department and the Texas A&M Forest Service. The trailer was on a lease program from the forest service for many years, and McLean was able to transfer it to Hedley. HVFD personnel also trained with the Wellington and Memphis fire departments on SCBA and ventilation exercises. The four-hour course included familiarization of SCBA gear, controlled breathing techniques, theory and practicum of ventilating structure fires, and included hands on practice for firefighters to familiarize with gear and practice techniques learned. Fu Benavidez from the McLean Fire Department was the instructor for the class.

FCIC urges Texans to be careful with gift cards

The Texas Financial Crimes Intelligence Center (FCIC) this week announced the arrest of two individuals connected to a multi-state gift card fraud scheme spanning Illinois, Missouri, Oklahoma, and Texas.

On March 17, 2026, the suspects entered Texas and were identified committing gift card fraud in Amarillo. Following a coordinated intelligence effort between the FCIC's North Texas Field Office and local law enforcement, Amarillo Police Department officers and detectives arrested the suspects within one hour of receiving the intelligence. The investigation confirmed that the individuals had compromised cards at three separate Amarillo locations prior to their arrest.

The Suspects and Charges: The individuals, identified as Colombian nationals currently subject to immigration detainers, are: Brusli Javier Romero Bajarano and John Jairo Giraldo Cortes. Both individuals are charged with felony offenses under Section 32.56 of the Texas Penal Code: Fraudulent use, possession, or tampering with a gift card, gift card packaging, or gift card data. They are currently held in the Potter County Jail, and the case will be prosecuted by the Potter County District Attorney's Office.

Cloning: Gift card cloning is a sophisticated form of organized retail theft where criminals manipulate cards before they are even purchased. The process typically follows these steps:

Tampering: Criminals take inactivated gift cards from store shelves and carefully bypass the security packaging to record the card's account number and hidden PIN.

Resealing: The packaging is meticulously resealed to appear "factory-new" before being returned to the display rack.

Draining: Once an unsuspecting customer purchases and activates the card at the register, the criminals are alerted and immediately drain the balance electronically before the consumer can use it.

The FCIC encourages Texas consumers to remain vigilant when purchasing gift cards: Inspect the Package: Look for signs of tampering, such as excess glue, "crinkled" security stickers, or visible damage to the cardboard. Pick from the Back: Select cards from the back of the display rack or those kept behind customer service counters. Report Suspicious Activity: If you find a card that appears tampered with.

Former CHS coach releases new book

Brad Elam spent twenty-two years coaching high school softball and baseball in small-town Texas. He never made it to the State Semi-Finals. His marriage was falling apart. He was living in an apartment, battling unexplained chest pains he told no one about, and quietly begging God to just let it all end.

Then came his final season. The Perfect Script is the true story of the 2025 Clarendon Lady Broncos — the second-smallest school in the entire 2A Division I playoff bracket — and their historic run to the State Semi-Finals, the furthest any girls' team in school history had ever gone in any sport. It is also the story of a stubborn, introverted coach who spent a decade fighting God's timing and one season finally learning to let go.

The book does not sanitize the journey. Elam writes honestly about a decade-long marital separation, financial pressure, self-righteousness he mistook for faith, and the quiet kitchen moment that changed everything. Running alongside the playoff wins — round by round, against schools twice Clarendon's size — is a parallel story of personal transformation, marital restoration, and a faith that finally moved from intellectual certainty to genuine surrender.

With contributions from his players, his wife, his assistant coach, and the parents who watched it all unfold, The Perfect Script is part sports memoir, part testimony, and entirely true.

"If this book helps one coach stop fighting God's timing, or one marriage survive what mine almost didn't, then it was worth writing," said Brad Elam.

Elam's book is available now on Amazon: <https://www.amazon.com/dp/B0GSC1VX63>.

AARP Texas: Fraud is no joke for older Texans

While April Fool's Day is known for pranks, AARP Texas is warning that fraud targeting Texans, especially older adults, is anything but a joke.

New data from the FBI Internet Crime Complaint Center shows Texans reported about $1.35 billion in fraud losses last year, placing Texas among the hardest-hit states in the nation. Older adults are seeing some of the fastest-growing financial losses, with scams becoming more sophisticated and harder to detect.

AARP Texas is taking fraud prevention directly to communities with free, in-person and virtual events, including: Community shred days to safely dispose of old tax documents, bills and any other sensitive information; Fraud prevention workshops in select cities; and Virtual learning session accessible statewide.

Lady Bulldogs: CC beats Three Rivers, Hutchinson

fourth quarter, as the Lady Bulldogs rallied to defeat Hutchinson Community College 57-54 to advance to the NJCAA Women's Basketball Final Four.

Hutchinson built an early lead behind a 21-point first quarter and held Clarendon to 15 points in the opening period. The Blue Dragons managed just four points in the second quarter but maintained a slim advantage heading into halftime.

Clarendon outscored Hutchinson 20-9 in the final period, erasing a 45-37 deficit entering the fourth quarter. The Lady Bulldogs struggled offensively early, scoring just seven points in the second quarter, but closed strong behind Sindalawa's scoring and defensive pressure.

Zainab Olalekan added 11 points and 11 rebounds for Clarendon, while the Lady Bulldogs controlled the boards 35-32 and recorded 10 steals. Julianna Dada chipped in six points off the bench. Also scoring for CC were Mucongo 5, Chinhama 4, Ngungo 2, Raissa Espindola Da Silva 2, and Camila De Oliveira Posselt 2.

Broncos own Lockney, Memphis

By Sandy Anderberg

The Clarendon Broncos made the game on the diamond look easy as they took down Lockney 11-5 last week. Braylon Rice was on the mound and threw 109 pitches in the game.

"Braylon really controlled the game," coach Aaron Smith said.

According to Smith, Klay Wilkins had a big shot that brought in two runs as well as Hayden Moore.

At the end of the week, the Broncos destroyed the Memphis Cyclones 17-6. The Broncos were able to gather seven runs on three hits in the bottom of the sixth to take the big lead.

Brentley Gaines took over the helm to get the game started and allowed 10 hits and six runs over six innings. Gaines struck out 10 and walked two.

Offensively, the Broncos were unstoppable and were zeroed in on the plate.

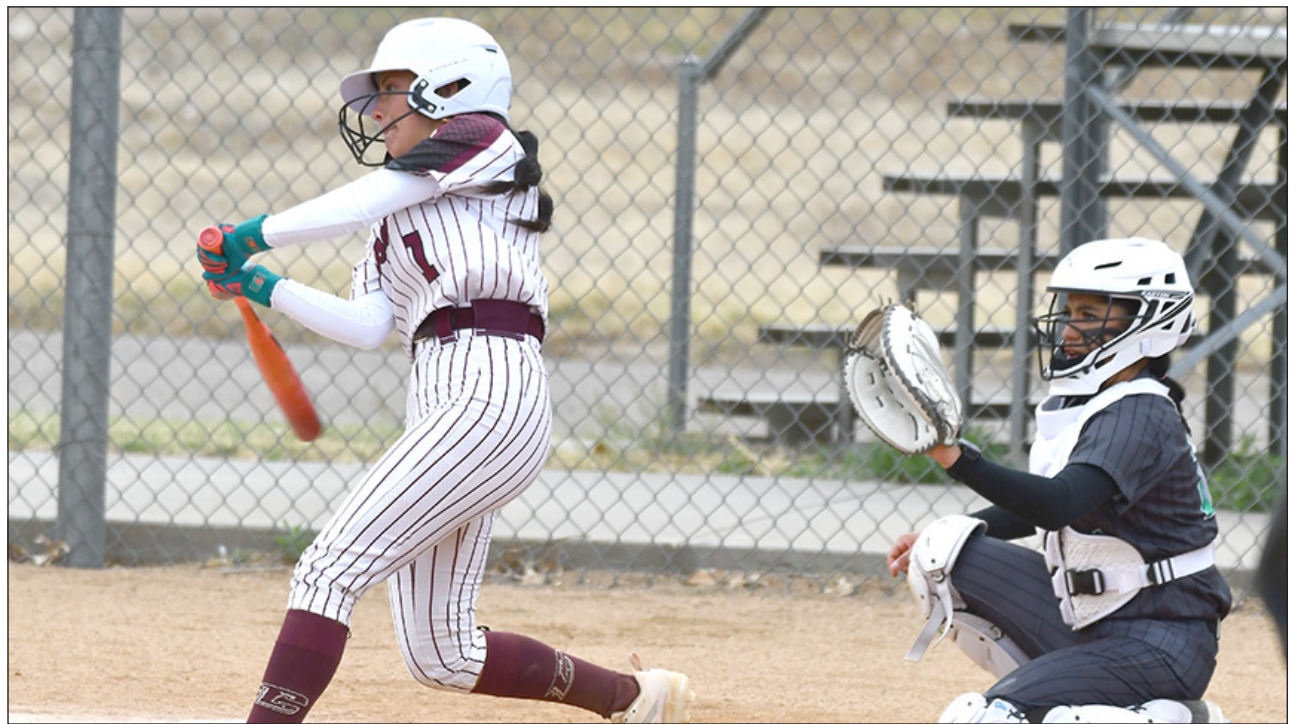

With a good eye for the strike zone, the Broncos were able to get the free first base 12 times while collecting 18 hits in the game.

Dakotah Jameson had good control of his bat and earned three RBIs and Klay Wilkins went four for four at the plate. Kreed Robinson, Shaun Childers, Hudson Howard, Braylon Rice, and Hayden Moore each slammed multiple hits for the Bronco offense. While their hitting was on target, the Broncos ran the bases with determination. They were able to rack up 17 stolen bases in the game catching the Cyclones off guard.

A bright spot in the game was the Broncos' defense in the field. They went the distance error-free with Aiden Burnham leading the way with nine plays.

The Broncos will be in action this week with a game at home against the Floydada Whirlwinds on Tuesday, March 31 and will play at Wellington April 3 as they continue their District schedule.

Lady Broncos fall to Floydada

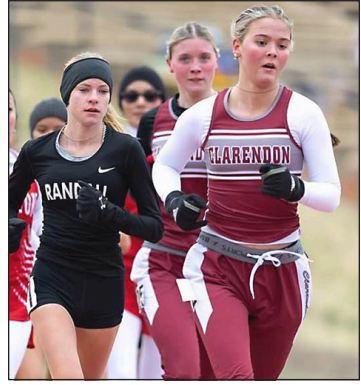

By Sandy Anderberg

The Lady Broncos struggled against a strong Lady Winds team and were defeated 3-21 last Friday.

Laken Smith was on the mound for the team for two innings and gave up 10 runs, eight of which were earned runs, on six hits. Smith was able to strike out five batters but allowed five walks as well.

Offensively, Smith also took control at the plate. She brought in two runs and went two for two on the day. Senior Elliot Frausto also had two hits in the game.

The Lady Broncos will travel to Quanah on April 3 beginning at 5 p.m. and take on Lockney at home on April 7.

Madi Benson

Benson keeps running strong

By Sandy Anderberg

Clarendon High School senior Madi Benson has had a great track season so far and continues to run well in the long-distance events.

Last week, Benson participated in the Amarillo Relays where she faced off against several bigger schools. She was able to run third in the 800-meter finishing with a time of 2:25.46, which was only five seconds off the winning pace from a Randall runner who finished with a time of 2:20.53. Benson also ran the 3200-meter and turned in a time of 13:26.76 for 11th place.

Addy Havens also found her rhythm in the 3200 and finished 17th at 14:15.46, and Lexi Phillips was 24th with a time of 15:59.31.

On the Bronco side, Tristen Ybarra finished ninth with a time of 11:26.32.

The Broncos and Lady Broncos will gear up for the District track meet by running in the White Deer meet April 1. The District meet will be April 9 in Panhandle.

Obituaries

Crump

Ray Crump was born on December 5, 1964—a snowy day his mother never let him forget and loved to tease him about for years. He passed peacefully on March 27, 2026, in Amarillo, surrounded by his family.

Ray was known for his big personality—loud, talkative, and full of life. He had a presence that filled every room, and you always knew when Ray was around. He loved to visit, tell stories, and make people laugh, and his voice and energy will be deeply missed.

Above everything, Ray was a proud and devoted father to his sons, Mike and Chris. He loved nothing more than watching them play sports for the Clarendon Broncos. Whether cheering from the stands or talking about the game afterward, Ray was their biggest fan—passionate, supportive, and always present.

Ray also had a deep love for the cowboy way of life. He spent many years working on ranches and in feed yards across Clarendon and the surrounding areas. One of his greatest passions was roping, and he cherished the time spent doing what he loved most, surrounded by good people and open country.

He was a deeply caring and dedicated husband to his wife, Michael Elizabeth Crump. When she began to lose the ability to care for herself, Ray stepped in without hesitation, becoming her caregiver. He showed unwavering patience, compassion, and love during that time, living out what it truly means to stand by someone through all of life's challenges.

Ray was preceded in death by his father, Morris Crump; his brother, Randy Crump; and his maternal and paternal grandparents.

He is survived by his wife, Michael Elizabeth Crump of Pampa; his mother, Janie Gibson of Clarendon; his stepmother, Linda Crump of Clarendon; his sister, Laura and husband Jason of Amarillo, and their children, Avery and Ethan; his son, Chris Crump of Turkey, his wife, Rebecca, and their children, Keighen, Asher, Carter, and Addie; his son, Mike Crump of Hedley, his wife, Julie, and their children, Kyndall, Waverley, and Rankin; his sister-in-law, Buckie Crump of Clarendon; his stepbrothers, Elwyn and wife Pam of Hedley, Wyman and wife Shonda of Amarillo, and Willie and wife Holly of Memphis; and his step-grandchildren Madalyn and Nolan Phillips of Singer.

He is also survived by many nieces, nephews, and great-nieces and great-nephews.

Ray will be remembered for his big heart, his strong voice, his love for his family, and the life he built doing what he loved. His legacy lives on in the many lives he touched and in the family he loved so fiercely.

Memorial services will be 2:00 p.m. Wednesday, April 1, 2026, in the First Baptist Church in Clarendon with Josey Shadle, officiating.

Cremation and arrangements are under the care of Robertson Funeral Directors of Clarendon.

DHDC to celebrate D.E.A.R Day

The Don Harrington Discovery Center (DHDC) is participating in National Drop Everything and Read (DEAR) Day on Sunday, April 12, with public programming included in general admission or Discovery Center Collective membership.

DHDC will host storytimes throughout the afternoon and encourages guests to snuggle up in one of two reading nooks (the Literacy Corner or Treehouse) to discover a new story or rediscover an old favorite. DHDC's goal is to help promote literacy within the community.

Providing a hands-on, collaborative space for visitors at all learning levels and educational interests is a major part of the literacy initiatives that the Don Harrington Discovery Center values. With the opening of the Literacy Corner, and the Treehouse, which is a reading nook in the second story of the Discover Through Time exhibit, as well as their weekly programs such as Storytime at DHDC, they have been purposeful in working towards this goal.

DHDC is working diligently to increase access to literary resources in the community and to bridge the gap in educational achievement existing in vulnerable communities. Literacy has been shown to impact many aspects of life, including economic status, productivity, healthcare costs, and even levels of involvement with the justice system.

Follow DHDC on Facebook and Instagram for more information on their programs. Information can be found on their website as well.
